

LARGEST OF BANK DEPOSITS

Thirty-Seven and One-Half Million Dollars in Omaha Institutions. NEARLY FIVE MILLION OVER LAST YEAR

Increases in Deposits and Loans Shows Unbounded Prosperity of Nebraska's Metropolitan and Tributary Territory.

Deposits of Omaha National Banks. May 29, 1906, $42,469,588.53. June 14, 1906, $47,524,311. Increase, $5,054,722.58.

The largest deposits in the history of Omaha's banking business are shown by the statements of the national banks of the city, issued June 13, at the call of the comptroller of the currency. They exceed by $28,407,113 the enormous total of $17,254,041.89 for the statement of August 23, last year, which was the record to that date.

From the fact that deposits are always larger in August than any other month, it follows that a new record will be established at the next call, which presumably will come in August, or early in September.

Deposits increased $2,228,555.55 over the last statement, which was issued April 6, and $4,978,038.58 over the statement of May 29 of last year. Loans and discounts increased $1,897,743.37 over the previous statement, and $2,539,508.62 over last year.

The comparison is a most favorable one, said W. E. Shepard, cashier of the Nebraska National bank. "It shows a remarkable increase in both deposits and loans over last year, telling of prosperity for the banks, which is only a reflex of the prosperity of the state at large and of other territory tributary to Omaha as a financial center."

The tents in the parks are still being used by thousands, temporary buildings have been erected by some and the buildings that were not destroyed are crowded. The people are full of energy, determination and good cheer and there is no doubt in my mind but that a greater and finer San Francisco will rise on the ruins.

INDIAN OFFERS TO PAY FINE

For the first time on record in the federal court at Omaha an Indian has offered to pay his fine instead of serving it out in jail. The Indian in question, Joseph Johnson, the Indian name, was tried on the charge of introducing liquor into the reservation and sentenced to serve six months in jail and pay a fine of $100 and costs, amounting to $130. His jail sentence expired Thursday. Instead of starting on another thirty days to satisfy the fine, Johnson announced that he wanted to get out of jail as soon as possible and resume his happy life on the reservation. Informed of the means of getting out, he immediately sent to his relatives on the reservation to send him $130. He expects to pay his fine and return to his home Friday.

NEW KEY RATE FOR OMAHA

Basis for Determining Fire Insurance Schedules Brings Representative to the City. E. R. Townsend, a representative of the Western Insurance union, is in Omaha making observations and investigations to determine a new 'key rate' for fire insurance schedules in Omaha. This is, so to speak, a separate and apart from the advances in classifications and is the backbone of all the rate-making. Whether or not the new key rate will be higher or lower than the present Mr. Townsend told inquirers he could not say. His investigations go into the matter of freighting, wiring, business construction, water mains and hydrants and fire department protection, and are confined to the business districts.

"I look for a higher key rate, possibly, and certainly no lower than what we have," said a man in touch with the situation. "The insurance companies have got to have the money to make up for the San Francisco losses; that's all there is to it. In the end it means a golden era for the companies, for it is much easier to let the rates remain advanced than to tear them down. Of course efforts will be made to reimburse for the losses in an equitable manner, but the cost will fall just the same."

Only three of them have done so thus far, and Mr. Haverly has decided whether there is a contest he must rotate the names under the mandamus issued by the district judge.
