The convention is peculiar in that no one eems to know what will happen. Shallenberger developed considerable strength during the night and this morning, and yet, just before adjournment, it looked as case was called by President Upham of though Berge had a good lead. Hitchcock the board of review, counsel fon the comhas made a fight for the Alma man such as he never before put up. He is working with the rallroad or conservative element of the party cheek by jowl and personally all day he distributed Shallenberger badges and solicited votes for his man. Dahlman and his crowd of fellows on the delegation were for Thompson, and the mayor said he would place him in nomination whether he would accept or not. It is thought they
