INSIDE OF THAT REFORM

Some Details of Democratic Economy Which Show the Other Side. SORT-OF-A GIVE AND TAKE PROCESS Big Hellbabe About Curtailing Expenses of City Government Does Not Plumb with the Facts.

The policy of clipping off from the payroll city hall jobs not absolutely required in the municipal expenditure of brains and labor, announced by the democratic council with many flourishes, looks like the customary windfalling when contrasted with the facts," said a city hall statesman. The council has passed a resolution abolishing the office of gas inspector, but so amended as to indicate clearly that it is the intention to make the job over again just as soon as the present republican incumbent, John C. Lynch, is disposed. Lynch was one of the republicans whom Mayor Dahlman saw fit to reappoint, and whom a majority of the council saw fit to oppose. By sandwiching Lynch's brother, Humphrey, also distasteful to the council, Dahlman found a way of prolonging the contest and keeping the original Lynch in office meanwhile. When it was first proposed to abolish the office part of the procedure was to throw the duties to the city electrician, who is to be equipped with a second assistant. The original draft of the ordinance provided that the electrician be ex-officio gas inspector, but this clause was cut out just before the measure was read the third time and passed, leaving the city without a gas inspector or any substitute. Duties of Gas Inspector. The duties of the gas inspector, as prescribed by ordinance, consist of seeing that the street lamps burn regularly, testing meters when requested and keeping the quality of gas up to the standard. City Electrician Michaelson, in response to inquiries, has said he could manage to do the gas inspector's work nicely in his department and has made no objection to the additional toil. It has been pointed out that if the street lighting were under one responsible head it could be better managed and distributed, but all arguments of efficiency and economy have been lost on the democratic council, which promised so much before election. Some of the council say they think doubling up the jobs would give the electrical department too much to handle, and dilute on the necessity of a gas inspector riding through the streets all night to see if the lamps are burning. This talk doesn't look well when the records show that during 1905 the electrician caused more than $500 to be deducted from electric light bills for outages, and nobody pretended to be working nights, while the whole sum re-bated for gas lamps out was $20.98 for the twelve months. The salary of the gas inspector is $1,500 a year. It is not improbable that Mayor Dahlman will get his veto in the way of some of the plans of the council for framing things up for an appointee of their liking. The mayor believes the office should be abolished, if it can be consolidated with that of electrician, but he sees through the scheme of the present ordinance and is going over the matter carefully.

NEW SETH WINCH WILL TRIAL

Another Hearing of Case Is Granted by Judge Troup of District Court.

A new trial of the Seth Winch will case was granted Thursday afternoon by Judge Troup. He held the fact the original will could not be found at the time of the last trial before Judge Sears was prejudicial to the interests of parties to the suit, and as the will has since been found a new trial should be allowed. Judge Sears refused to admit the will to probate, only a copy of it being in evidence. Beneficiaries under the will asked for a new trial. They also contended it was impossible to get a bill of exceptions made in time to permit an appeal to the supreme court. Judge Troup held this would also be grounds for a new trial.
