DREADNAUGHT PLANS SECRET

Great Fritain Has Succeeded in Keeping Facts of Ship to Itself.

UNCLE SAM'S DESIGN MUST BE KNOWN

Officials Dislike Law Which Compels Plan of New Twenty-Thousand Ton Fighter to Be Published.

WASHINGTON, July B.-The construction officers of the navy will not be aided in preparing plans for the monster 20,000ton bartleship by the plans of the English ship Dreadnaught. So far the British admirally has been successful in preventing any part of the designs or plans of the large fighting machine of their navy from failing into the hands of other nations. Such information as the United States navy possesses of the Dreadnaught has been of no service in designing the new ship provided in the last naval appropriation act. The fact that the plans of the Dreadnaught are so closely guarded is given as a reason why the plans of the big ship for the United States should not be made public, as will be the case when the terms of the act are complied with, as it expressly says that the plans must be submitted to congress before contracts for Delay on Training Ship. Among the things that are held in abeyance in the Navy department because there is apparently no pressing necessity for settling the question is the constructing of a naval training ship on the great lakes More than a year ago provision was made building such a ship, the intention being to have it used for the naval militia of states bordering on the lakes. Before anything could be done the question arose as to whether the building of such a ship uld not interfere with the agreement with Great Britain which provides that war vessels shall not be constructed on the great lakes by either England or the United States. While a training vessel is technically a war vessel, it could not be considered in the general acceptance of the term, because it would not be at ail effective in time of war. This is one of the several questions pending between the United States and Great Britain in relation to Canada which remain unsettled.

Secretary, of War Addresses Republican Convention of North Carolina.

BEGINS CONGRESSIONAL CAMPAIGN OF 1906

Promises and Performances of the Republican Party the Issuetiond Record of Lawmakers.

GREENSBORO, N. C., July R. Secretary f War Taft tonight, before a meeting of North Carolina republicans on the eve o their state convention, delivered a speech that was generally regarded as the opening gun of the congressional campaign of 1906 The speech dealt with current political uestions. It opened with advice to the rank and file of the party in North Carolina and the south particularly, and referred to the achievements of the party in the session of congress just closed. The opera house was packed to the overflowing by a throng eager to hear the secretary of war and bundreds of persons were turned away because of the limited size of the Secretary Taft's Speech.

Secretary Taft in opening said that when e was invited to address this meeting the committee advised him "That the poli tical situation was such that if a proper effort was made at the coming election is would be possible to carry the state for the republican party." The secretary said I believe that nothing that could happen in the polities in this country would work greater advantage to the country at large, and to the south in particular, than the breaking up of what has been properly known as the "solid south." I say this in no partism spirit for I am not one of those who think that this tresult would necessarily increase the probability of the continuance in power of the republican party. The solidity of the south has, in a measure, furnished its own antidote in restraining many voters in the north who might have left the republican party but for what they regard as the injustice and danger of southern political conditions.

The south has been kept solid by the specter of negro domination, and by stirring up racial prejudices and arousing unfounded alarm over an impossible return of reconstruction days, said the secretary.

The question which should address itself I believe that nothing that could happen The question which should address itsel to the great business interests of the south the secretary stated, is how much longer 'the spectre of things past" is to hold them to a political allegiance that does them no good in national politics and deprives their communities of "the inestima ble benefit of the presence in local policies of two parties, each of which, if it does wrong, has a real chance of being punished for its misconduct."

Mr. Taft contended that if the southern people "had kept up with the times; had they at the ballot box expressed their sentiments on the living issues of the day, instead of allowing themselves to be fright ened by a spectre and a shadow of the past, their rolltical importance as communities and the significance of their views upon measures and men would have been astly enhanced.

"The republican party of North Caroina," he declared "would be much stronger as a voting party if all the federal offices were filled by democrats. long as the republican party As in the southern states shall represent little save a factional chase for federal offices, business men and men of substance in the mmunity have no desire to enter and in the result of which they have no interest, we may expect the present political conditions of the south to continue."

Issues of Coming Campaign.

oming congressional campaign, the sec retary pointed; out that in November, 1904, the republican party was continued in power. Theodore Roosevelt, he said, had or more than three years and a half discharged the duties of president. "During that period Mr. Roosevelt," he added, "had again and again, by word and by act, manlfested to the people his determination to pursue the middle, just and impartia ourse by which the rich and poor should mjoy the equal protection and suffer the equal and just enforcement of the laws. He recognized this as the platform of the republican party. He incurred the hostility of important financial interests by his retion in directing the prosecution to a specessful issue of the so-called Northern Securities suit, which prevented a merger for the purpose of suppressing competition of two great lines of rallway in violation of the so-called anti-trust law." The secretary then said the republican platform and Mr. Roosevelt pledged the further enforcement of the anti-trust law and the interstate commerce law to prevent discrimination against the shipping public and to prevent oppressive combination and Continuing he said that only a year and four months have elapsed since Mr. Roosevelt took the oath of office after his election in 1964, "and yet in that short time of his term of office the republican party In congress of the United States, inspired by Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations, has adopted a railroad rate bill, which greatly increased the power of the Interstate Commerce commission, and which, taken together with previous legislation before his election, will certainly have much to President Theodore C. Woodbury and do in the abolition of violations of unjust Promises and Performance.

The secretary said the democratic leaders are now indignant that the republican pany's plant at the valuation fixed by the party, in carrying out the promises of its platform, in putting into practice the painciples which they "with superb complacency claim are really covered by a democratic patent." He declared that the demoof the water board, a tender of a deed to cratic leaders have been for years declaring against corporations, but have instituted no legislative steps in all this time to restrain abuses. He said:

to restrain abuses. He said:

I ask you to compare democratic promises with republican performances. Incidentally, ponder thow much would have been done if Mr. Parker had been elected and acted on his theory that the common law supplied all that was necessary for of rebates. It may be noted also that while Mr. Bryan has been most emphatic and eloquent in his description and enunciation of trusts and abuses of corporate organization and wealth, his suggested remedies for their prompt suppression have been very vague, unless indeed his proposal that the government buy or condema all interstate railroads, with their immense mileage, and maintain and operate them is to be regarded as an immediate, ready, practical and feasible remedy. In view of this it is not a matter for any surprise that the great combinations and organizations that have increased their profits and power by svil and oppressive methods should fear and distike Mr. Roosevelt and his acts in the present much more than they do Mr. Bryan and the indefinite dangers with which he threatens them in the future. Evils are to be surppressed by

Record of Congress.

Mr. Taft urged that the record of the present congress, enumerating its important enactments, "confirm in the most convincing way the claim always made for the republican party, that it is an efficient party for the accomplishment of good, that it does things and that it carries out its promises." He expressed the hope that the Philippine tariff bill, now pending in the senate, will be passed at the next sersion. Mr. Taft, after explaining the in crease in appropriations, declared that in spite of the increase there would be surplus of $40,000,000 in the treasury after all the expenditures have been made.

Mr. Taft argued against any reason for returning a democratic majority in the next house, saying, in conclusion, that no party has ever taken more decisive steps to restrain the abuses of irresponsible corporate wealth and power than the republican party, and said that, while the administration is straining every nerve to secure compliance with the laws, it is prophested that the champion of this reform, the man who, not by words, but by deeds, as president of the United States, has shown his adherence to the principles of equal protection and laws to all, and his courage is resisting all claims of special immunity whether for organized labor or capital, is be rebuked and thwarted by the return o congress of a majority of the opposition. Not while the American people admire courage, consistency, high ideals and practical common sense; not while they elleve in energy, honesty and American ism; not while they take a man for what he is and What he does, rather than for what he says, will this prophesy be jus-

Interior Minister Stolypin has sent to Ambassador Meyer and the representatives of other countries the government's official report of the Bialystok rioting, for transmission to their respective governments. While this unprecedented action on the part of the Russian government does not involve a recognition of the right of foreign countries to make representa tions regarding the internal affairs of the empire, it is a distinct recognition of the power of public opinion abroad and indiates the solicitude of foreign governments to know the Russian side of the case. ST. PETERSBURG, July 19 .- The news of he mutiny at Tambov, which apparently is the most serious of such affairs since the Sebastopol muttay, is confined to the bare details of a censored agency dispatch showing that the mutineers, when attacked loyal troops, offered armed resistance before retreating to their barracks, where they are now barricaded. Up to 1:30 o'clock this morning the newspapers have received no further particulars. In previous mutinies this year the disaffected troops have submitted when confronted by loyal deachments. The outbreak is a quick comnentary on General Trepoff's declaration the interview with him published July ! which he affirmed that the cavalry could be more depended upon than the infantry because their officers were in closer touch with their men.

Pure Food Bill

Beer Shown to be One of the Purest of All Food Products, ...

The brewers of the United States, as an association and individually, have been staunch supporters of the National Pure M. C. Tulley, auditor in the freight de- Food Bill. Their support has not been a half-hearted acquiesence, but a wholesouled, earnest, energetic effort to have enacted a law that will give the people Interstate Commerce commission here to what they are entitled to,-pure, whole

Beer, when properly made, is one of the purest, most wholesome foods known that the orders for this came from Vice With the hard-working man nothing cha President G. J. Grammer. It was stated take the place of beer with his lunchthat Tulley's examination before the grand or with his meals. It quenches his thirst and furnishes him nourishment. Pabet Beer is shown by anaylsis to be absolutely pure and 12 per cent food value (the same and H. F. Kellogg, an independent oil as good milk.) This high percentage of dealer of Chicago, were other witnesses food value of Pahst beer is due to the exclusive Pabst eight-day malt. Mait for prewing is usually made in four days, but Pabet malt is made in eight days, retaining all of the rich nutrition of grain. Malt made by the usual four-duy process produces a thin, hard beer that lacks the rich flavor and the high food value of Pabet Blue Ribbon.
