WHITE MEN REFUSE TO FOLLOW THEM Situation Looked Serious for a Short

Time, but the Prompt Action of Chief Briggs Stops the Trouble.

A small strike interrupted the work of the concrete gang on Twenty-fourth street Saturday afternoon. The colored men, who had been employed by Parks, Johnson & Parks at 12 per day, walked out at 2 p. m. because their demand for $2.26 was denied. There had been a clash in sentiment (at least between the colored men and the white men who had been employed) and when the former threw down their tools and wheelbarrows the latter remained at work. The colored men anthered in a bunch and retired to the bank on the west side of the street at a point between Q and P and began to shout "Scab" This incensed the whits men and a general row was threatened. The white men were of the opinion they were not in any way obligated to the colored men, who in many cases had taken the places of whites at the time of the last a new son in his home. labor troubles in South Omaha. The police were notified of the condition of affairs. Chief Briggs visited the scene and at once ordered the colored men to cease their taunts and leave the locality. They hesitated and the chief seized one of them preparatory to putting him under arrest, while the white men looked on with shovels in their hands and their eyes on the rows of convenient brickbats. The expression of determination was enough and the colored men agreed to go after they had been assured of the pay that was due them.

Mr. Parks expressed himself as not pleased with the work of the class of colored men which had been employed. He said they had attempted to run out the whites he had hired and that they were unsteady and required too much watching. He declared he would hire none of the striking men again. They were all paid of last night and told to go.

Teachers Are Enthusiastic.

There was an enthusiastic attendance at the teachers' meeting held at the South Omaha High school yesterday morning. Nearly all the teachers in the city were present. Those who were to take part were all on hand and responded in a manner fully up to the expectations of the audience. The superintendent made a survey of the year's work insofar as it had progressed and commended the work of served, progressed and commended the work of the teachers in every department and grade of the city. WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY.

Notwithstanding the cry of the opposition that the club movement is on the wane, the eighth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to be held at St. Paul, Minn., May 31 to June 7, promises to be the largest in point of attendance and in scope of interest of any in the history of the organization. While there are all manner of rumors affoat regarding propositions of a more or less radical nature to come before the convention, there has as yet developed no real issue. Appended to the call of the convention are several proposed amendments to main, with the exception of two, these are in fact of little importance. It has long been considered that the bylaws were poorly, even awkwardly, worded and the majority of the proposed amendments are to the end of clearer and more concise expression only. There are two really important amendments, however, the first providing for an increase in the size of the board of direcors and the second relating to dues. At present the board includes the seven executive officers and eight directors elected by the convention. Two means of increasing this board of directors are offered, the first by the addition of two vice presidents and the second by having a director from each state represented in the Federation, in addition to the regular officers. There are also two propositions relating to dues. The first provides that clubs of from twenty-five to 400 members shall pay 10 cents per capita annually, and all clubs of over 400 members shall pay $40 annually. The second is that the dues of clubs of twenty-five and fewer than 100 shall pay 10 cents per capita, clubs of from 100 to 200 members $10 and clubs of more than 200 members 5 cents per capita. These amondments should be given careful consideration. At present the dues of clubs of less than twenty-five members is $2.50 a year and of all clubs of over twenty-five members 10 cents per capita. This assessment has been complained of as too heavy by the large city clubs and the argument that they can afford it is offset by the claim that the big city club has all it can do to

The disbanding of five of the departments and a considerable falling off in membership during the last two years has resulted in a scattering of interest and a small attendance at the general meetings that has materially weakened the club and its influence. Because of this scattered interest much depends upon the election of a president who will bring together all factions and all departments. STORY OF A STINGY TEACHER

Parsimonious Indiana Professor Piles

Last Straw on Generaus. Hattor.

In a small city in eastern Indiana there ives a professor who is notorious for his parsimony. One day he stepped into a hat store and after rummaging over the stock selected an ordinary hat, put it on, ogied himself in the glass and then asked the very lowest price.

"But," said the hatter, "that hat is not cood enough for you to wear; here is what you want." showing him one of his best ierbys.

year instructions were issued by Principal A. H. Waterhouse that the funds needed for the encampment this year would have to be subscribed by the cadets themselves and that unless 200 cadets signified their willingness to go the encampment would not take place. As a result of this order the burden rested entirely with the cadets. Each cadet was requested to contribute $2 to this fund in order to defray his railway fare and cost of living while in camp. This end was achieved and $26 was raised by Priday evening. The encampment will prob-ably be held at Hiair. Neb. on June, 7. 8 and 9. A large division of Mr. Nathan Bernstein's "That's the best I can afford, though, returned the professor.

"Well, there, Mr. ---, I'll make you a present of that derby if you'll wear it and tell whose store it came from. You can send me customers enough to get my money back with interest; you know pretty much everybody."

"Thank you, "hank you!" said the pro fessor, his eyes gleaming with pleasure. "But how much may this be worth?"

"The price of that hat is five dollars," replied the salesman "And the other ?" asked the professor. "Three,"

The professor put on the derby, looked in the glass, then looked at the 53 hat.

"I think, sir, that this hat will answer my purpose just as well as the other," said he, taking off the derby and holding it in one hand as he put on the cheap one.

A whipping doesn't hurt a man so much "But you better take the other, sir; it won't cost you any more." "But-but," replied the professor, hesitatingly, "I don't know but-perhapsyou'd just as soon have me take the cheap one-and perhaps you wouldn't mind giving me the difference in cash." Weekly
