by his assistants and his head split open with the butt end of a rifle.

Rear Admiral Ketchum, who received many wounds during the night. When the sailors mutinied the admiral immediately went out with his staff, heedless of warnings and entered the barracks. Within a few seconds he and two captains were shot down.

The crews of ships who joined the mutineers included a large number of women. They were armed with rifles, revolvers and swords. One of the wounded captains was spared because he wore the St. George cross. Captain Prodromoff, who was killed, fought in the battle of the Sea of Japan on one of the Russian ships which foundered. He was fourteen hours in the water before he was picked up.

Yessenev Regiment Faithful. It has been ascertained that the Yessenev regiment played the most prominent part at Cronstadt in quelling the mutiny of the sailors. The latter had broken into the arsenal after overpowering the guards and had seized a quantity of arms. After firing several volleys, the Yessenev regiment charged driving off the mutineers, who fled into the streets, pursued by the men of the Yessenev regiment, who continued their riot on the harbor batteries. An attempt was made by one party of mutineers to capture the harbor batteries, but it was repulsed by the fire of machine guns.

Story of Mutiny on Cruiser. The accounts received here of the mutiny on board the armored cruiser Pamyat Azova on August 1 show that the sailors expected to obtain the support of the garrison of the fortress at Revel. A student agitator, probably one of the emissaries sent from St. Petersburg, was stowed away on board.

When the crew mutinied after midnight Wednesday night the cruiser was anchored twenty miles down the coast. Evidently its commander, Captain Sosnitsky, had been warned, for he resisted and sent ashore a sailor named Tarosoff, who was regarded as the ringleader. Two hours afterward the sailors rose and killed Captain Saburovsky, the officer on watch. When he saw the mutineers approaching Saburovsky made a rush for the carbine rack, but the sailors had jammed the breach blocks of the carbines, and Captain Saburovsky was shot. The firing aroused the officers below, who ran up on deck and, taking the situation, crowded into a launch, moored alongside the Pamyat Azova and started for the shore. The mutineers manned a cutter and put off in pursuit of the launch. Lieutenant Unkovanov and two other officers were killed by a shell from the cruiser and others were wounded. The mutineers in the launch were rapidly overhauling the launch, when, on reaching shallow water, the surviving officers jumped into the bay and made for the shore. An attempt was made by the fugitive officers to drag along with them one of their wounded comrades, but he was eventually abandoned and drowned. Eight officers escaped into the woods.

Crew Turns on Leaders. Later the mutineers hoisted up the anchor and headed the cruiser for Revel. His consort, a torpedo boat, followed under fire from the Pamyat Azova, but was not hit, as it succeeded in keeping out of range.

On arriving at Revel some of the mutineers put off in a boat for the fortress in order to request the garrison to join them, but the authorities had in the meantime been apprised of what had happened and the mutineers were arrested as they landed. This being seen from the cruiser, the main portion of the crew, who in the meantime seemed to have remained neutral, suddenly turned on the mutineers, overpowered them, replaced the red flag at the masthead with a white flag and sent word ashore that the mutineers were confined below decks, whereupon the governor general sent off soldiers in boats and the mutineers were taken ashore. About 150 sailors were arrested and a number of students found among the crew were also made prisoners.

The Pamyat Azova was the cruiser on which Emperor Nicholas, the heir to the throne, made a voyage to the far east in 1893.

Government Wins at Sveaborg. HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 3.—Sveaborg fortress is completely in the hands of the government this morning. The persons who were marched out and sent to Skatudden island, where they will await trial.

The socialist red guard yesterday evening made an effort to bring about a general strike. They marched in force to the power house of the street railroad and ordered the men to strike. Upon their refusal the guards attempted to destroy the buildings. The police and communal guards were summoned and a fight followed, resulting in the killing of the assistant chief of police and several communal guards and a number of the street railroad employees. The red guard consists of the greater part of the Finnish proletariat, while the communal guards are made up of the middle and wealthy classes and are organized to maintain order and protect property. They are armed with rifles and are under almost military discipline.

The government is handling the situation carefully, fearing that the movement may spread throughout the country. The Cosacks are used only in extreme cases and then they disperse crowds with more leniency than they do in Russia. It transpires that the sharp firing heard from Sveaborg between 4 and 6 o'clock yesterday morning came from the infantry reinforcements dispatched there for the purpose of the construction of pontoon bridges from island to island in order to wrest the fortifications from the mutineers. The troops were supported by a cannonade from the fortress on Sandhamm island. The attempt was successful and the government flag was hoisted at noon, showing that the Sveaborg fortress was in the hands of the loyalists.

Some 2,000 reinforcements of troops have now arrived at Helsingfors. During the night the telegraph lines were cut, severing communication with Viiborg, and a small railroad at bridge between here and Viiborg was blown up. The bridge was subsequently repaired. Trains from St. Petersburg are arriving here after great delay. One of the railroad bridges has again been blown up with dynamite, but it was soon repaired. The casualties at Sveaborg were many, but 500 is undoubtedly an exaggerated number.

The officers' wives showed untiring devotion as nurses. The wounded mutineers nursed considerably, as they were ill provided with medical supplies.

A soldier who came from the Sveaborg fortress said that the casualties would be run into thousands. The garrison consisted of 4,000 men.

The leader of the Red Guard, Captain Koeh, has been arrested. A number of workmen are on strike and the street cars are not running, but there have been no disturbances today.

Investigating Black Hundred. MOSCOW, Aug. 3.—Minister Stolypin has given orders to investigate the remarkable evidence that the Black Hundreds of Moscow were aware in advance that M. Herzogstein, the constitutional democrat leader, was to be murdered at his country residence near Terki, Finland. It develops that it was a correspondent of the Associated Press who asked St. Petersburg two hours before the assassination whether there was any truth in the report in circulation in Moscow that M. Herzogstein had been murdered. The correspondent obtained his information from a local evening paper, the Mail. The editor of the Mail has informed the police that he obtained his information from the editor of the Vieska, a Black Hundred paper of Moscow, which has been publishing provocative articles against the Jews and revolutionaries.

The growing restlessness among the troops composing the garrisons in the southern provinces is being carefully

Commercial Activity Well Maintained.

Security of Labor is the Only Serious Complaint—Big Increase in Railway Earnings.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review will say:

Aside from the seasonable dullness in wholesale departments commercial activity is well maintained and early preparations are being made for autumn and winter business.

August opened with no adverse developments in the trade situation, while crop progress during the week has been favorable.

Trade reports are especially gratifying from the northeast, and other points that are dependent upon agricultural results, but all sections of the nation enjoy great prosperity and activity and there is no important note in any of the dispatches.

Security of labor is the only serious complaint, outside of the coal strike, and there is a discount in harvesting some crops, while strikes retard the rebuilding of San Francisco, but, on the other hand, a slight modification of the 1903 scale has brought back 5,000 more bituminous miners and the threatened strike of thirty-three paper mills has been averted, while advanced wages brought full activity in the textile industry.

Commodity prices are steady, and the grain because of large crops is offset by strength in the leading materials of manufacture. Iron and steel prices have advanced sharply. Railway earnings have been 4.9 per cent larger than a year ago, and foreign commerce at the port showed gains of $2,533,939 in imports and $1,175,875 in exports, as compared with the same week last year.

It is not often that managers of a leading industry take advantage of the low rate because of too much business, yet that is becoming the situation at iron furnaces and in the steel industry. The situation is far in excess of similar comparisons in earlier years, and there is certainty of continued activity in the iron and steel industry.

New England footwear markets are quiet. Tanners report that shoe manufacturers are unable to get leather only to cover immediate needs and the quiet market would result in concessions were it not for the fact that the leather is in short supply.

Commercial failures this week in the United States were 120, a slight increase over the preceding week and 223 last year. In Canada they number 18, against 18 last year and 22 the preceding week and 26 last year.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW OF TRADE Sentiment in General Seems Decidedly More Optimistic.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Bradstreet's to-day will say:

Sentiment in general seems to have become decidedly more optimistic, practical assurances of heavy crop yields in the United States, the relatively heavy volume of orders booked in general lines for the winter requirements being the principal stimulus. Iron and steel plants, and buyers of raw materials, are being worked to their utmost capacity and the action of the principal producer in raising the price of pig iron, in common stock exerted a salutary effect on sentiment. Some steel mills have raised their entire capacity for many months ahead, and if the usual fall business has not been discounted by the mid-summer bookings, a steady stream of deliveries will become a pressing one. The essential soundness of mercantile trade is testified to by the heavy and seven months' returns of failures to Bradstreet's, which point to fewer failures and a smaller number than in any but the best of years.

Shipments of fall and winter goods are beginning to show a decided increase, more business is being done than ordinarily. Preparations for house traders are now absorbing attention. Some primary markets are being visited by country merchants, who on account of the conditions, are expected to buy liberally. The general influx is not an indication of a revival of the trade, but a sale continues the feature, but business in the east has been considerably hampered by heavy and cloudy weather. Which has been curtailed at some seasons.

Railway earnings are showing a decided increase, and the momentum already imparted to trade and industry will receive a further impetus as the year advances. The country's history of business failures in August number 170, against 170 last year, 175 in the last week of 1905, 175 in 1904, 161 in 1903 and 149 in 1902. In Canada failures number 28, against 24 last week and 25 in this week a year ago.

CARLAND ON SCALPERS CASE South Dakota Judge Comes Monday to Hold Court for Judge Manager.

Judge Carland of Sioux Falls will arrive in the city Monday to preside at the hearing of the United States circuit and district courts during the absence of Judge Munger.

The first case set for hearing is upon the application for a permanent injunction on behalf of the Union Pacific and other railroads to restrain ticket brokers from buying or selling special railway or non-transferable tickets.

The railroads already have secured a temporary restraining order and now seek to have the order made permanent. Both the railroads and the ticket brokers have filed their respective pleadings.

Other matters to be taken up by Judge Carland are: The Omaha Electric Light and Power Company against the Maryland Casualty Company, the Perfield bankruptcy case and one or two irrigation matters recently beginning proceedings in the United States circuit court.

A special petit jury may be called to try one or more of the cases, but this course has not yet been definitely decided upon.

"NO TROUBLE!" To Change from Coffee to Postum.

"Postum has done a world of good for me," writes an ill man.

"I've had indigestion nearly all my life but never drank coffee was the cause of my trouble until last spring I got so bad I was in misery all the time.

"A coffee drinker for 30 years, it irritated my stomach and nerves, yet I was just crazy for it. After drinking it out my meals, I would leave the table, go with but never drink coffee to Postum. Then I'd be as hungry as ever.

"A friend advised me to quit coffee and use Postum—said it cured him. Since taking his advice I retain my food and get all the good out of it, and don't have those awful hungry spells.

"I changed from coffee to Postum without any trouble whatever, felt better from the first day I drank it. I am well now and give the credit to Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. There's a reason.

RED OAK, Ia., Aug. 2.—(Special).—The picnic given by the merchants of this place, held on the fair grounds, was a grand success and attracted the largest crowd Red Oak has had for many years.

All business houses were closed, and from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. the postoffice was closed. Three ball games and various races furnished the amusement for the jolly crowd.

Farmers with well-filled baskets and town people partook of the good things that were prepared for the occasion. Eighteen hundred gallons of coffee, 1,000 sacks of peanuts, and twenty-five barrels of lemons were served to keep the crowd good natured.

The Japanese fireworks in the evening were appreciated. Much credit is due to the merchants. This will be an annual affair.
