BIG PROFIT IN STATE FAIR

Board Estimates it Will Have Balance of Thirty Thousand Dollars.

ATTENDANCE OVER HUNDRED THOUSAND

Friend Man Who Loses Pocketbook Containing Four Thousand Dollars Recovers All But Fifty Dollars.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 7.—(Special Telegram.)—The state fair closed at 4 o'clock with an attendance of 10,965 for the day, making a total of 104,342 for the week, as compared with 63,973 last year and 44,462 the year before. The board started out the year with a cash balance of $5,000 and will probably have $35,000 when the business of the present fair is settled up.

The fact has again been recalled that the State Board of Agriculture is a close corporation, one that elects its own members and no other body has any oversight of its actions. It spends its funds as it sees fit.

The Board of Managers today decided not to shut out any of the counties that contested for collective county agricultural prizes. A total of $2,000 is given each year to counties that make agricultural exhibits. Hereafter the scoring will be strict and any county that fails below 800 points will be barred from receiving anything. Some counties have been charged with making just enough display to secure $50, the smallest amount in the county. The scoring and awards made this morning are as follows:

Table with 2 columns: County, Points, Amount. Includes entries for Adams, Antelope, Box Butte, Brown, etc.

W. J. Bryan spoke briefly from the Judge's stand at the race course this afternoon. He said he would not talk politics for a while yet and he proceeded to tell something of his travels. He was heard by a large audience. There was little or no demonstration and when the crowd attempted to cheer Mr. Bryan did not pause, but went on with his speech.

Four Thousand Dollars Found. With three days to go in the time that C. A. Davis of Friend led $4,000 in cash and drafts at the state fair grounds, supposedly from the operations of a pick-pocket, all but $50 of that sum was delivered back to him through the agency of the exposition management.

Chief Cooper Responsible. Chief Cooper frankly assumed before the excise board and a committee of ministers this morning all responsibility for the fact that the police had not arrested the sale of liquor in the tenderloin resorts during fair week.

It appeared pretty plainly from what the chief said that he had given the keepers of resorts to understand that the police would not interfere with their selling beer during fair week, so long as they maintained order otherwise, but he had told them that if drunken men were found coming out of their places they would be pulled.

Rev. S. Z. Batten thereupon suggested that the place at 703 L street, where he pulled at once, as positive evidence was obtainable that it had violated the law. Chief Cooper said that he would not pull the place without a complaint, and it was agreed that under the circumstances it would be unwise to enter the place, unless he had done just what the other had done and under similar circumstances.

May Depart Chinaman. With hair disheveled and a melancholy smile over his face, a poorly-dressed Chinaman, today appeared before C. C. Marley, United States commissioner for the territory of Nebraska, to explain what authority he has to remain in this country without a laborer's certificate. He contends that the student's certificate he holds entitles him to stay here and added that he does not work for wages, but that he has been supported by relatives.

Inspector Marshall testified that he had seen Chin Pac at Omaha, at 1011 Capitol avenue, and that the child was smoking opium. Other Chinamen were in the basement of the building with Chin Pac, the witness declared, and many were smoking pills.

Chin Pac testified that he came to the United States about seven years ago and explained that it was his intention to study the English language and European sciences. He went to Rock Springs, Wyo., and remained at that place with his uncle, studying for a while, but later gave up his books and entered the drug store of his uncle. He was ill and the climate, he explained, caused him to leave that city. He went to Omaha and for two years remained in that city, living at one of the cheap restaurants, working only when he was compelled to.

Relatives in Omaha supported him when he was unable to work and when he did odd jobs about the restaurant he was not paid wages for his services. He has relatives in Lincoln and says, and does not think he should be deported.

Because a number of witnesses failed to appear at the trial today the hearing was postponed until tomorrow morning, when it will be again taken up before Commissioner Marley in the latter's office, across the Burlington.

Sarah Pollock made the Burlington defendant in a $10,000 damage suit in district court this morning.

The plaintiff states that September 4 she stepped on a train operated by the defendant at York with the intention of coming to Lincoln. She said that as she stepped on the platform of a coach she was pulled from it by one Grady, a conductor in the employ of the road and struck and bruised by him.

She declared that she had bought a ticket to ride over the line of the defendant and had such ticket in her possession when she was ejected from the platform of the coach.

IRVINE HEARING POSTPONED

Plaintiff Not GUILTY Before Justice Thomas to Charge of Felonious Shooting.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Sept. 7.—(Special Telegram.)—The preliminary hearing of Edna Irvine was postponed until September 19 at 10 o'clock. She pleaded not guilty before Justice Thomas.

While Mr. Irvine relinquished his position as manager of the latter ranch, some time ago, arrangement was made to occupy the ranch home until January 1. Miss Irvine had been given permission, it is claimed, by the owner of the ranch, to pasture her saddle horses and have use of the stables and corrals, but for some reason the foreman, Knight, and Miss Irvine, had disagreed on many previous occasions as to the extent of her privileges and considerable ill feeling existed between them. It is also claimed by friends of the Irvine in Cheyenne that during the recent visit of Vice President A. D. Stephens of the Colorado & Southern railroad, to the latter ranch, where he was being entertained by the Irvines, that Foreman Knight caused the Irvines some embarrassment by interposing objections to their using vegetable, spring chickens, etc.

Two incidents, which occurred at the Irvine ranch near Cheyenne, illustrate perfectly the force of the high-strung Wyoming girl. The first occurred three years ago when Miss Irvine was with a party of young ladies from the east as guests at the ranch. During their stay the conversation drifted around to life on the range, the breaking of outlaw horses and the roping of steers. In this talk Miss Irvine, perhaps more familiar with the subject than any of the others, modestly refrained from participating. Her friends, however, expatiated on her ability and astonished that this petite and seemingly frail girl could accomplish such feats, one of her eastern friends exclaimed: "Why, Edna, I don't believe you could rope that calf," pointing to a large yearling heifer in a pasture near the house.

Miss Irvine's only response was to mount her horse, unsling her rope, make a dash for the animal, and with a clever throw drop the noose over the head of the calf. Without checking her speed she swerved her horse sharply to one side, the rope was drawn taut by a snap like a whip, the calf described a complete somersault in the air and landed in a heap on the ground with its neck broken—dead.

The second incident occurred at the Irvine ranch two years ago when Miss Irvine, who was visiting at the ranch, was assisting in the work of cutting out and branding cattle. During a wild dash her horse slipped and fell on its rider. Fearing she was killed or seriously injured, others hurried to her assistance. She was sitting on the ground, a little pale, but with a smile on her face.

"It's nothing," she coolly informed her

The "Discovery" of the Soda Cracker

For years the humble soda cracker remained obscure and unappreciated. No one seemed to realize its food value—no one seemed to know that it was one of the most nutritious rations obtainable.

Then one day the soda cracker was "discovered." The NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY saw its value if properly presented to the public. They set about to bring its quality to the highest possible standard—the result being Uneda Biscuit, which are to-day recognized as one of the staple foods of the American people.

Nearly 400,000,000 packages of them have been sold, and the food value of the soda cracker is a settled fact.
