

MESSAGES OF CONDOLENCE

Friends of Edward Rosewater Express Their Sorrow.

SENATOR DOLLIVER AND OTHERS WRITE

Captain Brooks, Who Was with Mr. Rosewater at the Post Office at Rome, Sends His Message of Love and Sympathy.

Messages of condolence and sympathy to the family of Edward Rosewater continue to come by wire and mail from all parts of the country. There are breaths of sympathy and warmest regards for the dead man and the deepest sorrow at his death. Some of these from the most notable are here published:

A weakling may be kept of kindly race, And in his patient face a deeper hold, But here was one out of the common mould, Who built his throne and made himself a place.

He wrote a splendid story with his pen Of patience, energy, of faith and skill, Which gave us all a deeper hold on life, And in the peaceful slumber of his will.

He was opposed, but while the victors sang Their triumph songs a messenger drew nigh, And called him far away. Men do not die, They do but go to dwell in other climes.

FURT DODGE, La., Sept. 1.—Mr. Victor Rosewater: I have just read with great sorrow of the death of your father and I write for the purpose of expressing the sympathy and condolence of my friends and myself.

Your father was one of the strong and noble men who have accomplished so much in laying the foundation upon which the growth and prosperity of the middle west has been built. He was a man of great intellectual powers, of upright purposes and combined with these qualities a restless energy and activity which were a source of inspiration to all who came in contact with him. He was a man of great courage and a man of great faith. He was a man of great energy and a man of great faith. He was a man of great energy and a man of great faith.

With cordial personal regards, yours very truly, J. P. DODGE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.—Dear Mr. Rosewater: Please accept my heartiest sympathy for the loss of your father. I have just read of his death and I am sure that you will find that many, especially those who supported him for the senatorial nomination, will feel that they have sustained a great personal loss. His thorough knowledge of public questions and his high character and integrity were a great asset to the country.

With sincere best wishes for you and the other members of the family, I remain, yours very truly, N. M. BROOKS.

Mr. Victor Rosewater—I sympathize most deeply with you in the sudden and unexpected affliction caused by your father's death. He occupied a place in this state which no other will fill. With kindest regards I am, yours sincerely, R. E. ROEDER.

MEXICO CITY, MEXICO, Sept. 2.—Victor Rosewater: Sincere regrets and deepest sympathies. D. E. THOMPSON.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Sept. 1.—Mrs. Edward Rosewater: Mrs. Heath and I are deeply grieved over your great and irreparable loss, and I have lost a dear old friend. PERRY B. HEATH.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Sept. 1.—Andrew Rosewater: I am in reach of wire and learn of death of Edward Rosewater. My most sincere sympathy. BURDETTE MOODY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Mr. Victor Rosewater: It was with genuine sorrow that we learned of the sudden death of your father. We respected Mr. Edward Rosewater very highly for his character and courage, and his interesting and amiable personality made him a welcome visitor in our office. We wish to convey to you and through you to your family, our sincere sympathy in your bereavement. Very respectfully, J. & W. SELLIGMAN & CO.

BOISE, Ida., Aug. 31.—Mr. Victor Rosewater: I am writing this to express my sympathy to yourself and brother at the loss of your father. I consider his death a great loss not only to you but to the state where he has battled so long and well, but to the entire west. Your respectfully, D. H. ANDERSON.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Aug. 31.—Mr. Victor Rosewater: Please accept my profound sympathy in this hour of your loss. Your father was a great man. The railway postal clerk had a small note set apart for him, but as small as it was, your father did not want it. He was too great to get into it with us, and frequently we found him in our midst working in our behalf. We will miss him. Sincerely yours, W. W. METZ.

GROW AGENCY, Mont., Sept. 1.—Mrs. Edward Rosewater: Just received paper announcing Mr. Rosewater's death. You have my deepest sympathy and condolence in your sorrow and bereavement. G. D. MEIKLEJOHN.

MANITOW, Colo., Sept. 1.—Victor Rosewater: I have just read with great sorrow of the death of your father and I write for the purpose of expressing the sympathy and condolence of my friends and myself. great war. The old soldiers and his comrades of our past of the Grand Army were with pride the eloquent address he made on the occasion of Memorial day, 1905. A copy of this address, which was fittingly read by the Grand Army of the Republic, is being sent to you. It is a fitting tribute to his memory. Very truly yours, DR. M. V. CLARK.

NIOBHARA, Neb., Aug. 31.—Mr. Victor Rosewater: I was grieved to learn of the sudden death of your father. I feel keenly the loss of a kind friend and a man of great ability in many ways. To yourself and family it is a grief beyond human to relieve. The state loses its greatest citizen, because he was foremost for the people in their struggle for an independence that led to the triumph of the 26th inst. for the reason that it reveals a character that would lead the world to know him and his enemies attempted to make the world believe. Yours sincerely, E. A. FRY.

OUR LETTER BOX.

HAYES CENTER, Neb., Sept. 1.—To the Editor of The Bee: An editorial in the State Journal of August 28 regarding "Western Land Values" does the southwestern part of the state a great injustice. When the writer of the editorial makes the statement that only the "dry farming" method is successful, that "none of the real farmers is that the land must be tilled two years to make one crop; that it requires a double portion of labor to produce a crop; that it is more difficult to get a stand of alfalfa in the west than in the east; and that like statements, he either made them from absolute ignorance or with a deliberate intent to injure the western part of the state. The facts are that the Journal asked G. A. Joveland, director of the United States weather bureau at Lincoln, if it would have found that the precipitation at Lincoln for the year 1905 was 35.77 inches, at Hayes Center 35.58 inches, a slight difference of 2.51 inches during the year. The monthly reports of the bureau for 1906 will show that about the same ratio has been maintained, so the dear old farmer need not begin teaching the farmers of Lancaster county the principles of "dry farming."

From a few figures taken from the statistics furnished by the bureau of labor, with office at the capitol building, Lincoln, Neb., about the area of the Journal we find that the area of the state is 730 square miles; county organized in 1884; Lancaster, 864 square miles; organized in 1889, somewhat larger and older than Hayes. Total population of Hayes, 5,708; townships, 220; total farming population, 2,438; city, 61,851; county and townships, 6,332; total farming population, 18,003. The report from the same bureau would have shown the Journal the following facts:

Lancaster—Hayes—
Corn—246,575 23,158,225
Wheat—5,000 78,123
Cattle—2,000 12,000
Barley—250 2,000
Rye—250 2,000
Totals—338,825 3,900,000

From this we find the per capita value of Hayes county to be $183; Lancaster, 207, a difference of only $24 in favor of Lancaster county in the eastern part of the state and Hayes county in the southwestern.

On the basis of one farmer to each five inhabitants, there would be 492 farmers in Hayes, and 3,721 in Lancaster. From this we find that each farmer in Hayes farms ninety-four acres and raises $1,000 worth of grain. Lancaster farmers each farm ninety-two acres and raise $1,004. Basing the value of land in Hayes county at $10 per acre, we find that the average investment to each farmer is $900, his income $917 or 97 per cent. Basing the value of farm land in Lancaster county at $90 per acre, we find the average investment of each farmer to be $820, his income, $1,004, or 122 per cent.

It will be seen that the farmer in Hayes county is making 97 per cent on his investment, while his brother in Lancaster county is making only 122 per cent. From the same source we find that each farmer in Hayes county has 11.3 acres of cattle and 18.8 head of hogs; in Lancaster county each farmer has 11.3 acres of cattle and 12.8 head of hogs. The cattle and hogs of the farmer in Hayes county do not give the value, but it will be observed that in the per capita production of meat products the Hayes county farmer has twice the number of cattle and hogs as the Lancaster farmer. Considering the price of cattle and hogs, the total average income of the Hayes county farmer will exceed the total income of the Lancaster county farmer.

The statement that the land must be tilled two years to make one crop, is absolutely false. For the reason that the Hayes county farmer does not raise a crop each year, but the same as in Lancaster. As to alfalfa, there are now but few farmers in the county who do not have their alfalfa, it having been demonstrated during the past few years that it will grow and do well even on the highest divides and there are very few who fail to get a good stand the first year.

The statement that it requires a double portion of labor to produce a crop is also false, for one man with six horses will farm more acres in Hayes county than can be done in Lancaster, because our soil is richer and we do not have so many of the obnoxious weeds with which the Lancaster farmer has to contend. I personally know of several farmers in Hayes county who, without any help, put out and cultivate 100 to 200 acres of corn and do not pay a cent for help except to get the corn husked. The facts are that the farmer less in Hayes county per acre to plant, cultivate and harvest his crop than it does the farmer of Lancaster county.

The only conclusion to be drawn from the facts and conditions are that in proportion to the average production for the past ten years the lands in southwestern Nebraska are far below, or the lands in the eastern part are far above their value. Judging from experience and observation in Hayes county for the past eighteen years, I believe lands in Hayes county will continue to advance to twice, yes, thrice their present prices, and then the farmer will make a greater net profit on his investment and for his labor than the farmer in Lancaster and other counties in the eastern part of the state. C. A. READY.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

No Formal Observance of Labor Day Beyond Suspension of Work.

A. O. U. W. CARNIVAL FORMALLY OPENED

Bohemian Turners Complete Their Contests, Announce Winners and Wind Up with a Dance.

Labor day was quiet in South Omaha though it was generally observed. Only the necessary work was performed and most of the stores were closed. There were no parades or outdoor demonstrations. Several organizations held picnics of a more or less public nature in various parks of the city. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians gave a picnic at the Sydnice park during the afternoon to which many friends of the order flocked. The time was spent in numerous races and contests. Dancing was a favorite pastime. The women were on hand with plenty of the best things to eat. Every one was satisfied.

The Foresters gathered their forces and their good things and took special cars to Hanscom park in Omaha.

During the afternoon the Bohemian Turners of the Tel Jed Sokol paraded the streets in the interests of their order. On reaching the pavilion at Twenty-first and F streets a public meeting was held at which City Attorney H. B. Fichard delivered an address of welcome in place of Mayor Hector, who was indisposed from a cold. Following this address several telegrams of greeting were read to the delight of the crowd. Following this Otakar Chazy, editor of the Redaktor Pokrok Zapadny, the Bohemian paper of Omaha, delivered the oration of the day in the native tongue of the Bohemians. A gymnastic exhibition followed in which the young women played a large part.

There were three or four picnic parties among the members of the South Omaha country club. All were enjoyable. One of the largest of these, twenty-six in number, under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Holm and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Arnold, spent the entire afternoon at the club grounds and finished up with a delightful little dance in the evening.

Opening of Carnival. The formal opening of the Ancient Order of United Workmen carnival came last night with a phenomenally large attendance. There was a parade which was led by a band and consisted of drill teams, a few comical and floats. The crowd, however, was so anxious to see the parade that they rushed into the street in advance of it and all around it until it was fairly swallowed up with the exception of the sound of the piccolo and the bass drum. Nobody seemed to care whether it was a good parade or not. The crowd was so large that the gates or not, but flocked in behind the band and in front of it in an astonishing and uproarious manner. Freedom was what the most of them wanted. A chance to throw off the strictures of decorum for a couple of hours, jostle, and shout, and laugh, and play the thousand pranks of carnival time.

For the most part the crowds were civil and jolly. One or two cases of arrest were made when a few colored boys carried parade too far. All the shows were generously patronized. The company has been a little unfortunate in getting a good start. They came here Sunday from Tarkio, Mo., and experienced several delays in getting on the ground. In the first place they were delayed by a strike of the men for public office a good attendance of the members is desired.

Magic City Gossip. A meeting of the Swedish Norwegian Republican club will be held at Nels Lundgren's hall Thursday evening, September 6. This is the regular monthly meeting of the club, consequently many important questions will come before the organization. One of the particular matters is the discussion of different candidates who are seeking the nominations of the republican party at the primaries, which are to be held September 18. As this club has heretofore taken an active part in the selection of men for public office a good attendance of the members is desired.

Turners Announce Winners. The Bohemian Turners finished the events of their tournament yesterday and announced the results at the grand ball last night, which was the final number of the program. The following is the tabulation of the most interesting events, not mentioning any the Bohemian work. Class 1—Winner of all-around contests, gold and silver medals: Anton Pesek of Schuyler, 161.9 of a possible 200. Second of all-around contests: Ray Prohaska, Omaha, 167 points. Class 2—Christ Perins, South Omaha.

Class 3—Broad jump: Kamille Daak, 12 feet 1 inch. First: Marie Milota, 12 feet, second. Class 4—High jump: Pauline Michel, Omaha, 4 feet 3 inches. First: Marie Milota, 4 feet 3 inches. Second: Marie Milota, 4 feet 3 inches. Gold medals were given to the winners of first places and silver medals to the winners of second places in the first class. Diplomas were issued to the members winning first or second in the second or third classes.

Schools Are Opened. The schools of South Omaha opened yesterday for the first semester of the nine and one-half months year, in fine condition. All of the teachers were on hand bright and early, with a single exception, and she is expected today. All of the departments and grades were organized, books and other necessities were issued, seats assigned, and then all the glad young folk were dismissed to enjoy the legal holiday of Labor day to the fullest of their capacity.
