AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Body of Omaha Man Found Floating in the River Opposite the City.

EVERY INDICATION OF CASE OF SUICIDE

Had Shot Himself Through Head Before Jumping or Falling into Water—Sickness Supposed Cause of the Act.

A man was found floating down the Missouri river last night. Four young men made the discovery. They were Dave and William Tangeman, Rybe Myers and Harry Benson. They were down at the river bank watching the steamboat coming up from Kansas City, when the body was noticed in the shallow water and scoured by H. G. H. Brewer was called to take charge of the body. The most superficial examination showed a case of suicide which could not have been committed more than half an hour earlier, or probably the time it would take for the body to float from Omaha. This would be short with the swollen condition of the river. An investigation of the man's effects and a few inquiries showed that his name was Gottlieb Hess, living at the Union hotel, 1023 Mason. He wore a gold watch of neat pattern, hunting case and of German make, bearing the name of the manufacturer, Hermann Lehndrich. The watch was still running. There was 50 cents in his pocketbook and a number of papers and receipts. One of these was an American Express company's receipt for a package sent by himself to a brother, John R. Hess, McPherson, Kan., and bearing the date of June 28. He had a pipe and a pearl-handled knife. The theory of the undertakers who took charge of the body is that he walked out on the Douglas street bridge, or perhaps the railroad bridge, and fired the fatal bullet through his brain and fell into the river. The ball gave the body a positive regular right cheek bone and ranged upward through his brain, coming out at the left frontal bone. Among his effects was a notebook with a letter written in German script which said he was afflicted with an incurable disease and begged forgiveness of heaven for his death. A list of slips of paper was also found lying about the same expression.

Inquiry at the Union hotel showed that there was no doubt of the identity of the man. He had a fixed habit of always being in his room at 9 o'clock every night and the hotel people said at first that he was there. But when requested to visit his room it was found to be empty. The description of the dead man was so perfect that there is no doubt of his identity. The clerk at the hotel also knew of his sending the express package to his brother Wednesday. They stated that Hess was a retired farmer having considerable means. He paid his board with positive regularity every week. He had done no work since he came to Omaha a year and a half ago. It was thought that he had considerable money deposited in one of the Omaha banks. He has a daughter or a sister in Illinois, but the hotel people could not give the address. The brother at McPherson, Kan., will be notified.

A careful examination superficially gave no sign of any incurable disease about the man. An inquest will in all probability be held. There was, however, no evidence of foul play, judging from the direction of the bullet wound and the fact that none of the man's valuables were in any way disturbed. He has no relatives in Omaha so far as known.

Fight Over Base Ball.

The trial of Earl Green for an alleged assault and battery on the person of Elio Nilson was postponed yesterday for the reason that the attorneys for the prosecution were in Lincoln. This case arose over a dispute over a base ball. There is a crowd of boys and young men who have been in the habit of playing every evening at Twenty-eighth and E streets. The ball by accident rolled into the yard of Nilson, who picked it up and refused to give it back to the boys. This naturally irritated the players and Earl Green grew so angry that he dared Nilson to come into the street. Nilson went into the street and Green struck the first blow. After that Green, who is a slight built boy, is said to have given Nilson, a man thirty pounds heavier, a good thrashing.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mayor Bradley of Longmont, Colo., is making a record run across the country from Denver to New York in an automobile. He is accompanied by his wife and several children. Leaving Denver last Saturday he arrived in Omaha Thursday night none the worse for his hard run through Nebraska, which he found pretty well soaked up from the recent heavy rains.

Railway Notes and Personals.

Alex. Stewart, general mechanical superintendent of the Southern railway and formerly master mechanic of the Union Pacific at Cheyenne, was in the city Friday. He is enroute to North Platte, where he has relatives.

R. C. Hayes, freight solicitor for the Burlington, known among his friends as the "base catching kid," left Thursday for Lake Washington, where he will drag the lake for bass, taking with him all the necessary paraphernalia.

The Rock Island has announced a popular excursion to Omaha from across the whole state of Iowa. This excursion will leave Rock Island on the night of July 7 and is scheduled to arrive in Omaha at 8 a. m. Sunday morning, July 8. The special train, returning, will leave Omaha Sunday night at 7, but those wishing to remain over may return on No. 1 Monday.

The official train of the Grand Army of the Republic from Nebraska to Minneapolis will leave McCook on the Burlington at 8 a. m., August 12, and will pick up the department commander and his staff at Minneden, his home town. The train probably will be in two sections and will be turned over by the Burlington to the Great Western about 7:30 on the evening of August 13. The Great Western has been declared the official route of the Nebraska delegation to Minneapolis.

Company to Manufacture Fuel.

It is possible that within the next day or two plans for a new industry will be announced. At the present time, however, the organization has not been sufficiently perfected to allow of its announcement. There will be a meeting of the interested parties within a day or two, at which time it is made probable that a good company will be formed. It is proposed to manufacture artificial fuel. On this fuel, a well known man of the city has been experimenting for a long time. He has succeeded in manufacturing a practical fuel from the waste of the stock yards which can be most cheaply produced. He has conducted a number of tests with his product and has a fuel, which he asserts, is ten times better in heat-producing power than any coal on the market with but one exception. The waste of the yards is treated to a process of incineration and compressed into bricks. It burns with a clear flame with little ash and no cinder. It is said that several prominent men are interested in the new fuel.

Eagles Booming Barret.

The Eagle Dress club will meet at the hall Friday evening for the purpose of perfecting plans for sending 100 uniformed men to the Milwaukee national convention to be held in August. The object of sending such a large delegation, is to aid the candidacy of F. J. Barret for president of the national organization. It is hoped that Mr. Barret will be able to swing considerable influence before the date of the convention. The state series has expressed the determination of entering an active campaign. Omaha is in the field for the next national convention. It is believed that there is a prospect of landing one or both the honors at Milwaukee.

BASSETT'S BURDEN LIGHTER

Judge Kennedy Reduces Amount of Suit Money and Attorney Fees in Divorce Case.

Mrs. Fannie Rice Bassett has entered an emphatic denial to the allegations of her husband, Charles C. Bassett, that she dissipated his salary by giving lavish social functions in honor of their Washington friends. This allegation was made by her husband in support of a motion to reduce the amount of alimony allowed her by the court pending the trial of the suit. Mrs. Bassett says they gave just thirteen social functions during their married life. One of these was in the interests of Congressman Ben L. Fairchild of New York, a friend of her husband, who sought to further his political interest by going into society. She says the ambitious congressman paid the expenses of the social function. Another was for Mrs. Stone, a friend of the family, who also paid the expenses. A third was given when Mrs. Bassett's sister was married and her father supplied the cash. All of the rest, she says, were given with the consent of her husband. She says she swed only $500 when she left him instead of $5,000 as he claimed. She declares during their married life she added to their income by taking roomers.

Judge Kennedy modified the order by reducing the amount of suit money and attorney fees from $500 to $200. In addition to this Mr. Bassett will have to pay $75 a month for her support.

Miss Liddle Van Sheet Ends Them by Swallowing Carbolic Acid.

Liddle Van Sheet, aged about 35 years, cook at the Utopia flats, Eighteenth and Davenport streets, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid in an outbuilding at 300 Locust street, East Omaha, Thursday afternoon. She was discovered by children at 5 o'clock and a neighbor named Bessie was called. He carried the apparently lifeless body into the open and then called Dr. Hobbs. There were no signs of life when the latter arrived. The woman's chin and throat were badly burned by the poison.

Miss Van Sheet had been employed at the Utopia since last winter and for some time her talk indicated increasing despondency and a desire to die. Disappointment and a sense of failure, upon deserting her home in Denmark, took with him the savings of many years of labor as a cook which she had entrusted to his hands, is thought by those best acquainted with her affairs to have been the cause of her melancholia. That she thought a great deal of the man, who was of the shiftless sort, there is clear evidence, and his treatment of her seemed to weigh heavily upon her mind.

She left the house at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, leaving a note saying she was going to the postoffice. Whether she did go there or not is not known. At any rate she made her way to the home of a friend, Mrs. E. E. Thompson, 240 Locust street. East Omaha, the two having been well acquainted at Syracuse, Neb., the former home of each. Mrs. Thompson was not at home, however, and the unfortunate woman then entered the outbuilding and drank the acid. An empty two-ounce bottle labeled carbolic acid, purchased from Sherman & McConnell, was found beside the body.

Coroner Brasley was notified and took charge of the body. A telegram was sent to the woman's father at Syracuse asking instructions. An inquest will not be held.

DARTMOUTH ALUMNI BANQUET

Association of the Plain Will Have Annual Dinner in Omaha Saturday.

The Dartmouth Alumni Association of the Plain will hold its annual banquet at the Henshaw hotel beginning at 6 o'clock Saturday night. The affair was postponed from February in hopes that President Tucker might stop at Omaha en route from Leiland Stanford university, where he delivered lectures, but he found it impossible to attend. The lateness of the date will enable two undergraduates, Watson B. Smith and Harry G. Kelly, to be present. Covers will be laid for about twenty and Dr. C. W. Pollard, president of the association, will preside. In response to toasts Mr. Smith will talk on "President Tucker," Dr. E. R. Towne about the "Pure Food Bill," W. A. Meerve of Creighton on "Dartmouth Men," Rabbi Bernstein on "The Republic of Russia," H. W. Pierson on "Dartmouth College," and A. K. Dane of Fremont about "Public Renovation."

OCTOGENARIAN FOUND DEAD

Recluse Dies in His Little House and Body Decomposed Before Discovered.

Vaclav Tucheck, 80 years of age, was found dead in his little cottage at 1013 South Fourteenth street, Friday noon by Mrs. Tony Besehaus, a neighbor. Tucheck's body was badly decomposed. He was last seen alive Wednesday morning. Coroner Brasley took charge of the body and may hold an inquest. "Old age and neglect" was the cause of death, as shown on the burial permit card.

Tucheck was a Bohemian and lived on South Fourteenth street twenty-five years. His only relative here is a son, Joseph Tucheck, who owns a drug store at 2413 South Thirtieth street and lives on a farm near Council Bluffs.

The old man owned the property on which he died and for several years lived the life of a recluse in a humble dwelling. When the coroner opened the door of Tucheck's house he found the body of the old man on a dilapidated old bed and a general air of neglect about the place. Tucheck had improvised supports for his feeble limbs by placing boards a few feet
