

BROKERS OUT OF BUSINESS

Ticket Scalpers Enjoined from Dealing in Railroad Transportation in Nebraska.

JUDGE CARLAND HANDS DOWN DECISION

Effect is to Put the Men Who Deal in Tickets Out of This Line of Bread-winning.

Judge Carland handed down his decision Saturday morning in the United States circuit court granting a temporary injunction asked by the railroads against the ticket brokers from in future buying, selling, or in any way dealing in special rate or nontransferable railway tickets in this state.

Claim of the Railroads.

The railroads held, on the other hand, that the ticket brokers were irresponsible, had not a dollar invested in their business and simply interfered between the railroads and their patrons, and that they were in the habit of signing the names of other persons than the original purchasers to tickets requiring signatures and which were sold to the original purchaser with the distinct contract that the ticket was not transferable.

No Future Interference.

The decision prohibits the ticket brokers from interfering in the future with the business of the railroads. A proviso is made in the decision that the railroads shall give bond to indemnify the brokers for any loss they may sustain from tickets that they may now have on hand that were procured from the railroads or from any other legitimate source.

Just what action the attorneys for the brokers will take is not yet definitely decided upon.

Up Against It Hard.

"We are, of course, up against it hard, just as we have been since the granting of the restraining order June 19. We simply will have to quit business until the matter is settled on the hearing of the permanent injunction. There is very little money made in the sale of other than non-transferable tickets and now all the railroads will have to do with all tickets will be to simply stamp them nontransferable. Our attorneys have not yet decided just what is to be done, and in the meanwhile we will just have to shut up shop."

MAYOR IN MIRE OF MYSTERY

Colonel Dahlgren Gets Dose of Mathematics in Rival Scales Investigation.

The contest of rival scale manufacturers at the city hall before Mayor Dahlgren has developed into a purely mathematical problem of complexity and proportions. The mayor is hearing more about fractions and the law of averages than it has been his fortune to have thrust upon him during his entire previous career.

Manager Theobald of the Toledo Computing Scale company finished a five-hour attack on the Toledo scale late Thursday afternoon and Manager Day immediately took up the defense, continuing it Saturday morning. He declared that his scale simply computed the fractions of cents, so that the dealer got the benefit of everything from a half a cent upwards and the buyer everything below half a cent. He asserted this was "commercially correct," and then followed the same plan as the dealer invariably adopts when using the old balance scales. He made a number of demonstrations to back up his contention and submitted a huge chart of computed fractions for the guidance of the mayor.

Manager Theobald declared the attacks made on the Toledo scale were unjust and that any criticisms that might be made applied to scales of longer made or not, which only by certain interpretations could have any shadow of objectionable features. Efforts of the Dayton people to put the Toledo scale on trial alongside their own were overruled by the mayor.

FURNACE TROUBLE

Hands Up! All who have a furnace and never had trouble of any kind. What, only three hands up, and all Esquimaux? No wonder you never had trouble.

We wish we were at liberty to give you the names of the many Far Sighted Omaha People who have had their furnaces put in perfect working order by us.

It is a crime to burn from 5 to 20 tons of coal and live like Esquimaux. Our inspectors' services are absolutely free during August and later if your wants can be reached. Last year many calls for furnace inspection had to be refused on account of rush of business after fall work began.

We want the Far Sighted users of troublesome furnaces to let us look after their needs now while the days are long and cellars light. It is a matter of economy.

2,000,000 pounds of stove, range and furnace repairs on hand. 95 per cent of the repairs wanted can be had from our repair stock.

WATER FRONTS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION FURNACES

Are you building? Don't buy a furnace until you see our Excelsior Air Blast Furnace. It will keep you from living like an Esquimaux and keep you from being as poor as a church mouse, as it requires so little fuel. Just insist upon an Excelsior furnace and any furnaceman will put it in for you. Don't be talked into something else just as good. There is nothing on the market just like the Excelsior.
