Steel Cur Defles Wreek.

The first steel passenger car to go through a wreck in this country has come through with colors flying and the steel car is proven to be the only thing. In a wreck on the Erie, near Burbank, O., one of the steel mail cars was derailed and plunged down a twelve-foot embankment. The car urned over three times, but was very lightly damaged, and two mail clerks esaped with a few slight bruises. The bagge and express cars immediately behind e hall car were of wood and also plunged down the embankment but were demolished. The Harriman lines are working out new designs for these cars, which will be manufactured extensively in the Omaha shops us soon as the new car shops are completed.

TRAINOR WANTS STEEL USED

Thinks the County Would Profit by Construction of Several Permanent Bridges.

Chairman P. J. Trainor of the bridge com mittee of the county board is in favor of the construction by the county each, year of a number of permanent steel or cement bridges on main traveled roads, and for this reason does not favor limiting the bridge fund to actual temporary and current expenses.

"We have about 1,500 pile bridges in the county," said Mr. Trainor, "and the expense of maintaining them is large. The life of these structures is only a few years and they are liable to collapse. We are inable to look after all of them properly. would be in favor of building as many permanent structures on main traveled roads as we can each year. In the long run it would be economy to the county and we would get much better service."
