MORDECAL BROWN, ONE OF BEST

Ex-Omahan Justly Estimated by Bobby Wicker, Who Knows. "There is one pitcher in the National league," said Bob Wicker, the new Redieg, the other day, "who is not ranked so high as his performances warrant. Scarcely anybody realizes what great work Mordecal Brown of the Chicago Cubs has been doing for a long time, and still is doing. It is an almost unknown fact that Brown has won twenty-six out of the last twenty-nine games he has pitched, a truly wonderful record. If Mathewson or Rube Wadell, or some other spectacular character, nine games he has pitched, a truly wonderful record. If Mathewson or Rube Waddell, or some other spectacular character, had done the same thing, or anything near as well, he would have his picture in every paper in the country and everybody would refer to him as "The Great." Brown got an unlucky start with the Cubs last season, toning eight of the first nine games he pitched. That must have given people the idea that he isn't the goods, for his great work since then does not get the approchation it deserves. After that had start Brown, undiscouraged, pitched remarkable balt, winning afteen out of the last sixteen games he worked in during the latter part of the season of 1966. This year he began where he left off last fall, and he has to date won nine games and lost only two. So, of twenty-nine consecutive games pitched he has won twenty-six, which is one of the greatest runs ever accomplished in the big league. Brown, as you know, has only three flagers on his pitching hand. His right foreflager was lost in an accident when he was a mere boy, and before he started to play balt. I suppose that if a pitcher lost that finger after he had been playing some years it would put him out of the business. But Mordecal does not assen to feel the lack of the member. He has everything that any other pitcher has, and then some. His control is always perpitcher lost that finger after he had been playing some years it would put him out of the business. But Mordecal does not seem to feel the lack of the member. He has everything that any other pitcher has, and then some. His control is always perfect and he is the possessor of unlimited herve. BEFORE THE PEOPLE'S BAR

Kansan Refuses to View the Fleet of Battleships on the Missouri.

SOLICITOUS FRIEND LANDS IN JAIL Ronest Son of the Sail from Sunflower

State Doubts Fleet's Presence. Also His Informer's Good Faith.

H. F. Wolters of Atwood, Kan., was an interesting witness before the people's bur Tuesday morning. The Kansan testified against P. L. Dixon, arrested by Patrolman Hudson on a charge of being a suspected person and was arraigned before the police judge for vagrancy. Dixon pleaded not guilty and had his case continued to Wednesday morning.

Dixon wanted when he met Wolters Monday evening, to show the stranger a fleet of United States battleships supposed to have anchored at this port for participation in the coming Fourth of July celebration. Wolters said he saw several battleships at St. Louis during the exposition and on that occasion fully satisfied all desires to see floating engines of war. Being a man of peace, Wolters said, he found anything suggesting war distasteful to him.

Wolters, who is an honest-appearing young man of the soil, told his story in the police court. While strolling around Union station Monday evening, watching the long trains of railroad cars coming and going and thinking of the quiet lanes and laddles of Atwood, Wolters met Dixon. With a heart unattuned to the wiles of wrongdoers and a perspiculty born of a good country education. Wolters fell in with Dixon, became confidential, but did not take kindly to the idea of going down 0-2 to the river and viewing the ficet of battle-

Dixon told Wolters the shins had been ent here for people to see, and when Dixon found he could not entertain the Kansan on board ship he suggested they walk around and buy some cigars.

Dixon showed Wolters a "seven miles to next cigar store" sign after the two suspicious and both then returned to the station, where Patrolman Hudson watched the pair. As the policeman started for Dixon the latter started to get away, but was caught and sent to the city jail. The police believe Dixon is a professional confidence man.

Wolters said he did not believe a fleet of battleships could anchor here.

John Brennan of 709 North Sixteenth street, arrested by Patrolman Crowe with Louise Brennan for disturbing the peace by fighting, was sentenced thirty days by the police judge Tuesday morning. The woman was discharged. The finding of another man's hat in his apartments was said to have put Brennan in a jealous rage, which gave expression in corporal punishment on the woman. When the officer came for Brennan he mounted the roof of his apartments and from his vantage point defled the law. The policeman secured a ladder and arrested Brennan on the starlit roof.

Charles Triem has been discharged in the police court after a settlement with his grandfather, D. Schull, from whom Triem was said to have stolen $65, Schull. an aged farmer living near Elmwood park. was not inclined to prosecute if the money was returned.

CITY LOSES ON BOND DEAL Comes Short Seventeen Hundred Lollars by Reason of Litigation and Release.

As a result of litigation and subsequent release by the council of J. L. Brandels & Sons from liability to purchase, the city has lost the sum of $1,724.20 in the sale of the new $60,000 fire engine house bond issue. Last December Brandeis & Sons bid $2,487 for the bonds. Monday Blodget Merrit & Co. of Boston offered $712.80. the highest proposal from five out-of-town houses. The issue, which is to run twenty years and bear interest at 4 per cent, will be awarded to the Boston firm, if the transaction is approved by the mayor and council.

The bonds were authorized by popular vote to build new fire engine houses, one at Twenty-fourth and Cuming streets to replace an old structure, and a new one in the Fifth ward. The bids December 15 were many and high, the second lowest being that of the United States National bank of Omaha, $2,161.40. Award was made to the Brandeis bank. Shortly afterward litigation was started to test the validity of the bonds, the name of a woman appearing as plaintiff. The case was carried to the supreme court and decided in favor of the city. A few days before the decision was handed down J. L. Brandeis & Sons made application to the old council to be released from their purchase and have their guarantee check refunded. The council complied.

"I consider the bid high, in view of the present state of the money market," said Treasurer Fink. "After July 1, however, money should be easier, and perhaps if the sale took place then we might get arger premium.

MORE TIME TO BUILD SEWER Nearly Year Extension Given South Omaha and Stock Yards Company on the Job.

The city of south Omaha and the Union Stock Yards company were granted an extension of time until March 1, 1907, to build a sewer large enough to relieve the unsanitary condition of "Stink" creek, which has been used to carry off most of the refuse from the yards. The additional time was granted them Tuesday morning by Judge Kennedy upon a showing made by City Attorney Fleharty of South Comaha.

About a year ago a mandamus issued from district court upon application of Guy C. Parton and a number of other property owners along the creek, directing the city and stock yards company to enlarge the sewer so that the refuse now going down the creek could be turned into the sewer They were given until April 1 to do this in order to carry out its part the city had to vote bonds, but the people at the first slection refused to do this. The bonds were voted at a special election held February 13, too late to have the sower constructed within the time required by the court.
