The texts and methods used in the school are strictly up-to-date and represent the best ideas of those who are working for the moral and intellectual development of young people.

A free trial week is given that those who enter may see the character of the school, the class of attendants, and the spirit of teachers and students.

Those who wish to do so may pay tuition by monthly advance payments. If for any reason a student, parent or guardian is not entirely satisfied, or if for any reason a student wishes to leave the school, money for unexpired time will be promptly refunded.

The students of this school are in great demand at the highest prices paid to beginners.

There is a great domand for well-educated young men of personal and moral purity. No other profession pays so well at the beginning or offers such opportunity for advancement as the profession of stenography.

The Fall Term begins Monday, September 3d. Students may enter at any time after this date.
