2:30 p.m.—Second half final round Nebraska amateur championship; 18 holes, match play; cup to become property of winner; runner-up to receive prize.

Jerome Magee and Sprague Abbott will play off today at the Country club for the golf championship of Nebraska, as these two were the winners in the semi-finals of the tournament of the Nebraska Golf as sociation which is now on at the Country club. Both these players had a hard fight for the honor of being in the finals and both were down to their men at different times during their matches and looked as if they were to lose out, but strong rallies in each instance saved the day.

The putting contest for the women in the afternoon was well attended, especially by the women of the Field club. Considerable pterest was attached to this feature of e tournament and the women divided honors with the men. The Country club grounds were beautiful and the improve nents which have been made were of greahelp in handling a large tournament. The links were put in splendid condition for the tournament, especially the greens, which were about perfect. The bull ring, or circus great favorite, although few could drive the ring with the wind which was blowing in the Kinsler-Abbott match both made good drives at the first tee and both subbed second. Kinsier overran his approach and halved hole one. Kinsler's putt saved hole. On the second both drove well when Abbott got into rough, got out well, but Kinsler won hole by another good putt. On the third Abbott topped his drive, which practically lost the hole for him. On the fourth Kinsler lost by topping his drive. Both drove well on fifth. Abbott on his second landed in the ditch and lost the hole, making Kinsler two up. Both drove well on the sixth, but Kinsler's second lie put him to the bad and cost him the hole, which was halved. The seventh was lest by Kinsler's failure to ers, and the enthusiasts seemed to prefer to wait for the semi-finals in the afternoon. The course got faster as the tournament progressed and the hot sun dried out the moisture until the links were as fast as possible. A fine breeze came up about noon, which was quite a help to the players, although it made some of the drives hard. The happlest man on the grounds at noon was E. H. Sprague, who won from R. R.

"I thought the sun would never set or the day I could beat Dick Kimball," said Mr. Sprague, "for I have tried for just Sprague lost the first hole by a poor putt nd won the second by a ten-foot putt. Kimball lost the third by driving into the rough and then won 4 by going one un-der bogoy. They see-sawed back and forth until the ninth, when Sprague was 2 up. Kimball laid himself stymie on the tenth and Sprague won the eleventh in 3 with in 4 and the thirteenth in 3. Sprague halved the fourteenth and fifteenth and won the match by a good putt on the six-hole-all even.

Two beautiful drives characterized the ner, although Magee has been playing minth and Kinsler overran his putt, while some fast golf. Abbott made it in three, helped by a defect in the hole.

Abbott's medal play was $1, while McClure's was 85. In the Bancker-Magee match the first hole was halved in five as Magee missed an easy putt. Women's Putting Contest. In the putting contest for women in the afternoon Miss Kimball was winner, 1 up on 18 holes. The play for this event is over a 9-hole putting course in front of the club house. The game is the same as the regular golf game except that it is all putting. All the matches were at 9 holes except the final, which was 18 holes. The finals between Miss Redick and Miss Kimball was by far the most interesting. Miss Redick lost 5 holes of the first 9 and then braced until the 17th, when Miss Kimball was just I up on Miss Redick. They halved the 17th and 18th, which gave the prize, a splendid cut glass mirror, to Miss Kimball, sister to R. R. and T. R. who for years have been recognized as among the best golfers of the city. The putting contest attracted considerable nterest and was most successful. It was played while the major portion of the gallery was watching the Magee-Bancker and the Abbott-McClure contests. The feature of the putting contest was the early defeat of Mrs. E. H. Sprague by Miss Belle Dewey. Mrs. Sprague is the holder of the western championship and a splendid player, but was decidedly off in her put-
