Officials Receive Guests.

The Palace guard, with their white uniforms and shimmering helmets, and a brigade of lancers, with steel breastplates, were drawn up before the station. Awalting the princes were the royal family, the infantus, the captain general of Madrid, tween the leaders brought about a tem the ministers and the ambassadors. The women were bright in summer silks, while the officials and ministers were resplendent with gold lace and decorations.

Trumpet blasts greeted the prince of Wales and Archduke Francis Ferdinand. The former were the uniform of a British general. The princess of Wales was exquisitely attired in a figured silk gown and the archduke were a white uniform of a general of Hussars, with a silver belmet surmounted by a vivid green plume.

The minority report says: "The president having taken the advice of competent engineers and of the Canal commission, has recommended that it is advisable to construct a lock canal." The minority declares that the only question presented is whether congress shall annul the action of the president or shall simply withhold its hands and allow the president to exercise the power which has heretofore been conferred upon him. The canal type proposed by the minority gram.)-G. G. Dennis, commercial agent of the board of consulting engineers is the for the Northwestern Railroad company at lock canal, which is the type favored by Argument of the Report.

construction already made. The central feature of the plan is the dam and locks at Gatun, and the minority says the evidence is overwhelming that the dam will be as firm as the everlasting hills. The testimony of engineers is quoted to refute criticisms of the dam. In answer to objections to the scheme of having locks placed in flight the minority says: "They are placed immediately together, so that a vessel can move from the water at highest level in one lock immediately in the low level of the next lock.

than a single lock."

Curves and Channels. The sea level canal, says the report, will have nincteen curves of 597 degree curvature, while the Suez, of twice the length, has only fifteen curves of 467% degrees. The minority says the length of the curves in the lock level canal is only 15 per cent of the total length of the canal, while that of the sea level is 38 per cent; and while the degree of curvature is greater in the lock canal than the sea level, the curves are almost wholly in channels 1,000, 800 and 500 feet in width, in which such curves have not the slightest effect to increase the dangers of navigation. Concerning the danger to the lock canal from mallcious mischief and attempted destruction in time of war, the minority says there is no reason for supposing that neutrality will not be accepted by all the nations of the earth and that it would be tile most effective way of preventing injury to the canal. It is argued that the sea level canal, with its tidal lock at Sesa, and its narrow gorge through Culebra, would offer excellent opportunity for destruction by explosives. The danger from earthquakes is not treated as a serious one, the report quoting testimony to show that earthquakes are not of frequent occurrence at the isthmus and that violent earthquakes have never happened at that

Estimates made by the majority as to the cost of the sea level canal are disputed by the minority, which declares that the total cost will be about $272,000,600, instead

NO DANGER TO CANAL ZONE Mr. Stevens Says Revolution Would

Not Affect Work on Canal. WASHINGTON, May 20 .- "Although I have little time to look into political conditions in Panama, I do not think there is danger of any serious revolution on the 1sthmus of Panama," Chief Engineer Stevens of the Isthmian Canal commission said today. "The Panama railway was never affected seriously by revolutions on the isthmus, and even if there were to be an insurrection. I do not think the canal mone would be involved in the disorder. Any encounters would doubtless be without the

Mr. Stevens since his arrival in Washington has been in conference with mem bers of the committee, and appeared before the house committee on appropriation. Mr. Stevens urged the desirability of the lock plan, and urged that the commission should know at once what type is to be constructed. Speaking of the future of the canal work, Mr. Stevens said: "We have now come to the parting of the ways and must know what sort of canal we are to build. Just before I left the lethmus the first of the new locomotives and large cars arrived and within three months we shall have the necessary equipment to make the dirt fly. So far practically all the digging which has been done was for the purpose of laying tracks and geiting ready to make use of the large cars and other machinery upon its arrival. Now the plant for handling the dirt is almost ready and a halt must soon be called if it is not PEKING. May 18 -- In consequence of the known whether the canal is to be of the
