NEITHER PARTY SATISFIED

Becomes Evident Hitchcock and Thompson Made a Tie.

SOME TALK OF REMODELING THE TICKET

Hitchcock at One Time Badly Frightened at How He Had Stirred Up and Called for Help to Quiet the Populists.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Aug. 17.—(Special.)—“Neither party nor democrats will ever be satisfied with the ticket named here last Thursday morning.” This is the general exclamation of both democrats and populists in Lincoln and some even go so far as to say when Bryan comes home he should try and have Shallenberger withdrawn and let the committee name some good man with an anti-corporation record. That Thompson and Hitchcock tied up at the last moment to defeat Berge there is no doubt among the rank and file in this county, and it is supposed most of the leaders know all the time. Hitchcock is blamed by both democrats and populists. Metcalf's defense of Berge on the convention floor has strengthened him. While Berge has gained friends and admirers among the democrats by his magnificent conduct after his defeat, he has lost the political friendship of a number of the old-time populists. A half-dozen of them bade him good-bye Thursday night and told him hereafter they would travel different roads in politics, not because Berge refused the populist nomination, but because they had decided to endorse Shallenberger.

Hitchcock became badly frightened when he realized what a storm the nomination of Shallenberger raised, and once during the proceedings he advised getting some one to go to the party this morn. Some one suggested Hall and his life.

“Yes, they are the men to go,” said Hitchcock, “they can do it.”

“Let Hitchcock go himself,” retorted Metcalf. “He got us into this trouble. Let him get us out.”

“But wouldn't go. He preferred to let the democrats get out of the hole into which he put them the best way they could, but he didn't intend to risk being hissed and jeered by crossing the street himself.”

Like the Platform.

The proposed platform drawn by a committee appointed for that purpose to be submitted to the republican state convention next Wednesday, has taken the wind out of the sails of the Lincoln “fake reformers” and their cohorts.

“I have not had time to read the platform carefully,” said Governor Mickey, “but it looks like it covers the ground pretty thoroughly. I don't see any of the anti-pass and freight clauses could be any stronger. I think it is clear cut.”

Attorney General Brown said: “The platform is good. It is clear cut and to the point. It covers the ground all right.”

“It looks like it is good one. It is dignified and speaks for the state as a whole and national. I think it is what the convention wants,” said Superintendent McBrien.

“I have not read the platform carefully,” said Land Commissioner Eaton, “but from glancing over it I think it speaks out plainly on all the issues.”

Secretary of State Galusha said: “The platform is a dandy. It covers everything and I think the convention will adopt it just as it is published.”

Mr. Mortensen said he had not yet had an opportunity to read the platform and Auditor Seale is out of the state on expenses could be secured from them.

It is understood some of these who have been objecting to the personnel of the resolutions committee, which was appointed by the executive committee upon authority given by the republican state committee, will insist that the platform should have been more specific in regard to the assessment of railroad property.

George S. Rouse, candidate for governor, came in tonight and will remain until after the convention next Wednesday. Speaking of the proposed platform, he was nominated by the committee on resolutions.

The platform looks all right, though I might suggest some changes.”

“What changes would you suggest?” was asked.

“I will, I don't know; you people might use different language.”

He would suggest no definite change. Speaking of the Dodge delegation Mr. Rouse said the delegation was for Rouse and probably Brown would have half of it.

Chance for Governor to Invest.
Governor Mickey has received the following letter from Clarkston, addressed “The State Capitol”:

“Will you please let me know what the governor pays for pocket poppers? I have one and I don't know what it is worth. I think it won't be worth shipping it. So let me know what the governor pays for them and send me a few shipping tags, if you please.”

The governor has always figured the “tail goes with the hide,” but as gophers are a drug on the market, so far as the state is concerned, he is not now offering any premiums for this kind of a pet, though he has been after a few other scamps lately.

More Investments Needed.
Treasurer Mortensen has figured up that since December 1, 1904, the counties of the state have issued $450,000 school bonds. The treasurer was figuring to see if the counties were getting ahead of the state in this respect. He found that the permanent school fund could be used for investment in school district bonds, whether the result would remove the pressure. He concludes the amendment should also give the treasurer the right to buy good municipal bonds, as well as school district bonds.

State Home Briefs.
General Manager Bishop of the corn contest to be pulled off in Lincoln next December has received a letter from the secretary of agriculture stating that Dick J. Crosby will represent the department at the meeting. Mr. Crosby is expected to remain throughout the season.

Superintendent McBrien received a letter today from Superintendent Koch of Seward county stating that all of his teachers had passed the examination under the new certification law, or would pass within the next few days, as those who had not finished their examinations were the older teachers, who would have no trouble. Mr. Koch said his teachers found no trouble with the new law.

James D. Fisher, chairman of the San Francisco relief committee, has written Governor Mickey asking him for a statement of the money sent and yet to be sent by the various committees organized in the Nebraska for the relief of the California sufferers. Governor Mickey desires the names of the various committees to notify him at once of the money they have on hand and have sent west.

Superintendent McBrien addressed the teachers' institutes at Auburn and Weeping Water yesterday. He reports good attendance, and that the institutes were much interested. He said, in being taken in the meetings.

FIFTY YEARS BETWEEN TRIPS

Oregon Man Returns to Nebraska with the Same Wagon He Took Out.

FREMONT, Neb., Aug. 17.—(Special.)—Mr. Meeker, the old gentleman who is making the trip from the Pacific coast to Ohio with an ox team and the same wagon with which he first crossed the plains to Oregon fifty years ago, will be in Fremont on September 3, and take part in the semi-centennial celebration of the founding of the city. He writes the committee that he will have to lengthen his schedule a little, but will be on time. He camped here over night fifty years ago and is returning over the same route he took at the time. He is collecting material for a book on the old overland trail which he expects to publish next winter and on account of his interviews as far as possible with the old pioneers still living along the route.

Mr. Meeker's return along the old route has been somewhat in the nature of a continuous reception and at many points along the route stone tablets have been erected suitably inscribed, marking the location of the old route. This city was laid out by Honorable E. H. Barnard, who is now living here and will take part in the exercises of the day. With the old military road as a base line and at some point on it within the limits a stone marker will probably be placed.

Young Man Injured at Lovettville.
LOUISVILLE, Aug. 17.—(Special.)—A young man who gives his name as C. E. Negus and home 102 State street, Des Moines, Ia., was accidentally run over by an eastbound Burlington freight at 10:30 last evening. The wheels cut off one limb above the knee and bruised the other badly. Negus has been working in the printing office at Weeping Water and came from that place on the freight last evening. It is supposed that he intended to board the train and missed his footing. Negus died tonight.

Sheriff Called in Family Trouble.
PILOER, Neb., Aug. 17.—(Special Telegram.)—D. C. Cole and family, formerly of South Omaha, but who moved here this last spring and has been working for C. H. Chase on one of his ranches, caused no little excitement in the neighborhood this afternoon when Cole was in the field at work his wife took what was earthly belongings they had and left. He overtook her before she got to Pilger and took the baby, their only child, away from her and threatened to kill her. She came on to town and secured a warrant for his arrest, and Sheriff Stuecher is after him.

Consider the Soda Cracker

Science has proved and established the fact that the soda cracker is the most nutritious and healthful article of food made from flour.

When it is considered that Uneda Biscuit are the perfect soda crackers it is no wonder that nearly 400,000 packages have been sold—the only wonder being that any one can go a day without Uneda Biscuit.
