

TEST OF GRAIN CONTRACTS

Unless Compact Between Railroads and Elevators Are Breakable There is Trouble. MATTER WILL BE PUT TO EXPERIMENT

Local Traffic, and Grain Men Are Considerably Aroused Over This and the Action at Chicago.

The Chicago special telegram to the Bee Saturday morning conveying the information that the railroads, except the Union Pacific, would abolish the payment of elevator charges at all points, has created quite a stir in railroad and grain circles.

The resolution was provisional upon certain railroads being able to break contracts which they have with elevator concerns, just as the Union Pacific has with the Omaha Elevator company.

Union Pacific Not Invited. Union Pacific officials claim they were not invited to participate in the meeting held, as their case has been adjudicated by the Interstate Commerce commission and they are acting within the law as laid down by the ratemaking body of this country.

The Union Pacific's position on this elevation business is unique as compared with that of trunk lines leading to the east, said a leading traffic official of the Union Pacific Saturday.

Fight for Business. "This terminal storage in earlier days was required and the elevator allowed justified. In later years elevators have fallen fast in this Omaha gateway and it looks as if the grain crop was not large enough to go around. They are all seeking to pull grain into their houses here, which results in interrupting and delaying grain for trunk lines rather than hurrying it out to the market in the original car.

Change would throw the grain business up in the air for a time, but as one man said, "If the elevators enjoying rebates from the Union Pacific would simply pocket that profit and not use the leverage to effect the market the effect would be nil. Peck and Cowell, as head of the Omaha and Transmississippi elevator company, now have an edge of 1 1/2 cents over other dealers and always will have until the Union Pacific company quits paying elevation."

When he found himself under arrest for sleeping McNear declared the force to be sufficient for all purposes.

With a footage of over 1700 feet on the River, half way between the great Bridges which join New York and Brooklyn, the Arbuckle's establishment is one of the show sights of New York. In millions of homes in every section of this country Arbuckle's ARIOSA Coffee is the only coffee used, almost the only drink except water; consequently the name of "Arbuckle" has been most familiar to the people during the last 37 years, there being no other trade-marked article so widely distributed or in such universal demand.

The test of superiority has taught the careful mother that buying ARIOSA Coffee not only means money saved but that she is actually supplying the best coffee for the coffee drinkers of her family. By the original "Mother's" process patented by this firm, the pores of the coffee are hermetically sealed after roasting with a coating of fresh eggs and granulated sugar which holds the "goodness in," and preserves for you intact wherever you may be, the delightful aroma and flavor due to our skilled blending and roasting which are not to be compared with crude and primitive methods on a smaller scale.

ROBINSON SHOW IN OMAHA

Oldest Circus on the Road Comes After Twenty Years' Absence.

Twenty odd years ago there came to Omaha a wagon show, at the time the largest wagon show on the road, and then "overland" was the mode of transportation for all circuses. The wagon show that made Omaha over two decades ago was the John Robinson circus. It was then past sixty years of age, having started in 1821, with three wagons and a trick mule, at Canandaigua, N. Y. It steadily grew year by year, and today, in its eighty-fifth year, it is the oldest and wealthiest, and as to performance and wild animals stands without a peer. Governor Robinson's son, John G. Robinson (John II), is manager of the show.

A feature of "Sunday on the lot" will be preaching by Rev. W. H. Ebeak, the Methodist Episcopalian minister, who travels with the circus, preaching to show people and public and lecturing on the animals every day. Today will be bath day. The horses will be scrubbed, the baby ponies swung in hammocks and fed from the bottle, and the elephants will be taken to the river for a swim. Lovetta, the snake enchantress, will sun three of her monster pythons and box constrictors for the purpose of quickening their shedding. One of her largest snakes, a twenty-four-foot anaconda, escaped a week ago at Mount Pleasant, Ia. "It was last seen," says Doc Waddell, the press agent, "between here and Atchison."

A telegram from New York that the largest elephant in the world had arrived here and would probably reach Omaha today. It is twelve feet high, weighs six tons and is the mother of "Jumbo." Its name is "Basil." She has a bad tooth and if she comes in time elephant dentistry will be in order on the circus lot this afternoon. Her tooth will be filled with gold. The street parade will be at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning. The performances will be at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. tomorrow night. Doors open at 1 p. m. and 7 p. m. Seats for 20,000 people. The choice seats are real chairs, arranged as a portable grand stand.

MOISE AND HAYWARD WIN

Whisky Dealers Get Verdict in Case with Government Covering Three Years.

The jury in the case of the United States against Moise, Hayward & Co., came in with a sealed verdict Saturday morning in favor of Moise & Co. in the federal court. The suit was one in the matter of the seizure of seven barrels of whisky by the internal revenue department about three years ago because of the contents of a less quantity of liquor than indicated by the revenue stamps thereon. The general contention of the defendants was that the government had not been defrauded, nor was there any attempt to defraud, and, further, that the cubical contents of cases of liquor varied from one to two gallons, though of the same estimated capacity, through absorption, evaporation and leakage while the casks were sealed. It was admitted by one of the government witnesses that the government agents used in the measurement of the contents and capacity of casks varied in a trifling degree. Upon the announcement of the verdict the court directed that the seven barrels of whisky heretofore held in seizure by the government be restored to the defendants.

TOM SLOAN AGAINST FINCH

Ex-Commissioner Will File Charges Involving His Accuser.

ANOTHER INVESTIGATION TO BE ASKED

Sloan Declares Finch, Who Worked Up Case Against Him, Had Personal Animus in So Doing.

As an outcome of the dismissal of the case against former United States Commissioner Thomas L. Sloan, wherein he was charged with falsifying his accounts while commissioner, and for which Mr. Sloan was anxious to go to trial, it is said to be possible Special Inspector Finch of the Department of Justice may have to answer the charge of malfeasance in office.

It was Inspector Finch who worked up the case against Mr. Sloan and which ultimately resulted in Sloan's indictment by the grand jury of 1904. Sloan subsequently resigned his office as commissioner and was succeeded by Commissioner Singhaus. The offense of which he was charged is alleged to have taken place in 1902 and merely involved certain allowances and fees in one or two cases, which Finch's report alleged were unlawful, and amounted to but $18.45. Mr. Sloan had been anxious for a trial of the case, but it was put over from term to term on account of the absence of material witnesses, ostensible the principal accuser, Inspector Finch. In the meanwhile Mr. Sloan, smarting under the censure upon his character, has been doing a little investigating on his own hook, with Inspector Finch as his special quarry. He was unwilling to produce this evidence against Finch until his own case had been disposed of and he preferred that it should be disposed of by process of regular trial. It is now the intention of Mr. Sloan to prepare his charges against Finch and demand an investigation from the Department of Justice. Mr. Sloan said in reference to this matter:

"It is true I shall prefer charges against Finch. But further than this it would not be prudent for me to say anything just now. I do not propose to rest under the stigma of the aspersions of Inspector Finch against me and I think I can show the animus of the charges which I have been given no opportunity up to the present time to refute. The matter would have been taken before the session of the grand jury just ended, but up to the time of the adjournment of that body the case against me had not been disposed of."
