ENGINEERS SEEKING CAUSE

Unable So Far to Fix Responsibility for English Railroad Wreck.

THREE SURVIVORS IN BAD CONDITION

Inquest Will Be Formal and Dead Americans Are Now Being Prepared for Conveyance Across Ocean.

SALISBURY, Eng., July 2.—The scene of yesterday's disaster to the American line special from Plymouth, having on board the passengers who were landed there from the steamer New York, presents little evidence today of the havoc wrought by the wreck of the express train. The wreckage having been cleared away. The engineering staff of the railroad company is still seeking an explanation for the immediate cause of this calamity, but thus far have been unable to do so, or are not ready to say to what the catastrophe is attributable. No further deaths have been recorded, but Robert S. Critchell of Chicago and Miss L. S. Griswold of Heath, near Epsom, passed a bad night. Miss Margaret Rank of Norfolk street, Park Lane, London, whose legs have been amputated, and E. W. Sprigg of Brooklyn, N. Y., are in a dangerous condition at the infirmary. Mrs. Frank W. Koch of Allentown, Pa., and Miss May Hitchcock of New York passed a fairly good night and are doing well.

MADE FROM NATIVE ROOTS

SAFE AND RELIABLE.

That the roots of many native plants, growing wild in the American forests, possess remarkable properties for the cure of human maladies is well proven. Even the untamed Indian had learned the curative value of some of these plants and taught the early settlers their uses. The Indians never liked work so he wanted his share of gold and silver as possible. He might do the work and let him bunk. Therefore, he dug "poposee root" for her, for that was their great remedy for the same weakness. Pierce used the same root—called Blue Cohosh—in his "Favorite Prescription," skillfully combining it with other potent drugs, and made more effective than any other medicine in curing all the various weaknesses and ailments of men and women. Tenderneer over the lower pelvic region, with backache, spells of dizziness, faintness, nervous pains or distress should be so unwielded. A course of "Favorite Prescription" will work marvelous benefit in all such cases, and generally effect a permanent cure if persisted in for a reasonable length of time. The "Favorite Prescription" is a harmless, potent, wholly pure preparation from native medicinal roots, without a drop of alcohol in its make up, whereas all other medicines, sold up for sale, contain drugs of women's peculiar ailments, contain large quantities of spirituous liquors, which are very harmful, especially to delicate women. "Favorite Prescription" contains neither alcohol nor harmful habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are purified on each bottle wrapper. For weak and sickly women, who are "worn-out," or debilitated, especially for women who work in store, office, or school-room, who sit at the typewriter or sewing machine, or bear heavy household burdens, and for nursing mothers, Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" will prove a priceless benefit because of its health restoring and strength-giving power.

VIEWS OF RUSSIAN LIBERALS

Ivan Petrunkevitch Says Downfall of Present Cabinet is Sure to Come.

ATTEMPT TO STAVE OFF THE INEVITABLE

Another Step Opp. Ministry May Be Formed, but It Will Soon Be Followed by One Responsible to Parliament.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 2.—Ivan Petrunkevitch, the veteran leader of the liberal movement, who has been prevented by ill health from taking a prominent part in the debates in the lower house of Parliament, and who, nevertheless, is a factor of the greatest weight in the councils of the constitutional democratic party, in an interview granted to the Associated Press today expressed his conviction that the downfall of the present cabinet had been decided and declared his fullest confidence that the coming of a responsible parliamentary ministry is at hand. Emperor Nicholas, M. Petrunkevitch said, might, and probably would, attempt to stave off the inevitable and endeavor to form another but more liberal bureaucratic ministry, but his helplessness to face the situation of the hostile attitude of Parliament was so apparent that its existence would be brief if Finance Minister Korkovoff or anyone else were rash enough to attempt its formation. M. Petrunkevitch professed ignorance of any direct negotiations between the emperor and the constitutional democrats, but spoke with such positiveness that it was evident his expectations were based on more definite grounds than the general situation. And it is apparent that he and his friends are fully in touch with the developments at Peterhof and desire to enlist constitutional democratic support for the new ministry.

Ministry Must Be Responsible

M. Petrunkevitch declared roundly that no ministry except a fully responsible one, selected by Parliament or persons in acceptance of its will, could be a responsible ministry. Any other ministry, bureaucratic or coalition, would meet the same treatment as the existing cabinet, and the constitutional democrats would refuse to party to it. He was, he said, opposed to any co-operation with the socialist element in Parliament, whom he and his friends are fully impracticable, satisfied with nothing but the immediate realization of an ideal of a social republic. A ministry attempting to ignore all the parties in Parliament would be too disorganized to be successful. The success of the present cabinet, he said, the group of toll would not be extended.

Action May Be Too Late

"But could a constitutional democratic ministry save the situation and stem the rising tide of revolution and anarchy?" was asked. "That would be impossible to say," replied M. Petrunkevitch. "Such a ministry would be best, but it would depend on the time, when it was called to power. What is possible today may be impossible tomorrow. If a constitutional democratic ministry had been formed a month ago it would have had much greater chance of saving the situation, but now, and a fortnight hence may be entirely too late."

Charles R. Lee

Charles R. Lee, 2643 Pacific street, for many years a lumberman of this city, died at his home Monday night. Mr. Lee was 62 years of age. He was buried at St. Joseph's hospital.

PAVLOFF SILENCED FROM TRIBUNE

The afternoon session of the lower house of Parliament today, which was devoted to the trial of General Pavloff, for the abolition of the death penalty, broke up in utter disorder when General Pavloff, the military procurator, attempted to address the house in behalf of War Minister Rudiger. His appearance in the tribune was the signal for an outburst of cries of "murder," "assassin," "organizer of Jewish massacres," etc., from the members of the group of toll, in which the left joined. The members of the house pounded their desks, shouted, whistled and resorted to every other means of showing their contempt. General Pavloff, after a few minutes, was ordered to leave the tribune.

Death Penalty Abolished

Immediately after the session had been adjourned, the constitutional democrats called caucuses of their respective parties. The group of toll decided to make a noisy demonstration every time Pavloff appears, holding that it is better to drive out one man than have fifty who party go out, as they cannot listen to the words of a murderer. The constitutional democrats resolved to try to dissuade the group of toll from their decision and endeavor to persuade them, if they cannot listen to Pavloff, to leave the house. The house finally voted unanimously to refer the motion for the abrogation of the death penalty to a committee of fifteen to draft a bill, and the sitting adjourned pending the consideration of the bill. The session was resumed at 2:45 o'clock tonight, when the bill was adopted unanimously, the house adjourning at 3:35 o'clock.

RANGERS WANT MORE RAIN

Captain Keith Says Hay Fields in North Platte Valley Still Stand Greater Moisture.

Captain John Keith of Sutherland is one of the best known and popular cattlemen of the western part of the state. "I only wish we had as much rain at the western part of the state as you have had here along the river," he said. "We have had some rains and they have done lots of good, but the hay conditions are not as good as in the North Platte country as we have for at this season when we need them the most. A month ago matters looked in the finest shape. Hay and small grain gave a brilliant promise, but a few weeks of dry weather set in and knocked things out in discouraging shape. However, within the last week the rains have been fairly good and the hay crop looking up. Mr. Moran was busy and after grain generally. You see we depend upon the Denver market largely for our hay sales as we have not had enough good hay to meet the demand, though enough for local consumption."

SENATOR LODGE REPORTS

Massachusetts Man Called to Testify Before Grand Jury in Political Case.

BOSTON, July 2.—United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who was summoned to appear before the grand jury of Suffolk county of an investigation into campaign contributions, by Assistant District Attorney John Moran, came to the court house today. The senator had been called to appear tomorrow, but arrangement was made to meet the district attorney today. Mr. Moran was busy and after greeting Senator Lodge asked him to wait until Mr. Moran was at liberty. The investigation is a development of the case of Robert G. Proctor, who last week was convicted of the larceny of $25, which John C. Heston of Quincy claimed he had given Proctor, who was Senator Lodge's secretary, as a contribution to the republican state campaign fund in 1904. Several prominent republicans, including officers of the state committee, were summoned to appear before the grand jury tomorrow. While Senator Lodge was with the district attorney the grand jury which is an entirely new one and will serve for the remainder of the term, was sworn in by Judge DeCourcy. Senator Lodge was escorted into the grand jury room just before 12 o'clock. He remained for about forty minutes and upon departing he said that he could not disclose the nature of the questions asked him. He said, however, that the subject seemed to him to be quite unimportant and one upon which he could give no information. He said it was his understanding that the district attorney's purpose was to secure the testimony of the members of the republican state committee concerning certain campaign contributions. Senator Lodge then left the court house. Judge DeCourcy of the superior court, before whom Proctor was tried, announced this afternoon that he would not grant a writ of habeas corpus for Proctor, who was asked for on the ground that the verdict was against the evidence. Later Judge DeCourcy sentenced Proctor to serve ten months in the house of correction. It is understood that the case will be carried to the supreme court.

DISTRIBUTION OF COAL CARS

Directors of Pennsylvania Railway Deny Charges of Favoritism.

EVIDENCE TAKEN IS NOT CONCLUSIVE

Report Says It is Not Proven that Undue Preference Has Been Shown to Any Shippers.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—A preliminary report of the special committee of the board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company recently appointed to investigate alleged discrimination in the distribution of coal cars as revealed at the hearings of the Interstate Commerce commission was submitted today to the full board of the company. After a short discussion the report was unanimously approved. The committee after stating that it had been required to extend its investigation to all companies controlled by the Pennsylvania railroad and that it had carefully considered the testimony taken before the Interstate Commerce commission, says that the testimony showed "that of more than 300 operators of bituminous coal mines, situated on the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, less than ten operators in all have testified that they believed themselves to have been unfairly discriminated against, either in the distribution of coal cars, or in the matter of sidings connecting mine workings with the railroad line."

Evidence Not Conclusive

"Fifty-one of the more than 123,000 officers and employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad company," the committee says, "were examined before the Interstate Commerce commission, and of those witnesses twenty-one were shown to have acquired, in various ways, interests in coal companies or properties, alleged, but not proven, to have received undue and unreasonable preferences in the distribution of coal cars, or in the construction of sidings. Despite the public impression to the contrary, derived from the fragmentary publications of the evidence in the Interstate Commerce commission, the committee examined before the commission does not prove that there have been in fact any undue or unreasonable preferences, either in the distribution of coal cars, or in the construction of sidings."

Privately Owned Cars

The committee says it has received replies from all officers and employees having charge of the distribution of cars to inquire made by the committee regarding car distribution, but until the company's records of the daily movement of cars were examined the committee will be unable to know whether the distribution of cars varied from the rules governing the same. Expert investigation of the company's daily reports and other records of car distribution has been undertaken. The committee calls attention to many difficulties encountered in the distribution of cars, and says: "There must be a fair system of pro rata distribution, but whatever the system there will inevitably come periods when the demand for cars will exceed the supply of cars, because of increased market prices, sometimes caused by weather, sometimes by strikes in other territories, or sometimes by increased industrial development. Under such conditions priority must be given, first to shippers who furnish coal to the company's own plants, and next to those whose fulfillment of contracts will keep other railroads in operation. Private municipalities from being left in darkness or unable to steamships to sail, etc. It is not to be assumed, without proof, that every special order was issued by any officer from any improper motive. On the contrary, the reasonable presumption is that every such order was issued only because of a sufficient business necessity."

Privately Owned Cars

The report says the question of privately owned coal cars is not a new question nor one which admits of an off-hand solution. "The greater portion of the coal tonnage of England is moved today in privately owned cars. The use of such cars on the Pennsylvania lines is not peculiar to a few favored shippers. They
