Stand of Their Mayor.

While Persisting in Holding Party Above Public Interest, They Realize Their Luck of Eligible Timber.

Democratic councilmen declare themselves not impressed, but at the same time scared by the speech of his yor Dahi-man Friday night defend his republican appointments and his single-handed

"Still, there seems to be no doubt that the mayor is going to go to the limit to retain City Engineer Rosewater. I suppose he will win, too. It would never do for the council to lay itself open to the accusation that it has tied up public work, such as paving, because of a scrap with the mayor over ap-

"One thing that weakens us in our opposition to Rosewater is the fact that we have no good democratic engineer as a candidate for the place. Any politician or strategist will grasp the big disadvantage of this. It is not good logic or politics to try to keep a man out of office unless you have a strong and acceptable candidate to fill his shoes.

CONDITION OF OMAHA'S TRADE

Lull After Heavy Summer Shipments Making Itself Felt.

BUSINESS LIGHTER IN SEVERAL LINES

Fall Orders for Shoes All in and Rush of Summer Hardware Over-Condition of the Grocery Market.

The slack, incident to the trade of the bot weather months, after the shipments of summer lines have practically all gone out, is just how beginning to make itself felt. Shoe trade is lighter, because of the fact that fall orders have all been placed, and those which are coming in are for sorting up purposes, and of course small. Jobbers of dry goods report trade a little lighter in some lines, and the bardware houses report that the rush on summer goods is abating. There has been a good trade in groceries.

Advance business on shoes is nearly all booked. The market is practically the same as last week. Leather is firm at the same as last week. Leather is firm at the same as last week. The rush of the trade on summer goods in the hardware houses is abating, but business is still more than good. The jobbers report no changes in prices for the week. The business in builders' hardware, which has been enormous all spring, is still keeping.

In homor of her daughter-in-law. Mrs. Arthur Keeline of Omaha, Mrs. George A. Keeline. 129 Park avenue, gave a reception Wednesday afternoon. Those in the receiving line were Mrs. George Keeline. Mrs. Patton and Miss Keeline. The main rocous were tastefully decorated in a profusion of June roses. In the dining room a green and white color scheme was carried out. The punch was served by Miss Beno and Miss Kirkendal of Omaha. Those assisting through the rooms were Mrs. Spencer Smith, Mrs. George Camp. Mrs. Hallenbeck and Mrs. Frank Pinney. Over a hundred invitations were lesued.

further advance in cotton is almost sure to carry prices of muslins still higher. Paints, Oils and Glass.

Trade continues good in all of these lines. An advance has been made in glass by the manufacturers, but no change has been made by the jobbers, although prices are expected to go higher most any time. Carter's lead is quoted at 6½c, while southern is 7%c. Turpentine has dropped a cent, now being quoted at 65c. Linseed oil remains unchanged, boiled being 41c; raw, 29c.

Remarkable Fish Business.

Although the manager of a wholesale fish concern in Omaha is reported to have said that the demand for fish and pouttry has greatly increased since the packing house scandal, the wholesale grocers say they can see no difference in the demand for fish. At the same time they declare there has been no falling off in the call for tinned meats, but, on the other hand, a decided increase in the business on this article has been noted. A wonderful run of fish orders has been experienced all spring and thus far into the summer, and there is no indication of a falling off. Prices are practically the same as they have been for some time, with the exception of white fish, which is a little easier. The decline is only temporary, as few fish are being caught, and it looks as though the market would go higher.

Coffee the last week has ruled about '4c lower than the previous week. Advice from New York the last of the week spoke of a little firmer feeling. Trade is good in the territory of the Omaha Jobbers and the demand seems to be for a better grade of goods. The coffee man of a leading grocery house is authority for the statement that the people of this part of the country are buying 20 per cent more of the higher grades of coffee than they were buying a year ago.

A substantial advance in syrup took place a few days ago. This was due to the strong market in corn and the exceptional demand for syrup at this season of the year.

very slow to undertake replanting. Spot corn has also held firmly with nothing obtainable of good quality below 50c factory. Again the market on canned tomatoes has been advanced on futures 2½c perdosen, both in Maryland and Indiana. The Indiana price would make the cost on goods to the Jobber today not less than 57½c perdozen. Under present conditions, the jobber is not justified in selling tomatoes below $1.07½g$1.10. Good rains have fallen in Maryland, so that growers are feeling is little more easy about their crop. It is believed, however, that it will be impossible for them to make a very heavy pack this season, because of the delay in getting their plants well started.

The sardine packers of the Maine coast have gone into an association, by which prices are controlled. Under an agreement they have advanced prices on 4, oil 30c per case and on % mustard 15c per case. Nothing is obtainable on a lower basis.

Spot peas are exceedingly well cleaned up. Nothing but the higher grades are now left in the hands of packers, and the jobbers stocks are smaller than they have been for years. On futures the unfavorable conditions in Maryland and Virginia, together with the drouth in Indians and frost and drouth together in Wisconsin, have all conspired to make the packers very wary and it is almost impossible to get a price out of them. line has grown more rapidly in favor than canned peas.

The situation remains strong on spot dried fruits of every kind, with the possible exception of peaches. There is a little disposition on the part of some jobbers to cut loose on peaches, but evidently it is on stock that will not carry, as the opening prices are considerably higher than the prices are considerably higher than the prices at which they are offering now. The situation on future dried peaches is a peculiar one. The growers are so independent that they do not care to sell, preferring to hold their goods until they see just what they are going to have and how the market will develop.

The rice market is in good shape, with almost all the mills out of the market Higher prices seem probable both on Japa and on head rices.

They were: Frank Davis, Ruby Heft, Violet In one of the heaviest growing sweet corn sections of lows the excess of moisture has rotted a considerable amount of the acreage. The situation is not anything like as promising as the canners would like to see it, as it is now too late to replant and too late to secure additional acreage. While the canners might like to replant, the growers can see much better returns in field corn, with the chances that they have taken on the crop. They are, therefore,
