DUBLIN, May 26 .- (Special Cablegram to The Bee, -Mr. William O'Brien addressed Cork advisory committee at its last meeting. He said that they had to battle their way through many discouragements without any national funds at their back. But the fact remained that the Cork advisory committee was the only body in the country that had exercised any real or salutary; influence upon the working of the purchase act, and he thought the country was now beginning to realize all that might have been effected if they had in every happily, without any perceptible interfer- bad effect upon the discipline and work county in Ireland established a body such as that of men of reasonableness, of fairness, of indisputable representative weight, and if they had the whole organized strength of the league at their back, and of all concerned." if they also had at their back the enormous funds which had been lavished for the last few years on purposes, he was afraid, less beneficial to the farmers and Desires No Change in Present Status laborers of Ireland. He looked with a good deal of interest for the speech made recently by Mr. Redmond at Kilteely, and he confessed he read it with considerable disappointment. He had hoped that a man of Mr. Redmond's great position as leader blegram to The Bec. -- Count Lamsdorff has of the Irish party would have recognized made a report to his majesty on the Turcofrankly the grave position in which that Egyptian conflict and informed the monparty found itself, owing not to any ac- arch that everything is being done, not tion of his (Mr. O'Brien's), but to its own only to avoid a conflict between Russia inaction, not to use any stronger expres- and other states, but to co-operate with sion, and would have placed before the the neighboring powers in maintaining country some broad and statesmanlike pro- peace among them. This is especially the posal to bring Irishmen together and find case in the Balkan peninsula, where Russome remedy for a state of things which, sia's interests imperatively demand the as every man in the country knew, had re- maintainance of the status quo. ain's that day. Pigs and Horses Scarce.

The comparative scarcity of bacon pigu in the fairs and markets of Ireland for sion dealers anticipate very shortly a rise in the price of home bacon. Asked how he accounted for the falling off in the rearing of pigs in the country, ennaldering that the last potato harvest had been a tolerably good one, one of the leading dealers replied that he believed was owing to the large imports of to frish milled flour, left no offal for pig feeding. The price of Irish bacon at present was 2 shillings per hundred less than twelve months ago, and it has stood almost stationary at that figure since Septamber last. In the previous July it was shillings per hundred higher, and in March, 196, it was 2 shillings above the present rates. This authority sold a good deal of Canadian bacon, which, he said, he bought at the same price as Dublin cured and that he preferred to cut up the former, as there was less "shoulder" in it.

The supply of good horses was not at all equal to the command at the Munster fair and the bulk of better class horses found ready purchasers. Agricultural horses were much dearer than at the fair held here January, good ones bringing as high as 5175. Ordinary cabbers went for from $100 to $1%. The supply of hunters was limited and the demand for long-tails was brisk.

Tenants Become Sportsmen.

The most remarkable and the most encouraging passages in the report of the committee of the Irish Game Protection association, whose annual meeting has just been held, deal with the interest which protection on their holdings. The report sets forth that: "Several bodies of tenant purchasers who have acquired the sporting rights on their farms applied to your committee for guidance as to how they might best co-operate in the preservation of game for their own benefit, which advice was readily given, and in addition the association was in some cases able to recommend shooting tenants, who took leases of the sporting rights. Your committee is glad to discern that this spirit of combination to preserve game is some extent screading amongst the new proprietors. The Irish Drapers Assistants' Benefit and Protective association organized a temperance rally, which was largely attended. The principal address was by Rev. Father Aloysius. He said he never uttered words of abuse of the members of the licensed trade, and he did not think much was to be obtained in any cause by indulging in abuse. What he wished to do was to appeal to those present to take steps to safeguard their own interests in apending of their money. He did not believe their country was going to die It was near death, but he believed it would recover, and that they had already reached a turning point. They could help to hasten the time, and if they did so the time would come quickly

As the draft of water on the dock was at the same time only eight feet, the difficulty of towing a huge body of this construction through a narrow channel was sufficiently obvious and the liability to cause delay to the busy traffic of the government's proclamation offering the canal was equally apparent. The magzen's hint that, should the document be signed at Tangier, there is scarcely any necessity for the Italian commission to proceed to Fez. This sudden determination causes considerable surprise in all quarters, but it should be understood that the signing of the document by no means necessitates any immediate effort on the part of the magzen to introduce reforms, from Negro Presbyteries Goes Over After Extended Debate.

DES MOINES, Is., May 28.-The 118th Presbyterian general assembly concluded its business late this afternoon and adjourned to meet next year at Columbus O. The assembly is considered to have been the most important in the history of the church because of the completion of the union with the Cumberland church. The solemn declaration of the consummation of the union by the moderator and the appearance of delegates from the Cumberland assembly were incidents that will be remembered long by the men who came from all parts of the world to advance the cause of Christianity.

The declaration of the assembly in favor of church federation is also considered an important step and it is expected that it will be followed by similaration on the uart of other churches. The movement for union and federation is believed by church leaders to be in full swing and they predict the early union of all Presbyterian churches in the United States,

New Statement of Doctrine. The closing sessions were enlivened by reveral acrimonious debates, one of which came when Rev. Dr. J. D. Moffatt offered resolutions intended to conciliate objectors 11 a. m..... 70 to the recent union. Dr. Moffatt fiashed back that the union is a fact. The resolutions were then adopted. They set forth that for fear some Cumberland Presbyterians may be rejuctant to acquiesce in the union because ern Nebraska for a week there were three of certain misapprehensions which should tornadoes sweeping a length of from ten be removed the following declarations are to fifty miles each. A tornado passed from the relations of communicants, ruling elders and deacons to their own particular churches, nor, except in a few instances, in their selections to their preshyteries and synods. The hope is also expressed that all their selections to their preshyteries may see that greater efficiency in church may be achieved by the union. Question of Color Line Comes Up. The color line was sherply drawn and the time today. The committee on church policy submitted a report recommending the erection of a synod in Alabama to include the presbyteries of Birmingham, Leevere and Rogersville, to be known as the Synod of Chattanooga. The presbyteries in the synod are French Brood, Holston, Kinston and Union. The presbyteries of Birmingham, were damaged. No one was hurt beyond Leevere and Rogersville are composed of shocks. Hall broke many windows and negro churches. The others are composed of white churches.

The purpose of the committee was to eport been aubmitted when Russell Taylor, a negro minister of Leevere and one of the commissioners of the assembly from that Presbytery, took the floor. He violently opposed the proposed synod on the ground that the three presbyteries specified were not numerically strong enough or well enough versed in church law to assume the functions and duty of a synod.

Members of the committee spoke for the erection of the synod, carefully avoiding the race question and emphasizing the claim that each of the three presby teries had asked such action. After spirited discussion, in which the colored commissioner received the majority of the applause it was unanimously voted to refer the whole subject to the as sembly of 1907.

Goremykin in Tribune. The tinkle of President Mourmetseff's bell calling the session to order stilled the house, whereupon, without waiting for further preliminaries, Premier Goremykin mounted to the tribune and began reading the governmental declarations. ally be to do so.

His majesty nowadays placed very unimportant part in Moorish bouties. He shuts himself up in this palace and savior of the world, and sincered entirely by his advisers and often by the least capable of them. He is naturally weary of seeing his undoubtedly good intentions cancelled by the people about him and neems no longer to take any active interest in affairs. Things have in the meanwhile sat stolidly silent and when the premier had finished and bowed to the assembly not a murmur of approval was heard through the house, where the pages immediately began to distribute

This support the government will also extend to the amendment of the franchise law, although it is of the opinion that this question should not be made the subject of immediate discussion, inasmuch as the lower house is only just entering upon its labors and therefore is not yet in a position to ascertain the need of such a change.

Special caution must be shown by the council of ministers in regard to the regulations recommended by the lower house of satisfying, without delay, the needs of the rural population and placing the peasants on a footing of equality with the other classes, of satisfying the requirements of the working people, of framing a measure providing for obligatory elementary education, of making the wealthest classes liable to the payment of taxes, of reorganizing the provincial administration and of introducing a system of self-government with special consideration for the peculiar conditions of

The council of ministers attaches no less importance to the suggested law relating to the liberty of the subject, of conscience and of the press and to freedom of meeting and association. Nevertheless it considers it necessary in preparing such laws to provide the administration with such effective means as to enable the government to prevent of countersot any abuse of the liberties conceded.

With reference to the solution of the agrarian question by the transfer of the crown appanages and monastery and church lands, and by the forcible expropriation of private landed property church lands, and by the forcible ex-propriation of private landed property which includes the private property of peasants, the council of ministers holds it to be its duty to declare that such a method is wholly inadmissible. The govto be its duty to declare that such a method is wholly inadmissible. The government cannot deprive one party of its possessions in order to bestow them upon another. To contest the right of the private possession of land would in fact be to contest the right to possess any private property at all. Throughout the world and in all grades of the development of civil life the inviolability of property constitutes the cornerstons of the welfare of the people and the fundamental basis of the life of the state. The resources still at the disposal of the state and the wide application of legal methods will doubtless help to find a successful solution of the agrarian question without undermining the powers of the fatherland.

No Other Points. The other laws referred to by the lower house touch on the responsibility of the ministers and the abolition of the upper house. The council of ministers does not feel itself justified in entertaining these proposals as they involve radical alterations of the fundamental law and conditions which are beyond the province of the lower which are beyond the province of the lower
