POLITICS IN HOTEL LOBBIES

John Wall Loses Mustache and Friends Pass Him By.

HE FEELS GOOD OVER HIS CANDIDACY

Dan Cropsey Reaches Fruition of Hopes and Will Not Serve Jefferson County in Next Legislature.

John Wall, the sage of Arcadia, is going about the state, not incognito, but in disguise, and thereby hangs a tale. Of course it is generally known that Mr. Wall is a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination on the republican ticket. It is also known that Mr. Wall is a popular man. Out in Valley county, where nestles the beautiful little Arcadia, lie the Wall estates. They are broad and long and exceedingly fertile and prolific. Valley county is the scene of many such rich farms and its people are known for their hospitality and benevolence, but none any more than John Wall. His name, no more simple and sincere than his friendship, is halled by all as that of a man who loves his fellows and forgets none. His broad acres are open to all and his latch string ever hangs out.

Thus it was a shock to John Wall to be literally "passed up" on the streets of Omaha by men he had known for years. "How are you," exclaimed the veteran chief clerk of the house of representatives to Crawford Kennedy, another veteran in state politics, as the two met in the lobby of the Merchants hotel Thursday morning. And Kennedy's greeting was a bland

"Don't know me? My God," ejaculated Wall: "have my friends forgotten me, or for governor?" And then Kennedy burst into a hearty laugh.

"Why, John, old fellow, I didn't recognize you with your mustache off. You ought never to have done that. You are the ugilest man in Nebraska now, whereas you were considered a very handsome man be-"Are you joking, Crawford?" gasped

Wall. But mustache or not, John Wall is feeling good over his candidacy. He says he has made an extensive tour of part of the state and is greatly encouraged over his pros-

"I really believe," says he, "that my chances are excellent. Of course, I have been in politics too long to pick up tin whistles and think they are gold clarious."

Dan Cropsey of Fairbury, the Gorman of Nebraska, stopped off in Omaha Wednesday night on his way to Chicago. Cropsey been a member of the house for the last two sessions of legislature, but says he will not be there next winter. His ambetion has been satisfied and he will step Railway. as Daniel B. Cropsey and ventured out into the wilds of Jefferson county where few white men at that time were to be found, only J. E. Mendenhall and two or three others. Dan and J. E. got together, brushed aside a few bramble bushes and trees and things, and started Jefferson county. Then one day Cropsey, while in the act of cutting down a big oak, heard a loud noise. He looked around and beheld a vast concourse of people. It was the vox populi. His country had called and he responded and made laws at Lincoln for two long, tedious sessions,

The only point of essential difference between Gorman and Cropsey is that Gorman was a democrat and Cropsey is a republican.

Cropsey found time in the course of his busy political career to look out for a future competency. The other day he counted up and found that besides some other triing collateral he was the proud possessor of three national banks, president of them, and he has decided to worry along with them from now on, letting his county and state look to others for their political

POINTERS ON CUBAN GAME Addison Townsend Brings Back Some of Implements and Information of Jai-a-'lai. Addison Townsend, who has just returned from Cuba, has brought home with him some of the implements used in the game of jai-a-'lai, pronounced li-a-il. The game is played in a stone-walled court with a cement floor and has rules similar to racquet. The ball is thrown from a wicker basket against the wall, and as it returns it is caught in the basket and returned immediately, without a moment's hesitation. The basket is provided with a gloved back and the ball used is hard have I incurred their enmity by running Mr. Townsend says the game is very scientific and the ball can be thrown over 500 feet. An instance was given of when some Americans were in Cuba and the question came up as to the distance the ball could be thrown with the basket and the Americans thought they could throw the ball farther with the ordinary hand. The American threw the ball from center field to the home plate and the Cuban threw it over the grandstand from the same place.
