DEAD-BEAT COMES OUT BAD Crook Who Deals in Forged Checks and Evades Hotel Bills Is Held.

W. E. Hassett, who gave his address as Truitt's hotel, South Omaha, figured in two cases in police court Friday morning. He was arrested last Wednesday on the charge of forgery, preferred by Arthur Ewald, proprietor of a saloon at 2211 Leavenworth.

Later it was ascertained that Hassett was wanted by the management of the Merchant's hotel, having stayed at that hotel for a couple of weeks and then departing without the formality of paying his bill.

Hassett was arraigned in police court Friday morning and pleaded guilty to the charge of beating his board bill at the hotel and was fined $50 and costs for that performance.

He was then arraigned on the charge of passing a check drawn on the bank for $10 which was signed by J. McDonald, but which was returned as a forgery. Hassett pleaded not guilty to this charge, waived examination and was bound over for trial in the district court in the sum of $500.

NOTHING BUT THOUSAND BILL Ten Hundred Dollars in One Piece Nearly Causes Collapse of Two Men.

Poor old Monte Cristo! A $1,000 bill was presented as part payment on an automobile at the garage of R. R. Kimball Friday.

The cashier gasped and clutched his heart at the sight of so much money in one piece, and Frank Parmelee, who was visiting at the office, staided himself to keep from falling from the desk on which he was sitting.

"A bill of that denomination is bad luck," said Mr. Parmelee, when he had sufficiently recovered to be able to speak. "Of course I wouldn't object to having a few of them if I couldn't get anything else, but they really are very inconvenient. If a man should get one of those after banking hours Saturday, and didn't have any change in his pocket, or any way to get, he would starve to death, because there would be no show for him to eat anything before the banks opened Monday morning. He would be in as bad a plight as Monte Cristo. Nobody in town would have

HARD AND FAST COAL TRUST

Enough Evidence on Hand to Convict Two Members of Combine.

COUNTY ATTORNEY SURE COMPACT EXISTS

Slabaugh Finds that Trust Fines Its Members Who Violate the Articles of Price Agreement.

More evidence that a hard and fast coal trust has this city in its clutches has been found by County Attorney Slabaugh in his search for testimony to present to the October grand jury. Statements have been made by persons in a position to know that the "trust" not only maintains a schedule of prices, but fines members for refusing to follow this schedule, according to a statement given out by Judge Slabaugh Friday.

The county attorney would not go into details, nor give out the names of his informants, but he declared they are available as witnesses before the grand jury.

"I have evidence that a coal trust has existed in this city for years," he said, "perhaps ever since the anti-trust law was enacted in 1887, and that members of the trust were fined by the trust for selling at less than the agreed price. I have been preparing my evidence with a view to presenting it to a grand jury for full investigation as soon as it could be called under the law, which is October 1, 1906. It is quite necessary to keep warm in the winter and I shall do my duty in going after the trust as best I can."

Many witnesses have been examined by Judge Slabaugh and it was predicted by one who is familiar with the evidence that there is enough testimony on hand now to warrant an indictment against the officials.

Mayor Done War Paint

Mayor Dahlman said Friday morning he did not feel quite strong enough to go to the mat with the naughty loemen, but intimated he would do his fighting clothes Saturday morning. The Eckerman and Ransom families reported Friday morning they are still being refused ice by the John A. Doe concern. Mr. Dahlman was advised of that fact and declared he would set Saturday as the day of reckoning for the purveyors of congealed water. The mayor's recent ultimatum was that he would instruct the policemen to throw the drivers in jail, destroy the ice and break up the ice wagons in cases where companies refused to deliver ice to people who had testified against them in the police court.

ALLEGED TRUST OF CREAMERIES

Combine on Prices Reported that May Be Investigated.

Charges that there is a creamery trust have been made by some of the smaller milkmen and it is understood an investigation of the accusations may be made by the October grand jury. The milkmen assert the big creameries have an agreement to fix the prices of cream, butter and milk and are attempting to drive the independent dairymen out of existence.

It is also charged that one of the largest of the dairies has offered physicians a reduction of 25 per cent in the cost of products bought from them in return for recommendations of its products. This was denied by the manager of the concern involved. The milkmen also charge the campaign against warm milk instituted by Health Commissioner Connell, is a part of the plan to drive them out of business. They charge the rules and regulations applied to them are not required of the creameries.

In reply to this accusation Dr. Connell said Friday: "I have not made any requirement of the milkmen that I have not demanded of the creameries that retail milk. I have instructed my inspector to get samples from all of the concerns retailing milk and I have shown no favors to anyone. If any milkman or anyone else knows of any regulation of my department which is applied to milkmen and not to creameries I would appreciate it if he would call my attention to it."

Men Used During San Francisco Street Car Trouble Sent Back from West.

The consignment of 200 strike breakers, which went to San Francisco to assist in settling the street railway strike, passed east through Omaha early Friday morning. At this point they were divided up and went over different roads. Most of men were rough-looking and as a whole they did not present an air of undue industry.
