The Twin Falls tract 100,000 acres of land is under cultivation this year and the crop prospects are excellent. The water supply is abundant and the unusually heavy rains have been very beneficial.

Farmers Well Looked After. Experimental farms are located at Twin Falls and Buhl, on which nearly every variety of grain and grass grown in the temperate zone are being tested.

Fruit in the District. Winter apples, plums, prunes and peaches have been grown for years by farmers whose lands are under the Twin Falls system at Rock Creek.

Railroads Involved. The Twin Falls project is the largest and most compact irrigation enterprise in America, if not in the world.

LURE OF THE WILY TROUT

Perfection of Angling in Secluded Lakes and Streams of Maine.

PLEASURE OF FISHING IN THE WOODS

Great Beauty and Striking Characteristics of Wild Trout—First Lessons in Casting—The Model Outfit.

Wilderness fly fishing in northern Maine is now at its best, and canoe of devotees of the sport are ruffing the calm surface of many a secluded lake and stream...

It is not so with the trout. The moment he takes the artificial fly between his lips, just that moment he knows that he has been deceived and discards it, and the time which the fisherman has to fix the hook is but a fraction of a second...

The big fellows take but little surface food, merely an appetizer, or perhaps for the sake of old association or habit...

Then try for him, and try early, try late, and try often. You may try or seventy foot casts at the proper time and in the proper way...

When the placards forbidding rummaging among the ruins on pain of being shot were torn down there was a rush to the flattened site of Chinatown for relics and souvenirs...

The tourists bought these souvenirs with such avidity that the bona fide stock was soon exhausted. Then the canny youths collected scraps of china and glass and odd ends of junk from the unburned districts...

About the only things that were not offered on sale were rain caps, buttons, Lumps of melted glass sold for what their weight would be worth in copper...

In these various industries hundreds or rather thousands were reclaimed from destitution. Some were on their feet, and continued in more pretentious quarters...

When the natural flies might heavily and suitably upon the water, let your flies do the same. When millers are numerous, alighting to rest for a fraction of a second and then fluttering to alight again...

Remember also, that there will be other times when the trout are not rising freely, for all fishing, and fly fishing in particular, is dependent upon conditions...
