Conference Committee Accepts Foraker Amendment to Statehood Bill.

HOUSE WILL STAND PAT

Unless This Compromise is Accepted Upper House Will Be Blamed for Fallure of the Measure.

WASHINGTON, June 1.-The latest mov in the controversy between the senate and the house on the statehood question has just been revealed in connection with the plan to bring in a report from the conference committee tomorrow. This report is to provide for the immediate admission of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory as one state, with the further provision in the exact language of the original Foraker amendment that Arizona and New Mexico shall vote separately on their admission as one state.

This report is to be submitted first to the senate for its action. Should it be rejected. as has been predicted by those who have made a close canvass of that body, the responsibility for the failure to admit Oklahoma and Indian Territory and also the failure to allow the other two territories to themselves decide the question of their admission will be placed with the senate

House Rests Its Case. Should this report fail of ratification in the senate it is believed that the house will rest its case without further action of any senate and not the house is responsible for the failure of action. The Foraker amendment, as it is known.

is the exact provision on which the statehood insurgents made their losing fight in the house when the bill was under consideration in that body.

Speaker Cannon and house leaders who have supported him in his statehood position have carefully considered the present move, and all indications point to the conclusion that they are willing to drop the amendment redrafted today was the one

BURDEN THROWN ON SENATE question indefinitely should the senate ruse to accept this basis of compromise. Senate Against Report.

After it became known in the senate that the conferees had agreed upon the Foraker amendment of a year ago and had abandoned the Burrows amendment cutting New Mexico and Arizona out of the bill, a poil was taken to determine the acceptability of the report. The democrats were unit against receding from the Burrows amendment, unless it should be by the adoption of the Foraker amendment to the bill passed at this session, which would submit the question of admission separately to the people of Arizona and New Mexico at a special election. Only forty-one republican votes were found for the conference report and unless there are further concessions it appears that it cannot be adopted

BATE BILL IS NEARLY READY

Conference Disposes of All Amendments Except Two. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1 .- Only two mendments remained to be settled when the conferees on the railroad rate bill ad journed today and it is expected these will be decided tomorrow. The amendments in dispute are those relating to "Jim Crow" cars and the one prescribing that no hear ings of applications for injuries, setting aside orders of the Interstate "Commerce commission, shall be had without five days' notice to the commission. The latter amendment was agreed to at one time in the deliberations of the conferees, but that action was reconsidered today. The indications are that it will be accepted by the house conferees.

It is said that the "Jim Crow" car amendment is slated to go out of the bill. If the amendment is disagreed to the different kind, after emphasizing the fact that the states are permitted to exercise their own discretion as to the separation of the races, but interstate passengers cannot be in terfered with under the state laws.

Two amendments were redrafted by the conferces. One of these was the pass amendment for which a substitute was offered by the house conferees, and the substitute was accepted. It prohibits the issuance of passes to any persons. It makes no exemption whatever, but is not to take effect until January 1, 1907. The other now provides that pipe lines transporting oil through pipes and partly by rail and through pipes and partly by water shall be common carriers. The "commodity" amendment, which prohibits railroads from carrying any articles it mines, manufactures or produces, was also amended slightly so as to render it less in conflict with the pipe line amendment. The action of the ve the words "in its judgment" and "fairly remunerative" was agreed to by the con-These are two of the important amendments having a bearing upon what was known as the Allison compromise to the rate-making section of the bill.

The conferees agreed that express com panies should be brought within the provisions of the act to regulate interstate commerce, but that palace sleeping cars should not.

SENATE PASSES LIABILITY BILL

Mr. Daniel Will Make Attempt Have Measure Reconsidered.

WASHINGTON, June 1.-The senate to day passed the bill regulating the liability TROOPS of railroad companies for injury to employes, but Senator Daniel gave notice of a motion to reconsider, which if it prevails, will have the effect of again bringing the bill before the senate for considera tion. The remaining time of the open seasion was devoted to a speech by Senator Morgan in support of the American control in the Philippines and to a discussion of the resolution prescribing a policy for the government in the purchase of supplies for the Panama canal. Senator Stone opposed the amendment as useless and attacked the president as weak and wavering in policy.

After a protracted executive session the enate adjourned until tomorrow. When today Senator Aldrich sought to ecure the passage of his resolution giving the president authority to go outside the United States to buy supplies for the Panama canal in case bids in the United States are extortionate and unreasonable Senator Stone took the floor in opposition to the resolution. He based his opposition on the ground that it was useless to pass "No one can doubt." he said, "that the president will buy practically all canal materials in America, no matter what the difference in prices here and abroad may be. In support of this contention he cited the facts in connection with the purchase from the Ward line of two ships for the "The president," he said, "opened negotiations for the purchase of foreign ships, but at the same time the batteries of American ship builders were opened on the president. For awhile-a short while-it really looked as if the president for once at least would stand his ground. But alas! our hopes were vain he was not equal to the task. He hauled down his flag and surrendered. Instead of buying the foreign ships of 6,000 tons each for $550,000 he bought two American ships of 5,700 tons each for $1,300,000. These vessels," said the senator, "had cost not to exceed $600,000 each, and as they had been in service about eight years were worth so per cent less." This he pronounced "a shameful instance of treasury looting. He declared the president's 'weakness' to be a costly thing for the

"And so," Mr. Stone proceeded. "the Macedonian cry comes over from the White House to congress. The joint resolution is the response congress makes to that appeal. Hereafter when the president goes on buying trust materials at trust prices, as he has been doing and would continue to do, whether this resolution should be adopted or not, he can excuse himself on the ground that congress has established a rule for his guidance. He can shelter himself under this resolu tion and unload his sins on congress. That question indefinitely should the senate re- | making pipe lines common carriers. It labor were cheaper and that they had subsequently been strengthened as to improve them materially and really make them a bargain at the price.

Senator Carmack suggested an amendment to the resolution providing that preference shall be given to articles of domestic manufacture when they can be secured as cheaply as others and spoke in be in line with existing laws. He could, he said, see no reason for opening wider the gates of "graft" as the pending resolution would do because there would be no standard for determining what is "extortionate or unreasonable." Furthermore, he interpreted this language as an admission that the government is at the mercy of

Very little open opposition is being offered the Summer gown. These laces range as president, but the women realize that Mrs. Decker's position as president is being made the most of by the opponents of woman suffrage to commit the General Federation against this reform. At a meeting of the Colorado delegation Friday a petition was formulated asking the resolutions committee to table any resolutions pertaining to woman suffrage that might be brought before the convention. Unwilling that the federation should be embarrassed by embracing so radical a movement or that it should decline to endorse suffrage principles, which they all favor, and realizing the delicacy of the position of Mrs. Decker, an avowed suffragist from a suffrage state, they have asked the resolutions committee to keep the question from coming before the convention. The petition will receive the support of the majority of the delegations, Nebraska and lows among them.

Reassures Apprehensive Ones. Mrs. Decker did much to reassure the apprehensive ones Friday morning following the presentation of the civil service report, by her tactful comments upon the subject, which the conservative element has been disposed to regard as touching upon politics. "As mothers and women, it is our right and our duty to interest ourselves in the welfare of the little children, the helpless aged and the unfortunate committed to the public institutions of our states and what we can do to better their conditions in a womanly way is not politics. It is religion," she said. And when a few minutes later a resolution commending the efforts of the General Federation during the next two years to securing the enactment of state laws providing that appointments to managing positions in such institutions be based upon the merit system, it passed unanimously.
