became a law yesterday with the president's signature.

Architects' Draftsmen Scarce. About the only thing in the way of an adjournment of congress on the 30th instant is the "omnibus public building bill." This measure carries the authorization for federal buildings throughout the country and is one in which every state is directly interested. It is several years now since ! bill of this character was enacted into law and in the meantime the force of expert architects and civil engineers employed under the treasury department in the preparation of plans has dwindled until there, is scarcely a corporal's guard left. Under A. H. Davidson, secretary of the ex- matter to obtain a new force of competent scutive council, has concluded footing up draftsmen to fill the vacancies. But this the totals and averages of the railroads year the "building boom" seems to have of lows, the last reports from some small struck every city in the country and the lines having been received.
