UNITED STATES BENATE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 13, 1901.

E. Rosewater, Esq., Omaha, Neb.:

My Dear Sir: I am in receipt of yours of the 9th instant and contents fully whoted. I cannot tell you how disappointed we all are at the situation in your state, at it seems almost criminal that after such a victory the fruits of it should be jeopardized by the ambitions of any candidate. It is seems to me that the time is near at hand when some one must rise to the emergency of the situation and find a way out of the trouble. The president talks with me every day about it and I need to not say is very anxious that something be done. I have avoided doing anything that awould make any trouble or cause any criticism from any of the candidates. Mr. Payne and I have suggested one more effort at a caucus, on the two-thirds plan. voting for one candidate at a time, and all agree to abide the result. Falling in this I know of no other solution, unless to take up an entire new set of candidates. This latter alternative was not suggested to Mr. Schneider, nor do I want to propose it if it would cause any bad feeling. I have suggested no names to any one as compromise candidates. But I do say that if you can be the means of solving this question it will give you a position and prestige in the party which does not often fall to the lot of a man in politics.
