COAL MINERS BUSY

Operators Say Production for June in Nearly Up to

NEW YORK, July 22.-For the purpose of showing the condition of the anthracite coal fields two months after the close of the recent suspension, the following statement was authorized today on behalf of the anthracite coal operators:

The tabor situation in the anthracite re-gion is today one of profound peace. In all the active rollieries mining is progressing satisfactorily. Fully 90 per cent of the workers who absented themselves, as a reworkers who assented the asserves, as a re-suit of the suspension ordered by President Mitchell on April 1 and discontinued on May 8 by agreement with the operators, have returned or been replaced. The out-just of anthracite for June was 5,656,018 tons, only alightly below the output for June, can's slightly below the output for June, 1960.

The agreement extending the operation of the award of the anthracite strike commission until April 1, 1961, has been accepted in entire good faith. Merchants who furnish household and other supplies to the miners are again carrying full stocks and operators are making plans for extensive improvements to meet the increasing physical difficulties in producing coal.

The board of conciliation has actively renewed its work of adjusting the grievances of the mine workers. During the three years of the board's existence its decisions have been in the main well received by both sides. Through the action the petty strikes of former years have practically consed to occur. The board has amended its rules so as to reach a speedy determination of all complaints presented and now sits practically continuously from day to day whenever its calendar requires. whenever its calendar requires.

Sketch of His Career. Russell Sage, multimillionaire and nestor of American financiers, was born on August 1816, in Verona, Oneida county, New York, where his parents, Elisha and Prudence Sage, members of a little company of while on their westward march in quest of a homestead. At the age of 12 years Russell began his career as an errand boy in the grocery store of his brother Henry in Troy. At the age of 22 he established a wholesale grocery of his own in that place.

In 1857 the young merchant had acquired a fortune estimated at almost half a million dollars, a vast amount for those days, and determined to retire from active business life. He had, however, already become interested in railroads, his first transaction of this character being a loan to the A joint meeting of the American limit- July 23. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon further transactions resulting in his sixuar interests in the roads now form ing the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul system, of which he became vice president This determined Mr. Sage to devote his future energies to operations in Wall street and in 1863 he opened his first office in New American institutes. York. Inventor of Puts and Calls. About this time he formed an association with Jay Gould which continued for many years. About 1872 Mr. Sage originated the system of trading in "puts," "calls" and straddles," in which he continued to deal thereafter on a colossal scale. While he purchased a seat on the New York Stock exchange in 1874 it is believed that he never appeared on the floor of the exchange.

Only once, it is said, did Mr. Sage experience a tremendous reverse, which would figures of the exports of American canned have crushed most men, but from which he emerged with courage and confidence unshaken. This was on the memorable day n 1884 when the great failure of Grant & Ward was announced, resulting in the loss to Mr. Sage of about $6,000,000 on a long ine of "puts."

His operations necessitated the posses sion of a vast amount of ready capital and Mr. Sage always kept his resources as well in hand that in any emergency be was able to command almost unlimited funds.

At the time of his death, Mr. Sage was an officer and director in twenty-five great railway and telegraph corporations.

Noreross Homb Incident. An incident which startled the whole country occurred in Mr. Sage's office, in the old Arcade building, No. 71 Broadway, on December 4, 1891. On that day he was visited by Henry P. Norcross of Boston, a man of unbalanced mind, who demanded an immediate gift of $1,200,000. When the demand was refused Norcross dropped a dynamite bomb upon the floor, the explosion of which decapitated Norcross, killed one of the clerks and wrecked the whole office. Mr. Sage was only slightly hurt by the explosion.

For many years Mr. Sage occupied during the winter an old-fashioned brown-stone nansion at 506 Fifth avenue, from which ne was reluctantly compelled to move about four years ago, owing to the invasion of retail stores to No. 632 Fifth avenue. His summers were spent at his country place at Lawrence, where he died,

Mr. Sage was married twice, first in 1841 to Miss Maya Winne, daughter of Moses Winne of Troy. Although the news of the dissolution of Parliament spread like wild fire among the various political organizations, the masses generally are hardly awake to the momentous event. The news traveled fast in charge of the work of relief. Advices from the country and the general expectation is that the peasantry, accepting the dispersal of Parliament as the final blow to their hopes, will rise en masse. The proletariat organizations have been preparing for months for just such provocation to declare open war.

Consternation Among Democrats.

It is impossible to describe the consternaa few of the bodies extricated from the tion with which the constitutional democrats learned the news. was firmly established. After a hurried secret conference this morning it was decided on account of the possibility of the meeting being broken up and the members arrested, that they go immediately to Finland and decide upon the future course to be pursued and small groups left this afternoon and evening by train. Whether word was given them to meet at Viborg or Helsingfors is unknown, but it seems probable that Finland in future Russian history will become synonymous with "the tennis court" of the French revolution. Even Count Heydon, the leader, and other members of the right are understood to have departed. It is quite improbable, however, that Parliament as a body will attempt to formally set up its authority against that of the government. Proletariat to Lead Fight The constitutional democrats and intellectuals generally recognize that they have no weapon with which to fight the government bayonets. The initiative, therefore, scended among the crowd, knocking scores naturally will fall to the proletariat. This, of people flat. But the plans at this time have been perfected with much more dofrom liberation and involve not only the paralysis of cities, telegraphs, railrants and all means of communication throughout the empire. but a complete strike of persants in the country as well. They confidently believe the loyalty of troops has been so shaken that the military support of the government will give way and that when put to the test the army will be livited against itself.
