WHERE ICE CROP NEVER FAILS

Some of the Phenomena that Result from Low Temperature in Alaska.

Strange manifestations appear in Alaska as a result of the extreme cold; one is the way a fire burns in the stove.
It roars and crackles like a great force, and wood in the stove seems to dance in the flames like a chunk of ice; the wood is gone and we wonder where the heat went. At 40 degrees below, every stovepipe throws out a great white cloud of smoke and vapor, resembling a steamboat in its whiteness, and this cloud streames away for fifty to 100 feet.

Prospectors in attempting to boil a dish of rice or beans upon a campfire unprotected from the weather find that the side of the dish which is in the fire will boil while the part of the dish exposed to the weather has frozen. To remedy this the dish is set completely into the fire.

Exposed tools subjected to this temperature become as hard and brittle as glass and will break as readily under strain.

I have seen a pop safety valve blowing off steam when the weather was below 50 degrees, with iceless which had formed by the condensation while it was blowing off hanging from the outer rim of the valve.
All vegetables, potatoes, apples, fruit, eggs, etc., can be allowed to freeze until they become like bullets. To make ready for use, place them in cold water half a day before using, and the frost will slowly withdraw without injury to the article.

Exposed parts of the body would freeze

In this temperature while going the distance of one block. Mr. Tennant tells of remarkable results obtained by thawing out frozen feet, hands or ears in coal oil, sometimes for four or five hours, and they thaw without leaving any injurious results. The hint from the north may be well worth remembering to those exposed to the severer turns of temperature in our own winters. Of the kerosene treatment, Mr. Tennant says:

"This is absolutely a safe remedy, and one thus escapes the surgeon's knife, as no bad results follow. This is not hearsay, as a man was saved a few years ago at our office by the night watchman who found him in the snow (4 degrees below zero) and both hands frozen to the wrists.

He was taken into the office and treated as above for about five hours, when all the frost was drawn out without so much as losing a finger tip.

"The physicians were amazed, as they thought amputation would have to be resorted to. His hands were as white and hard as marble, and when placed in the oil they snapped and crackled as the oil began to act upon the ice crystals.

"This remedy should be remembered by all residents of cold climates, as it would save many a limb. The temperature of the oil should be about the same as that of the living room (about 50 degrees above zero)."

One has to be careful about touching things with unprotected hands. It is dangerous to take hold of a door knob when it is 50 degrees below zero or thereabouts, with uncovered hands, unless you are careful instantly to release your hold, for if you do not it will freeze your inner pain in five seconds, be very painful thereafter, and the result is the same as from touching a red-hot stove.

Coal oil begins to thicken at 40 degrees below, and at 60 and 70 degrees below becomes as thick as lard and looks very much like lard, or but a very little darker, and can be cut out of the can with a knife the same as you would cut lard or butter. A lighted lamp or lantern left exposed in this temperature will freeze up and go out in eighty minutes. I have not seen gasoline become stiff yet from any of the low temperatures that we have experienced.—Popular Mechanic.
