FIFTY YEARS' WEDDED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krug Celebrate Their Golden Jubilee.

ALL CHILDREN AND HOSTS OF FRIENDS

Beautiful Home is the Scene of Happy Gathering and Venerable Couple Receive with Typical Cordiality.

Surrounded by all their living children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krug most happily celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Thursday at their beautiful home at 318 South Twentieth street. Besides their children present were Mrs. Krug's sister, Mrs. Mathilde Gerber, and her daughter, Miss Anna Gerber, of St. Louis. An interesting feature of the celebration was the fact that Mrs. Gerber was present at the wedding fifty years ago and her little daughter, Miss Anna, was baptized at that wedding.

The Krug residence had been beautifully decorated for the occasion and the decorator's skill was helped out by large floral tributes which had been sent in from friends of the venerable couple. The entire lawn was enclosed with canvas and tables were spread around where the guests congregated in groups to talk over the old times.

Receiving at the front door were Mrs. Fred Krug, Jr., Mrs. Albert Krug and Mrs. Jacob Krug, wives of sons of the celebrants. In the parlor Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krug received and were assisted by Miss Lena Krug, Mrs. Tillie Becht and Mrs. Anna Wiedemann.

At a meeting Wednesday night, Plymouth Congregational church, Twentieth and Spencer streets, extended a unanimous call to Rev. Frederick A. Leavitt of Seward to become its pastor.

Stream of Friends. A continuous stream of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Krug came during the receiving hours, which were from 3 to 6, and many of the old settlers stopped for short moments. Many of the oldest inhabitants who had come to Omaha before Omaha was known to Mr. Krug during all these years and congratulated him on his celebration and the fact that he had so many of his children with him. Besides the hundreds who came during the afternoon many sent their regrets and several cablegrams were received from Germany, the birthplace of Mr. Krug. Hundreds of telegrams and letters were received.

Fred Krug was born in Niederwehren bei Cassel, Germany, and Mrs. Krug was born at Coburg, Saxony. They were married fifty years ago yesterday at St. Louis when Fred Krug, 23, led the beautiful Anna Wittig, 18, to the altar. They lived in St. Louis for a time and William Krug, the eldest son, was born there. They then moved to Council Bluffs, or Kanawville, as it was then called, where Edward was born. After living in Council Bluffs for one year they moved to Omaha, where they have resided since.

Mr. and Mrs. Krug have been blessed with nine children and they are all living and were at the celebration except one daughter, who died some years ago at the age of 13. The children are William, Edward, Fred, Jr., Jacob and Albert Krug and Miss Lena Krug, Mrs. Tillie Becht and Mrs. Anna Wiedemann.

Least they might slight some of their old friends by oversight in not sending a personal invitation, Mr. and Mrs. Krug decided to extend a general invitation through the press to all their old friends, and the response was hearty and large.

NEW PASTOR FOR PLYMOUTH

Rev. Frederick A. Leavitt of Seward is Called by Omaha Congregational Church.

At a meeting Wednesday night, Plymouth Congregational church, Twentieth and Spencer streets, extended a unanimous call to Rev. Frederick A. Leavitt of Seward to become its pastor.

Mr. Leavitt is said to be a young man of pleasing address, a fine speaker and an ardent pastor, and Plymouth looks forward to prosperous times. The church is in good financial condition and has a loyal membership.

Mr. Leavitt was born in Monticello, Ia., in 1874, and has resided in Nebraska since 1898. Rev. William Leavitt, his father, was pastor of the Congregational church at Ashland for nearly eight years following that date. Mr. Leavitt was graduated from Norfolk High school, Deane college, and Andover Theological seminary.

Mr. Leavitt's pastoral experience extends over a period of seven years, four years at West Point and three years at Seward, Neb.

Mr. Leavitt will move his family to Omaha and begin his pastorate September 24.

TOO COLD FOR LABOR TALKS

For Third Time Weather Man Prevents Speaking at Krug Park Festival.

Last night for the third time, on account of unreasonable weather, the program of addresses at the labor festival at Krug park was postponed. Hon. A. C. Shallenberger was to have been the speaker of the evening. The athletic tournament, which was to have taken place in the afternoon, was also postponed. John L. Kennedy will be the speaker this evening.

Saturday will be organized labor day, and Samuel Gompers, Eugene V. Debs and John Q. Teller are scheduled for addresses.

Some of the postponed addresses and the athletic tournament will also be held Saturday.

MUCH SOUGHT MAN CAUGHT

W. G. Bender, Wanted by Police of Many Cities, Captured by Omaha Officers.

Officer Bloom and Detective Dempsey captured an alleged notorious crook Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock at Twelfth and Douglas streets who is said to have left a trail of crime from coast to coast and who has been sought for by the police of the entire country for several months.

August 19 the local police received a circular letter from Stephen Y. Barlow, commercial freight agent for the Delaware and Hudson railway, requesting them to look out for a man by the name of W. G. Bender, who is wanted at Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cleveland and several other cities, on the charge of forgery. A full description of the criminal was given and the Omaha police have the honor of capturing the much wanted Bender. When arrested he admitted his name was Bender and that his home was at Cleveland.

Bender's game was worked successfully for a considerable period. When searched at the city jail he had several letters of introduction from prominent persons in railroad circles in the east. His scheme was to present these letters and either request a loan or oblige him by cashing a check, usually for a small amount, and it appears the number of his victims is legion. He is a young man of good appearance and appears to be well educated.

Bender had a check book belonging to the Fidelity Trust company of Buffalo on his person when searched. Two of the checks in this book were filled out, both of which were made payable to Bender in the sum of $25, one purporting to be signed by C. A. Bruan and the other by H. T. Jaeger.

Chief Donahue has notified the police department at Pittsburgh of the important capture. Bender is being held on the charge of being a fugitive from justice.

MRS. ANNA SULTZ INSANE

Judgment Rendered by Commission Which Orders Guardian for Woman.

The insanity commission has decided that Mrs. Anna Sultz is insane and should be kept under the eye of a guardian and has recommended that guardianship proceedings be begun in county court by her friends. Her mental derangement is not serious enough, according to the finding, to justify her being sent to the insane asylum.

Mrs. Sultz was committed temporarily to the county hospital about ten days ago. She asserted the complaint against her was made by her husband in order that he might get her property. Through her friends she began habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Burton. As the commission had not made a final order on the application for habeas corpus was continued until Saturday. The final order was made yesterday afternoon and it is understood the friends of Mrs. Sultz will insist on a hearing in court.

Mrs. Sultz began suit for divorce several days ago, charging her husband with cruel treatment. They live in South Omaha, where her husband runs a shoe store.

WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY

At the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union, held Wednesday afternoon, the following women were elected as officers for the coming year:

President, Mrs. Adelaide Root; vice president, Mrs. E. M. Covell; recording secretary, Mrs. N. J. Kirtick; chairman of the high school lunch committee, Mrs. James Taggart; Mrs. James Taggart and Mrs. H. P. Roe were elected delegates to represent the local union at the state convention to be held at Aurora, September 26, 27 and 28.

The president, Mrs. Root, is also a delegate and Mrs. Fred Patterson, who is state recording secretary, will also attend with several other members of the local organization.

In reviewing the year's work, Mrs. Adelaide Root, the president, said that if the union had made a mistake it was in attempting too much. She advised for the year that the women concentrate their efforts and then finish whatever they undertake. Among the year's efforts where a little more persistence might have accomplished more, Mrs. Root named the effort of the union to secure the use of text books on scientific temperance in the public schools, and the agitation for placing all women confined in the city jail under the supervision of a woman. She urged that the union continue its agitation for a night matron at the city jail and that if necessary it enlist the assistance of other organizations in this effort.

At the midsummer board meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution, 74 applicants for membership in the society were admitted, bringing the total number of members up to 88. As usual, politics are very much in evidence in the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Donald McLean, the president, and Mrs. McLean's husband, there is little possibility of her seriously considering this flattering suggestion of her friends. But there are plenty of other aspirants for the first office and numbered among them are wives of several United States senators and other men of high political position. One faction of the society has long been in favor of electing to this position only women who can command strong political influence and so women of lesser social position, regardless of their qualifications, have had little chance. The western states have furnished some of the strongest opposition to this plan.

Commenting upon some of the personal phases of the St. Paul biennial, Margaret Hill McCarter, herself one of the brightest speakers on that program and editor of the Club Monthly at Topeka, says:

We all have our black beads. One of the writer's is the badge. It has its uses, but decoration is not one of them. The badge is not a badge of the rainbow, and no badge, except a simple pin, ever conforms to the situation and looks as if it belonged in its place. It is a temporary thing, like laundry on the line. This is an isolated opinion, for most of the delegates were one of more continuous, and some of the speakers sounded the broad lavender band with the gold advertisement.

"Speaker," from breakfast till prayer-time. The writer has a load of sins to answer for, but she doesn't have to account for them. The speaker's badge is a raspberry-colored gown, and her fervent state loyalty is established by the fact that the daffy little white-and-gold emblem and the sun-sower pin of the recent Kansas state meeting were the only symptoms of her being anything above a civilian in citizens' clothes.

Incidentally, men do not know a great deal more than women. Almost every man speaker—and there were many—ran far over time. They were no better orators as a class than the women speakers, and almost to a man they lugged in the old, trite, uninteresting, overworked platitudes, or what you want to call it, about woman in the home being a world-power. If men could only once in a way assume that women in convention have heard that thing since the beginning of speech, could be just a little less patronizing, it would add mightily to their influence.

The Valley Woman's club held its annual meeting and election of officers Monday, the following women being elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Gertrude Krug; vice president, Mrs. Reed; secretary, Mrs. Anna Ingram; treasurer, Mrs. Nettie Eddy; librarian, Mrs. Susanna Lyons, and press correspondent, Mrs. Jennie Byars.

Miss Bertha Davis, house secretary of the Young Women's Christian association, has returned from an outing at Colorado Springs and Denver.

OWNER TEARS DOWN HOUSE

Takes This Means of Compelling Undesired Tenant to Vacate the Building.

When William H. Bates refused to move out of a house owned by John Sautter the latter began systematically to tear the building down, according to a petition claiming $200 damages filed by Bates in district court Thursday. Bates occupied what is known as the Clifton house, at 166 South Twenty-seventh street, South Omaha, keeping from twelve to fifteen boarders. As a gentle hint for him to move Sautter tore down the front steps and nailed up the front door June 11. The hint was not taken, and July 7 the outbuildings were torn down and the well, the sole source of their water supply, was filled up. Two days later, he says, Sautter tore down the back porch, took the doors of the sleeping rooms from the hinges and removed the windows. The following day the side of the kitchen was torn down, and the next day the roof was taken off.

Without sides or roof to the house Mr. Bates says it was impossible for him to remain, so he had to move out. He says part of his furniture was stolen and the rest damaged, besides he was put to the expense of having his property guarded.

FAIR ONE A GOOD DETECTIVE

Woman Cashier at Drescher's Points Out Shortchange Artist to the Police.

Miss Louise Drescher, cashier for Drescher, the tailor, 1515 Farnam street, was the sleuth who brought to grief a short change artist whose visits in a number of downtown stores left a shortage in the cash registers at each establishment Thursday afternoon. The fellow was placed under arrest by Patrolman Morrison and was identified by several victims as the culprit. He gave his name as A. S. Goldstein of Watkins, Ia.

At least half a dozen stores fell easy prey to Goldstein's work. It is said. The amount lost in each instance was usually $3. While some merchants blushed so painfully at finding themselves so easy that they denied having had any transactions with Goldstein rather than own up, there were a few who spoke up and will offer evidence in court. Among them are the Fry Shoe company, Sixteenth and Douglas streets; Megath Stationery company, Fifteenth and Farnam streets; Stevens & Smith, Neville block, and the Drescher tailoring company.

The visit to Drescher's was the one visit too many made by Goldstein. Had he not gone there he might still be a free man and still looking for the place which would prove his undoing. That he had played a game on the cashier was noticed immediately after he left the store, and two clerks were sent out in the downtown district to watch other stores and the streets for some sign of the man. Miss Drescher also went out and in her wanderings entered Brandeis & Son's store. On the second floor she spied a man whom she had no trouble in recognizing as her recent customer. Patrolman Morrison was called and laid his heavy hand on Goldstein's shoulder, much to the latter's apparent astonishment and indignation, and took him to jail.

Goldstein is about 25 years of age and said that he was a practicing physician in his home town. In police court Friday morning he pleaded guilty to the charges brought against him and was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

DEMOCRATS DINE AND TALK

One of Series of Functions to Be Held Regularly Until After Election.

The democrats of Omaha and South Omaha, with guests from outside this vicinity, attended the second dinner of the series planned for the workers and members of the party at O'Brien's cafe Thursday night. The arrangements for the spread were made in a hurry and there was no time for a personal canvass to spread the invitations, but nevertheless the attendance was good, about seventy-five persons being present.

Carl R. Goucher of Wahoo, candidate for secretary of state; Lyle Abbott, candidate for attorney general; J. C. Dahlgren and G. M. Hitchcock were mentioned as the speakers for the evening in the published announcements, and these made the principal addresses. While a number of others were called upon. County Judge Placock of Wahoo and Messrs. Elliott of Denver, Lambert of South Omaha, Shoemaker, Cunningham, Nipple, Ryan, McCombs, Elson, Mengedicht, Butler, Power and Daniels made remarks.

Frank L. Weaver, president of the Jackson club, acted as toastmaster. It was the first dinner following the return of the Nebraska contingent from New York to welcome Bryan, and as many of those present were in that party, it was very natural that some of the speakers should refer frequently to the trip.

The next dinner of the series will be held in two weeks, and continue at fortnightly intervals until election.

Automobile Accident.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Walter Chrysler, an entrant for the Vanderbilt cup automobile race, and an assistant were thrown out of a racing car today, but not badly hurt.

The Backbone of a Mighty Nation is good food—food for brain, food for brawn, food that is strengthening, that gives energy and courage. Without a proper appreciation of this great fundamental truth no nation can rise to greatness.

As an article of food, soda crackers are being used more and more every day, as is attested by the sale of nearly 400,000,000 packages of Uneeda Biscuit, which have come to be recognized as the most perfect soda cracker the world has ever known.

And so Uneeda Biscuit will soon be on every table at every meal, giving life, health and strength to the American people, thus in very truth becoming the backbone of the nation.
