

PRINCE ERRANT-MAMA'S VANITY PROVES HIS UNDOING

Haha, the Jester: This isn't fair treatment, Prince. It was through me that you met the Princess, and now you're letting me starve on the outside.

Prince: Why, hello Haha, the King has it in for you for waking him up the other night, so go and get a disguise and I'll work you in.

Prince: Allow me to introduce to your Royal Highness, an old friend of mine, Baron Whiskers. You'll find him a jolly fellow.

King: Delighted! You are just in time, Baron, to dine with us.

King: Ho! Ho! What a comical chap you are, Baron. Haha: I've got the old boy going, now watch me finish him with one of my songs.

Haha: (singing) Bedelia-Bedelia. King: There's something familiar about that voice. Ah, I have it, that's the galoot who woke me up with his caterwaulings.

King: Ho, guards! To the Squall Chamber with that caterwauling galoot!

King: There's the making of a good fellow in that chap if he didn't think he could sing, so I'll just cure him of that little habit. Haha: Ye gods! This has a boiler-shop beat to death!
