Snore Betrays Burglar.

The snore of James Weber was his undeng when he was in the house of Ambrose Perkins for the purpose of burglary in Youngstown, O.' He had effected an entrance by removing a screen, and then had sone to the refrigerator and sideboard. A too liberal consumption of the beverages he found therein and the hearty meal he ate put him to sleep before he had completed his job.

A long-drawn-out snore awakened Mr Perkins. He looked from his bed to behold a heavy set man sound asleep by his bedside, and when a moment later his wife awoke she almost fainted.

"Got in the wrong house, I guess." was the thick answer from the man, and Mr Perkins was about to escort him out when he discovered the contents of his wallet or the floor, where it had fallen from the hand of the man. Weber was taken to the polic station.
