

NEW STAFF DOWN TO WORK

White, Steffens, Dunne, Baker and Tarbell on New Magazine.

PHILLIPS PUBLISHING COMPANY BEGINNING

Editorial Prospects Promising and Contents of the First Number Indicate Strong Bill for Popular Support.

That every writer has not felt the sting of the editorial blue pencil is probably due to the fact that some authors have the wealth and poor judgment to print their work without submitting it to the inspection of even a friendly critic, and it is equally as certain that no editor was ever able to prepare a publication in a manner pleasing to those who contribute to its existence.

As a corollary to these facts the fate of the American Magazine, launched at New York Thursday, will be of more than passing interest to the makers and readers of magazines, for it is a magazine largely owned by authors who have made names for themselves in these piping times of sensational exposures in business and political methods. Under the title of the Phillips Publishing Company William Allen White, Ida M. Tarbell, P. P. Dunne, Lincoln J. Steffens, Ray Stannard Baker and others have associated themselves in the enterprise, and if they are as able to hold the attention of the public as they were to attract it their venture should prove a phenomenal success. That they have set their ideals high is shown by the concluding paragraph of the publishers' announcement:

After all, we live by visions. Though we have hardly attempted to express it, we have a vision of a magazine that may never be realized, or it may be realized in part. But we conceive that in it no great thing is "The Partnership of Society," and in its course Mr. White finds occasion to remark:

No, sir, as Hogan says, I care not who makes the laws or the money in a country so long as I see the good man. Father Kelly was talking about it the other day. There ain't anything like an' there never was," says he. "All the priests in this diocese together preach to about a million souls a day. In the whole of the world 'n' they give ye hell all the time."

"Yes, sir," says he, "the hand that rocks the fountain pen is the hand that rules the world. The press is the whole universe what matters in the world. He was the best politician an' the worst I ever knew. He was a terror to all those who were not his friends. He was a printer's ink. May they not put too much ink in the red stuff in it an' may it never go to their heads."

Two articles which will attract attention are "Dynamite, the Power Unfathomable," by Samuel Hopkins Adams and "Popular Medical Fallacies," by Leonard Keene Hirschberg, M. D.

The description of a professional dynamiter, the kind who operates in America, not in Russia, is described as follows: The finished type of the dynamiter is the man who has had the ability to rise and the luck to survive long enough to graduate from the plant and become an agent. In his best embodiment the explosives agent is something of a chemist, something of a quarryman, something of an electrician, a good deal of a mineralogist, and, above all, a man of resource and coolness.

Often he meets his rivals on the ground. There comes the tug of war. Tricks of the trade are many, and not all of them scrupulous. Where many agents are gathered together, it seems to be a point of honor with every man to handle his particular article with the utmost apparent carelessness, while he manifests a striking timidity toward the products of his competitors. This is to impress the outside. So that the dynamiter is a twenty-five-pound package of dynamite like so much meal; kick it, drop it over fences or down ledges, and generally mistreat it. If the dynamite is fresh, this is all right; but occasionally something goes wrong, and theory, together with the theories, is blown to atoms in practice.

Other contributors, mainly of a light nature are Edith Bernard, Casper Day, May McHenry, Edwin Balmer, Maude L. Radford and E. J. Rath.

Steffens and Tarbell. Announcement is made that Lincoln Steffens will contribute a series of "Mickey" stories, the first appearing in the present issue; that Ida M. Tarbell is on her farm engaged in writing a series of articles, the first to appear in the December number, and that Steffens will present a character sketch of William B. Hearst in the November number. "Adventures in Contentment"

STOLEN PROPERTY UNEARTHED Arrest of Three Colored People by Police Explains Several Burglaries.

In the arrest of the trio of colored people, Ed. Mitchell, Robert L. Johnson and Mrs. M. Tandy, and the developments following the investigations by the police, the prospects for clearing up many of the house-breaking jobs of the last few months appear bright. When the house at 1819 North Twenty-first street, where Mrs. Tandy was arrested, was searched, from $300 to $400 worth of stolen property was found. That the home of John T. Stewart, president of the Stewart Brothers company at 2433 St. Mary's avenue, is also among the houses entered by burglars, came to light in the effort to identify some of the goods. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart have been absent at their summer home at Bennington for some time, and Detective Ferris and Dum found a window had been broken at their house and entrance secured in the same manner as others of the burglaries that have been committed.

Johnson was first arrested Tuesday night by Patrolman Crow. Another negro, after having learned to have been Mitchell, was with him. They ran and Crow fired after them, one bullet crashing through a window of a residence. Mitchell escaped only to be captured through the efforts of Detective Savage next day. Johnson was caught, but was released in police court the following morning, and arrested again Thursday by Patrolman Morrison.

When the goods in the Twenty-first street house were unearthed, it was thought possible some of them might be the property of C. P. McGrew, whose home at 22 South Thirty-first avenue was entered a few nights ago, and Mrs. McGrew was asked to look at them. She at once recognized a skirt as belonging to Mrs. Stewart, which was the first intimation the police had of the Stewart burglary.

The detective force is hard at work collecting evidence against the trio and believes it can place these persons in prison if it will rid Omaha of a set of very active housebreakers. Johnson is the negro who stabbed to death another negro named Johnson with a cane knife at Fourteenth and Howard streets last spring. The plea of self defense secured Johnson his freedom at that time.

Friday morning the police were still busy recovering loot secured by Mitchell, Johnson and Mrs. Tandy. In addition to the stuff that was recovered Thursday the police recovered a trunk and two suit cases full of wearing apparel. They made a most thorough search of the home of Mrs. Tandy, even to tearing out the brick foundations of the house where the trunk and suit cases were found. No man was convinced they have everything on the premises, although it is believed considerable may be recovered through the pawnshops where it was disposed of.

The home of Mr. Stewart, where most of the loot was obtained, was thoroughly ransacked from attic to cellar. The thieves made their entrance through a back window which was broken and evidently took their leisure to the job, probably being aware of the absence of the owners. Mr. Stewart was unaware of the burglary of his house and could not say how much had been taken, as he and his wife only returned from Bennington Friday morning.

The committee in charge of the various departments of work of the Young Women's Christian association will be entertained at tea Monday evening, September 24, at the association rooms, when plans will be discussed for the winter's work. It has been definitely decided to resume the issue of the association bulletin formerly called the Budget. It will be published monthly in future, instead of weekly.

A committee representing the civil service committee of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs made an inspection of the city and county jails of Omaha Wednesday afternoon. Upon recommendation of Mrs. Decker of the general federation, state civil service committees have been making an inspection of the various public institutions of their respective communities with a view to disseminating general information regarding such institutions and their management. Mrs. F. H. Cole of Omaha is chairman of the Nebraska committee.

Excursion to Clear Lake, Ia. On Friday, September 28, the Chicago Great Western railway will run a special excursion train to Clear Lake. Tickets will be sold at very low rates and will be good to return until October 1. Ask H. H. Churchill, general agent, 1512 Farnham street, Omaha, for information.

$95,000,000 CAN BE SAVED IN FUEL THIS WINTER

50,000,000 tons of soft coal and lignite at $3 a ton, costing $150,000,000 and 30,000,000 tons of hard coal at $8 a ton costing $240,000,000 are used annually for domestic heating. Where ordinary stoves and furnaces are used, 1/2 this money goes up chimneys in gas and wasted heat.

COLE'S ORIGINAL HOT BLAST STOVE Saves All Wasted With Other Stoves—Will Cut Your Fuel Bill in Half

For Soft Coal and Lignite For Hard Coal and Crushed Coke

As you know fully one-half the carbon available for heat in soft coal is gas, the entire gas supply used for fuel and illumination in many cities and towns being made from common soft coal. The ordinary stove in burning soft coal allows this gas half of the fuel to pass up the chimney unburned, thus wasting it as a heat producer.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Stove, by means of the patented Hot Blast draft and other patented features, distills this gas from the upper surface of the coal, utilizing it as a heat producer along with the fixed carbon or coke in the coal, thus burning all the coal. This is why

Cole's Original Hot Blast Saves the Dollars and makes a ton of common $3.00 soft coal or lignite do the work of $9.00 worth of hard coal.

Your old stove and imitation Hot Blasts are not air tight, do not save the escaping gases and do not give you a warm house at night. You cannot afford to say to yourself "My old stove will have to do this winter." The old stove is eating up the price of a new stove every year. Not only that, but on top of the cost is the unsatisfactory result it gives. It is always out the coldest morning.

Even Heat Day and Night—Fire Never Out Cole's Hot Blast is so perfect in construction that fire keeps all night, and when the draft is opened in the morning will burn two or three hours with the fuel put in the night before. No other stove does this. Fire, therefore, never goes out, and the rooms are kept at an even temperature all the time.

Burns Any Fuel Without Change. Hard Coal Strikes and Soft Coal Combines need have no terror for the users of Cole's Original Hot Blast as this modern heater burns any fuel. Soft coal, slack, hard coal, crushed coke, lignite coal, wood or cobs without any change in the stove. The cost of the stove is more than saved in fuel each winter. Read the guarantee.

Would You Lose $50 in Fuel to Save $1 on the Cost of Your Stove? That is what you do when you buy a cheaply constructed, putty jointed, showy made imitation stove.

CAUTION—Like all successful inventions, Cole's Original Hot Blast has many inferior imitations, avoid them. They all lack the patented features and careful construction, which make the Original Hot Blast a great success. They do not stay tight and soon open seams and cracks which render them worthless as fire keepers. See the name "Cole's Hot Blast from Chicago" on the feed door. None genuine without it.

If you enjoy the luxury of getting up in warm rooms without kindling new fires; if you would keep your plants from freezing and want to save dollars in fuel you will buy Cole's Original Hot Blast. Investigate today.

Guarantee

- 1.—We guarantee a saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal or slack. 2.—We guarantee Cole's Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with same heating surface. 3.—We guarantee that the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning, with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before. 4.—We guarantee that the stove will hold fire with soft coal 36 hours without attention. 5.—We guarantee a uniform heat throughout, with soft coal, hard coal or lignite. 6.—We guarantee every stove to remain absolutely air tight as long as used. 7.—We guarantee the feed door to be smoke and dust proof. The above guarantee is made with the understanding that the stove is used according to the directions, and set up with a good flue.

In Cole's Original Hot Blast

The combustion chamber and the magazine are combined and the Combustion is Perfect. The stove is filled to the top of the inside cast iron lining. This large body of hard coal is burned under perfect control by means of the absolutely air-tight construction of the stove giving perfect control over the drafts. The coal is kept at a slow, economical, cherry red combustion and as the heat is in direct contact with every square inch of the sensitive steel radiating surface, all the heat is radiated into the room where it is wanted and not blanketed in and sent up the chimney. Hard coal at Cherry Red Combustion burns 48 hours, while at white heat it is consumed in from 2 to 5 hours.

Sold Under a Positive Guarantee We guarantee Cole's Original Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner with the same heating surface. Requires attention only morning and night with hard coal. Warm rooms day and night. No escaping gases to endanger life. The heat wasted up the chimney with other stoves is saved.

Scientific Construction Cole's Original Hot Blast has an absolutely air-tight and gas tight construction throughout, by means of its numerous patented improvements. The patented Hot Blast draft saves the gas. A patented steel collar connects the elbow draft to the stove body and cannot be made to leak air by action of the fiercest heat. The patented compound hinge on the ash door cannot warp and the door closes air-tight by its own weight. The heavy fire box protects the joints, where other stoves burn out first. The guaranteed smoke-proof feed door prevents smoke, soot or dust from escaping into the room when fuel is put into the stove. Perfect cleanliness, therefore, from soft coal.

MISSION OF THE MINISTER

Dr. J. J. Lamp Delivers Address at Opening of Fall Term at Presbyterian Seminary.

A fair sized audience was assembled at the lecture room of the Presbyterian seminary in Kountze Place Thursday evening to listen to the opening address of the fall semester of that institution by Dr. J. J. Lamp, professor of Hebrew at the seminary. The subject of Dr. Lamp's address was "Other Worldliness," as applied to the profession of the ministry. He said in part:

The Christly quality of the ministry is pictured throughout the Bible and particularly by Christ himself. In those days the ministry was made up of men and able representatives of the gospel, and the minister should be such a one as Christ means. He should be educated, but there scholarship is important. There must be an inspiration from the kingdom of God. There is nothing in God's cause that needs more scholarship. What is needed is God's word that breaks the hearts of men and brings them to Jesus Christ. The inspiration of God and Christ makes true men, and God's message reveals to men the true meaning of the gospel and of Christ. The true minister is burdened with truth of God, and is the expounder of the ways of God to men. Some think otherwise, and have a greater belief in sociology and science as the mission of the ministry. Such Christianity is not durable. The true ministry is burdened with truth of God, of personal holiness and is sanctified by God through His truth and the truth of His light, which banishes the darkness of the world and leads a consecration to God's work.

The true minister carries God's reproach of the world of sin. He is to teach the people and preach the gospel. He will find many controversies to meet where the word of God is disputed. At such difficult one, but God is with him. No man can use harder words than did Jesus Christ in His denunciation of sin. It is not the relation of a minister to commonness and through the prevalence of fashionable sin, because of the powerful influences that encourage fashionable sin.

WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY

That the women of Nebraska have earned a recognized place in church as well as in club work is demonstrated in the fact that two of the most important general church meetings of the year will be held in this state this fall. For the third time in the twenty-five years of its existence the annual convention of the Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in the west this year, Lincoln to have the honor of entertaining it from October 11 to 17. The annual meeting of the general executive committee of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church will be held in Omaha October 26 to November 1 at the First Methodist church. These two meetings, which are entirely distinct, will call together some of the most prominent women in Methodism at home and abroad, as well as some of the foremost workers in the foreign mission field. Considering how rarely these important meetings have been held in the west, their both coming to Nebraska this year would indicate that Nebraska women are still strong workers in the church, notwithstanding their activity in club and other educational and reform work that has won them general recognition. In addition to entertaining these two general meetings, the women of the state are arranging for three important state conventions of the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Suffrage association and the Woman's Christian Temperance union, all of which will precede the Home Missionary meeting at Lincoln.

A call has been issued for the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Nebraska Woman Suffrage association, which will be held at Lincoln October 2 and 3. The meetings will be held in All Souls' church, Twelfth and H streets. All delegates will be entertained for lodging and breakfast in the homes of the city and upon arrival in the city will be assigned to places of entertainment upon application to the committee at the church. The basis of representation at the convention is three delegates for each club, with one additional delegate for every twenty-five paid up members of such club above the first twenty-five. State officers, county and local presidents and chairmen of committees are ex-officio members of the convention. Fraternal delegates from other organizations will be welcomed.

At a meeting of the literature department of the Omaha Woman's club held recently it was decided to adjourn the department for one year. A number of members who have contributed prominently to the work of the department in the past have decided to take up other lines of club work this year, leaving a scarcely sufficient number of women to carry the work, and adjournment was considered best. There is some talk of calling the department together again later in the year.

An effort is being made to complete the club directory of the general federation before the fall is over and communications have been issued to officers of affiliated clubs asking them to forward the necessary data at once. A complete club directory is of inestimable value in facilitating communication between clubs and each one should do its share in the effort to hasten its issue.

The committee in charge of the various departments of work of the Young Women's Christian association will be entertained at tea Monday evening, September 24, at the association rooms, when plans will be discussed for the winter's work. SEASONABLE FASHIONS.

NO. 4091—AN EXCELLENT BLOUSE FOR SCHOOL WEAR.

The young girl's wardrobe is not complete without several odd blouses of simple design which she may don for every-day use. A design for such a blouse, which may be developed by any amateur sewer, is shown in this illustration. A box pleat at either side of the front and in the back gives odd and becoming lines, while the narrow tucks add fullness to the front and make up for deficiencies in undeveloped figures. Such a blouse may be made of serge, challis, moirai or ponceau and look well at all times. The sleeves may be finished with deep or narrow cuffs. 4091—SIZES, 12 TO 17 YEARS.

For the accommodation of The Omaha Bee readers these patterns, which usually retail at from 25 to 50 cents, will be furnished at a nominal price (10 cents), which covers all expenses. In order to get a pattern enclosed, 10 cents, giving number and name of pattern wanted and best measure. As the patterns are mailed direct from the publishers in New York, it will require about a week's time to fill this order. Address: Pattern Department, The Omaha Bee, Omaha, Neb.
