WASHINGTON. May 6.—Telegram received. I am happy to tell you that not only am I standing on my original pesition as regards rate legislation, but it seems likely that congress will take this position, too. The Hepburn bill meets my views, as I have from the beginning stated. The Allison amendment is only declaratory of what the Hepburn bill must mean supposing it to be constitutional, and no senuine friend of the bill can object to it without studitfying himself. In addition, I should be glad to get certain amendments, such as those commonly known as the Long and Overman amendments, but they are not vital, and even without them the Hepburn bill, with the Allison amendment, contains practically what I have, both originally and since, asked for, and it enacted into law it will represent the longest step ever yet taken in the direction of solving the rallway rate problem.
