SALE OF FORTY ELEVATORS

Reports Say Nye-Schneider-Fowler Bought Out Central Graneries Plant.

MOST IN THE SOUTH PLATTE COUNTRY

One Grain Man in Omaha Doubts the Story Because of its Relation to Railroad Situation.

Reports are current to the effect that the Central Graneries company of Lincoln has sold to the Nye-Schneider-Fowler company of Fremont, transferring its terminal elevator at Lincoln and its forty line elevators along the Burlington, most of them in the South Platte territory but a few north of the Platte. Some local elevator men profess to have no information on the subject, but advice comes from Minneapolis and Chicago that grain men there know of the transfer.

Such a trade would bring the Nye-Schneider-Fowler company to an equality with the Updike Grain company in point of number of houses, the latter house having forged to the front some months ago by the purchase of the Ferguson line of elevators, seventy-five in all. It would give the company two terminals, one on the Burington at Lincoln and one at Omaha, which is being built to receive the grain from the Northwest. The Updike company has two terminals similarly situated.

A local elevator man said he heard a rumor three weeks ago that the transfer had been made, but it had been denied in his presence by an officer of the Central Graneries company.

"I am inclined to think the report is unfounded," he said. "No railroad wants an elevator company with divided interests along its line, and the Burlington would not want to transfer the leases for the ground on which the Central Graneries elevators stand to a concern which has houses along another road. Updikes managed to get a similar deal through, but they had trouble in getting the leases transferred. I believe that success in getting the leases will put the railroad company on the lookout to forestall such an elevator trade."

In connection with this report it was said this transaction might put an end to the building of the new Nye-Schneider-Fowler elevator in Omaha, but the work on this structure is still in progress.

DELEGATES OF THE EAGLES
Twenty-One Men Appointed by Omaha Aerie to Attend Convention Next Week.

At their meeting Thursday night the Omaha Eagles appointed twenty-one delegates to attend the state convention, which meets in South Omaha on Monday and Tuesday. The following were named: John J. Ryder, W. H. Dunn, Joe Starr, Harry Aster, Dan Cannon, James T. Sills, Joe Schreiber, Sam Scott, Dr. D. H. Lee, Dr. A. M. Riley, Dr. M. J. Ford, W. H. Messick, Hugo Bils, J. A. Bronson, C. W. Britt and Past Presidents Tuohill, Brown, West, Althaus, Christie and Ritchie.

Grand Worthy President M. D. Davis and wife of Cleveland, O., will arrive in Omaha Sunday to attend the convention. They will go to the Eagles' picnic at Benson Sunday and will be at the convention Monday. Mr. Davis will help organize the state aerie during the day and Monday night will attend the banquet at the Exchange building. Tuesday he will be with the convention until it closes and will attend the smoker at the Ancient Order of United Workmen hall, South Omaha, Tuesday night. Wednesday he will visit the aerie at Council Bluffs, and Thursday will go to Des Moines to organize a state aerie. He will be the guest of J. M. Tanner while in South Omaha.

BALDWIN WILL TALK LATER

General Solicitor of Union Pacific Refuses to Argue with Stickney Now.

PREFERS TO TRY THE CASE IN COURT

Says Great Western President Insinuates in Saying Trial Was Not Thorough and Reflects on Union Pacific Officials.

John N. Baldwin, solicitor for the Union Pacific, refused to make a statement in reference to the charges made by President Stickney of the Chicago Great Western in his address before the Commercial club Tuesday noon, saying: "It is the policy of this department not to speak in the press or in town meetings, and although the provocation is great, we will not step over the bounds this time. The officials of this road are willing to rest on their reputation for fair dealings before the public bar until such time as this case again is brought up in court, which it may be according to the statement of Mr. Stickney. We must rest on our reputation until that time, for if what Mr. Stickney says is true, the officials of this road are nothing more than a band of criminals."

Mr. Stickney has presented no new facts, but simply reiterates the arguments made before the Interstate Commerce Commission when the former case was tried a little while ago. At that time the matter was brought up by the commissioners themselves and thoroughly investigated and declared perfectly legal. It is somewhat of an insinuation on the part of Mr. Stickney when he says the case was not thoroughly tried at that time, for some of the best legal talent in the world was arrayed against the Union Pacific, and the Attorney, the Burlington and other roads pushed the case for all it was worth.

"The case will be tried in court, and at that time I will have my say, but until that time I do not care to discuss it."

BEER NOT CHURCH BEVERAGE

Argument Made by Miss Thomas Does Not Quite Go with Commissioner.

Ollie Thomas, colored, of South Omaha, was given a hearing before United States Commissioner Anderson Friday morning in answer for selling beer during a festival given at her home several weeks ago, without a license. Miss Thomas insisted it was for the good of the community, and a small fee was charged. The beer was merely an incident and didn't go in with the cost for the sandwiches. One or two witnesses, however, had the temerity to testify that they were not sandwich hungry, and let their nicker contributions apply on the beer, of which they quaffed several steins.

Judge Anderson was of the opinion that beer is not the customary beverage used at church festivals and that the appearance of Gambrian's favorite nectar at a nickel per flagon at this special festival was an infringement on the tariff for internal revenue and concluded to refer the

Union Pacific's New Car with Artists Aboard Leaves for the Great West.

A novel and enterprising departure along the lines of railroad advertising is inaugurated with the departure of the special photographic car from Omaha along the Harriman lines to San Francisco. The car was fitted up at the latter point, being especially equipped for photographic purposes with a dark room for developing and changing plates, the remainder of the car being coolly planned with state-rooms, dining room and kitchen. The main purpose of the trip is to secure a full collection of photographs along the route for use in advertising literature and other publications of the system.

The new and particularly interesting feature lies in the attachment of an auto gasoline car to the equipment. This carries four persons, is furnished with comfortable seats, an awning and a powerful motor capable of making thirty miles an hour on the level tracks of the Union Pacific system, being to all intents and purposes an automobile without tires, but with wheels whose flanges fit the rails. There is a powerful carbide headlight and an electric gas, the car is routed and dispatched like a regular train and follows the special car from point to point.

The chief value of the car centers in the fact that most of the scenic features of a railroad route as seen from the car windows lie between stations in points not always easy of access and with a few exceptions of extraordinary interest railroad photography has hitherto been limited to scenes taken close to stations or at points easy to reach. With the auto car the photographers travel along the line and at every striking point run their conveyance on to a siding or alongside the track and adjust their cameras at their convenience to the best advantage.

Once away from the busy tracks and numerous trains in the immediate radius of Omaha the special car makes ordinarily a freight division a day attached to convenient passenger or local freights. Early after breakfast the autocar starts out each morning with a lunch provided by the car chef, arriving back in time for dinner.

At points of particular scenic excellence, such as Green River, Weber canyon, Salt Lake, the Ogden-Larkin cut-off and Lake Taber, the car will be held for a day or days while the region is thoroughly explored. Scenes unsuspected by the tourist untraveled over these lines will thus be brought to light and the beauties of the related lines given due prominence.

The car is in charge of Allan Dunn, who is an artist of merit. His mission is to take notes along the trip and make water colors as guides for any colored literature which may be published. Color work is already a feature of the Harriman literature which aims to take first place among railroad publications. J. E. Stinson, the head photographer of the Union Pacific system, and Gilbert Hassell, who occupies

CHOLERA MORBUS CURED.

This is one of the most severe and dangerous diseases. In almost every neighborhood some one has died from it. Mrs. V. E. Smith of La Marque, Tex., writes: "My little girl was taken with cholera morbus, brought on by bad drinking water caused by the great Galveston storm. The attack was so severe that I feared she would die. A druggist advised me to give her Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I did, and three doses of it relieved her. Since then I have recommended this remedy to many friends and it has never failed in any instance."
