

CATARRH OF THE INTERNAL ORGANS OFTEN THE WORST FORM OF CATARRH

Miss Helen Spencer, of St. Louis, Was Afflicted For Years With Catarrh of the Liver. Pe-ru-na Brought Relief.

MISS HELEN SPENCER.

"I am like a new person and feel perfectly well and happy. I never saw anything work like your valuable Pe-ru-na and it is a pleasure to recommend it to others."—Helen Spencer.

Miss Helen Spencer, 324 Cook Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"I gladly recommend Peruna to all those who are troubled with catarrh of the liver. That was my trouble for years and I know all about it. I was tired, despondent, had a bad taste in my mouth in the morning and felt generally used up nearly all the time. I took Peruna because I had taken about everything else and felt so badly that it seemed imperative that I should try it."

"I am like a new person and feel perfectly well and happy. I never saw anything work like your valuable Peruna and it is a pleasure to recommend it to others."

A catarrhal condition of the stomach may spread to the duodenum and thence continue through the large bile ducts into the liver.

This partly obstructs the bile ducts and produces sluggishness of the liver. Sometimes the ducts are so obstructed as to produce a stoppage of the bile, in which case the bile is thickened and forms into concretions called gall stones. Bilious colic is the result.

Most cases of bilious colic depend upon catarrh of the liver. For this condition purgatives are generally used. These give temporary relief, but do not cure.

The correct thing to do is to remove the catarrh. Then the liver rights itself. Any one troubled with sluggish liver should give Peruna a fair trial.

If, after taking one bottle, relief is experienced, it should be followed by a thorough course of Peruna until complete relief is obtained.

CLEMENTS GIVES HIMSELF UP

South Omaha Man Tells of Trouble Over Cow, but Denies Shooting.

SURRENDERS TO SARRY COUNTY OFFICIALS

Man Said to Have Fatally Shot Low Goldie Admits to Papillion Authorizes Being in Trouble, but Not Shooting.

Fritz Clements, said to have fired the shot that caused the death of Low Goldie Friday evening in South Omaha, surrendered himself to the Sarpy county authorities Saturday morning at Papillion. Clements reached the Sarpy county seat at midnight. Immediately on reaching Papillion Clements told of the trouble with Goldie over a cow and in the morning reiterated the story, but stoutly denied doing any shooting. He said he is a Goldie had been shot.

Carl, his eldest son, was with Clements. The other two sons, William and Henry, have not been apprehended. The police, assisted by Sheriff McAvoy of Sarpy county and his deputy, spent a large part of the last evening trying to run down Henry and William Clements, the two sons of Frantz Clements, still wanted for the shooting of Low Goldie. Five of the boys have been working at Armour's packing house. Since the shooting the two larger of the sons left at home and hid in a hiding. It was tipped off to the neighbors that the two returned home at dusk last night and a search party was hurried out. It is thought that small boys warned the older ones of the approach of the officers and they slipped away into the tall woods and the cornfields in the vicinity. After a search of several hours the police returned. The police expect eventually to round up the whole family.

Stories are told about the packing houses of the erratic temper and the outbursts of passion to which Fritz Clements is subject. Not over four days ago he had some words with a colored man by the name of "Texas," as he is commonly called. In telling of the affair afterward Clements said that "Texas" had called him a vile name. Soon after, at a party going down the stairs, Clements boasted, the latter picked up a lead box, made of inch lumber, about four feet square and two and a half deep and dropped it over the banisters on the unprotected head of "Texas." The man, who was leaning over at the way "Texas" rolled down the stairs. He said, "I'd kill a man who called me that name." Clements was Armour's hide inspector.

Goldie Dies at Hospital. Low Goldie, the victim of the fatal Sarpy county shooting, died at the South Omaha hospital at 3:35 a. m. Saturday. During the night he had periods of consciousness or semi-consciousness. The fatal wound was from a .28-caliber rifle ball, passing in from the left side in a direction to strike the heart. It was deflected downward by a rib, passing through the large intestine, and striking the kidney and spine. His body lies at the undertaking rooms of Heafey & Heafey, where an inquest was arranged for during the morning by Coroner Armstrong of Sarpy county. Goldie is survived by a wife and small child. He appears to have been in poor circumstances, as a subscription list was circulated to meet the burial expenses.

The remark of Goldie, which drew on him the fire of the Clement family, after hearing from Mrs. Baechus how her son, J. Baechus, had been killed by the Clement boys, was, "Well, if I'd been here, that kind of a fight wouldn't have been pulled off." This the Clements heard, or he repeated it to them. The family, then, excited to the pitch of murder, began, according to all present testimony, the fatal assault.

ALLEGED VICTIM OF BLACKHAND

Pasquale Greco Found Gagged and Bound in Hallway in New York City.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Pasquale Greco, 35 years old, who was reported several days ago as having been kidnaped by a black hand gang, was found today in a hallway on Eleventh street, gagged and blindfolded and with his feet and hands tied. He told the police that since late Tuesday night he had been a prisoner of several Italians, who had given him neither food nor water in the eighty hours of his captivity. Eugene Duché, a tailor, who notified the police of Greco's presence in the hallway, was arrested on suspicion of knowing something of the kidnaping.

Attore Ricci was arrested on Wednesday last charged with accepting a payment of $500 to prevent death by black hand methods of Alfonso Schettini, an Italian grocer, and his friend, Greco. Ricci, the police said, Greco had been kidnaped and detectives were at once started in search of him. Greco told the police today that five men seized him at Bleeker and Sullivan streets about midnight Tuesday and placed him in a cellar, the location of which he does not know, and kept him there until early today, when he was removed to a hallway, still gagged and bound. Greco said he would know three of the men who kidnaped him.

The suspicious of the police that Greco's story would bear investigation were aroused by the manner in which he was bound, the marks of the ropes indicating that he had not long been a captive. A piece of rope similar to that which Greco was tied with was discovered in the pockets of Duché. Duché was arraigned in police court charged with complicity in the alleged kidnaping of Greco, but was discharged from custody.

WOMAN ASSAULTED ON STREET

Mrs. Margaret McKeane Knocked Down and Beaten by an Unidentified Man.

While returning home late last evening Mrs. Margaret McKeane, 711 North Nineteenth street, was assaulted on the corner of Twenty-second and Dodge streets. Mrs. McKeane states that just before she reached the corner a man came running across the street and struck her down with some blunt instrument, and after she fell struck her repeatedly. She was removed to the house of Dr. Lake and afterward taken to the police station, where her wounds were dressed by Police Surgeons Elmore and Flynn, an ugly cut on the head requiring eleven stitches to close and numerous bruises also required attention. Later she was conveyed home and no serious complications are expected, despite the fact that she is an elderly woman. Owing to the darkness Mrs. McKeane was unable to give a description of her assailant.

Knocked Down by Car.

While attempting to locate a friend, Mrs. Charles Groves and daughter were knocked down and slightly injured about 6 o'clock last evening. The accident occurred at 224 North Seventeenth street. Mr. and Mrs. Groves and three children were driving and had stopped the horse to locate a friend just as the car of an unidentified man was passing. Mrs. Groves sustained a cut on the back of the head

DELAY IN CONSPIRACY CASE

Prosecutions at Pittsburg Will Await End of the Hartje Divorce Case.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 4.—Admission was made today by detectives employed on the Hartje case that the conspiracy charges against at least two prominent men as a result of the divorce trial had not been dropped, but that proceedings merely had been suspended to await the conclusion of the arguments, which will start before Judge Probert Fraser next Monday.

Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje's attorneys are refraining from any move, it is understood, in order to avert a continuance of the case. Arrests at this time, it is said, might hinder the ending of the case and cause complications not desired.

MAMMOTH OVENS AT COURTESY'S

Welsh Sixty-Ton Apiece and Made of Glass and Brick—Require Six Solid Columns for Support.

Two immense bake ovens, each weighing sixty tons, and each supported by three massive columns of brick and concrete are being installed in the new Courtney grocery. These ovens in size and character are novelties in the west. They are after the patterns of the latest improved ovens of Lyons and Paris and there are said to be but a few of the kind in the world. The ovens are built in interior measurement and built entirely of fire brick. Hundreds of pies and cakes can be baked at a time in each of these structures and loaves of bread enough to satisfy a whole army could be baked in a few hours. Two tons of glass are to be used in each oven. The glass is to be heated only once a day. After a fire of hickory wood has burned underneath for a few hours, the glass at the top and bottom of the ovens retains enough heat to bake for four hours. This baking plant will be in full operation when the grocery opens September 15th, in its new building at Seventeenth and Douglas streets.

In the construction and equipment of this modern pure food center Mr. Courtney, who has had a long experience so arranged as to make it a brilliant example of Omaha industry. Omaha concerns have filled every contract. The fixtures, which well informed men declare are second in beauty and modern character to none in this country, were all designed and made in Omaha. They are made of selected granite, granite, white oak, all finished in fumed oak patterns with large flakes. All counters are circle and all fixtures have base of Alps green marble. In the meat and fish section, the counter tops are of white marble, 2 inches thick and 30 inches wide. To equip the building a solid carload of marble has been shipped to Omaha.

One of the most interesting sights in the new store will be in the basement, main entrance to which is from the west tunnel from Brandeis' new store. This basement will be devoted to fresh meats and fish and the delicatessen store, where ready cooked meats and dishes of all kinds may be bought by housekeepers all prepared for the table. All finishings will be marble, fumed oak and plate glass, while the floor is of marble slabs. It is the aim to have everything about the store the nearest possible approach to sanitary perfection. Fish will be kept in slate tanks. On the drained marble counters, fish will be continually packed in ice. Three immense refrigerator boxes, 50 feet by 100 feet and twelve feet high will sit against the walls. These boxes are fronted with windows of three thicknesses of plate glass, the extra glass to prevent the formation of moisture on the inner pane. One great box is for fish and fresh meat. The second is for smoked and corned beef, poultry, game and delicatessen foods. In the third box of beef can be corned at one time. The third box will be for cheese, butter, eggs and fruit, all in separate compartments. In the meat box, large enough in itself for a fair sized butcher shop, are marble shelves and galvanized iron racks with the wrapping desks at the side of the meat to their hooks. These tracks are equipped with switches and the meat is not touched from the time it leaves the hands of the inspector and is hooked to the overhead track leading to the box, until it is taken down to be cut by a meat cutter in sterilized clothing. This meat cutter will stay in the box all day and since the temperature is to be 44 degrees it is expected that he will work fast to keep comfortable. The glass fronts to the boxes make it possible for customers to see all the meat, poultry and game from the outside and make such selections as they wish.

An electric conveyor system underneath the counters does away with the superfluous handling of meats and vegetables after their selection. Everything is placed on these conveyors and carried to the wrapping desks. Electric dumb waiters run from floor to floor, notifying attendants of their arrivals by colored lights at the elevator entrances, relegating songs to the background.
