over Cuba indefinitely and possibly forever.

President Palma has called a special session of congress for Friday, when he will present the resignations of himself and Vice President Mendez Capote. The moderates, however, will not attend that session of congress, for in their hurriedly called national moderate assembly this afternoon they decided unanimously simply to quit forthwith.

They will not even attend the approaching session or have anything more to do with the government of Cuba, alleging that they have been unjustly treated by President Roosevelt's commissioners.

This determination is taken by Messrs. Taft and Bacon, however, as another indication that the moderate leaders since they cannot longer control the government themselves, are determined, at whatever cost, that the liberals shall not now or hereafter obtain control.

At the conclusion of the moderate assembly this afternoon Vice President Mendez Capote called on the American commissioners and declared that he had been instructed by the moderate assembly to draft a reply to Secretary Taft's letter to President Palma, in which peace terms were suggested. After this interview Senor Mendez Capote said to the Associated Press: "I have resigned irrevokably my position as vice president of the republic. I resigned because the resignation of President Palma was forced upon him by causes detrimental to the dignity and decorum of the office of chief executive. The president will convene congress in extraordinary session on Friday to consider his resignation and my own."

Mendez Capote said further that the entire body of moderates in both houses, as well as the entire liberal national, or Nunez, party, would refrain from attending the extraordinary session. As the moderates and the nationalists comprise more than two-thirds of each house there will be no quorum. This will block action and prove that the structure of constitutional government no longer exists.

Capote Condemns Taft.

Mendez Capote emphatically condemned the alleged partiality of the American commissioners, and said he expressed the opinion of many of the members of his party when he declared that Secretaries Taft and Bacon had placed themselves unreservedly on the side of the liberals and against the existing recognized government. He said that even if they accepted the basis first presented by the mediators he did not think the island would have remained at peace for thirty days.

Mendez Capote has called another meeting of the moderates for Thursday to determine the attitude of the party toward the approaching extraordinary session of congress.

While the developments recorded today are profoundly serious, the outward appearance of things was distinctly peaceful. This was the quietest day yet at the American legation, where the commissioners have been holding their hearings. There were comparatively few callers, but there was a constant interchange of cablegrams with Oyster Bay, over a direct wire from the legation to the cable office. These communications were a result of the notification from President Palma that he and his associates had determined to resign rather than submit to the terms suggested and the fact that they declined to offer any modifications to these terms.

The formal draft of the terms, sent to the palace early this morning was rejected at noon. This action was not explained by Secretary Taft, notwithstanding the fact that it had been threatened by certain of the government officials and it practically cosued him to abandon his efforts toward settlement.

Although intervention appears certain both Secretaries Taft and Bacon assured the Associated Press tonight that such a course would not be taken so long as a government remains with which they can treat, but in the face of the personal communication from President Palma that he is about to throw over the whole matter, Secretary Taft has no great expectation that the government will endure for long.

Palma Is Incinecre.

Secretary Taft feels that President Palma's course is uncalled for, as the letter setting forth the terms of peace invited the government officials to suggest changes in the conditions unsatisfactory to them and in fact to offer another plan which they believed would be acceptable to all concerned.

Secretary Taft feels keenly that President Palma has been insincere in the negotiations with the American commissioners in that he had entered upon the negotiations with the voluntary promise to abide by the decision of the commissioners and then rejected the very first suggestion made, and also refused to offer any counter plans. This convinced Secretary Taft that President Palma intended only to accept in the event the decision favored the government and when Palma sent word that he intended to resign, Mr. Taft was further convinced that the president of Cuba would wreck the government of the republic rather than make personal or party sacrifices.

At a late hour tonight Secretary Taft announced that, in view of the attitude of the government, the promised conference with the liberals would be suspended. After Secretary Taft had declined to go to the palace, Vice President Capote readily called at the American legation and kept the commissioners informed of the action of the government and the moderates.

Alfredo Zayas, the liberal leader, visited the mediators several times, and at 5 o'clock this evening he was informed that the negotiations with the liberals for a peace agreement would be temporarily suspended, pending action by the government.

Upon leaving the legation Senor Zayas said Secretary Taft had told him that the government officials, including the president, would resign to congress. Commenting on this statement, Senor Zayas said this made a new situation, as there would be no government with which to treat. When Zayas received the first information that the government officers had decided to resign he said hotly:

"Then I tell you that the government and the moderates have betrayed us by delivering the republic to the Americans."

Preparing to Land Marines.

Captain Albert R. Couden, commander of the American squadron here, was summoned by Secretary Taft tonight to consider the situation in the event that a landing becomes necessary. The liberal and independent Cuban newspapers publish extra editions tonight charging that the attitude of the government was assumed for the sole purpose of provoking American intervention and insisting that the government officers were lacking in patriotism in surrendering the government to foreigners rather than to a party of their own people.

During the course of the afternoon Secretary Taft received a report from a source usually reliable that President Palma's decision to resign meant the immediate abandonment of the government. Before learning the falsity of this report Secretary Taft sent for General Menacol, the head of the veterans. It is believed by many persons that if it became necessary hurriedly to form a temporary government General Menacol would be given a high post.

The arrival here Thursday of General Funston causes considerable speculation as to what he will do in Cuba.

STENSLAND ENROUTE WEST

Chicago Bank Wrecker Will Reach Scene of His Crimes Today.

ANXIOUS TO STRAIGHTEN MATTERS OUT

Says He Got Only Half Million, but Does Not Know How Much The Other Fellow Got.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Paul O. Stensland, self-confessed embezzler of funds from the Milwaukee Avenue State bank of Chicago, of which he was president, is tonight on his way to Chicago, a passenger on the Twentieth Century Limited, ready and willing, he says, to admit his guilt, but at the same time determined to accuse others whom he claims were equally culpable for the wrecking of the institution and its attendant losses of millions of dollars.

Last night and early today Stensland was a prisoner at police headquarters, but his prominence afforded him no privileges whatsoever. Following a sleepless night in a cheerless cell, in which a pine board was the only resting place, he was lined up with a score of pickpockets and other petty criminals and forced to pass in review before the detective sergeants. Then he was measured and photographed for the headquarters' gallery. After that conditions changed for Stensland. He was escorted without physical restraint to the district attorney's office and there turned over to the custody of Chicago detectives. Under these officers his freedom became more pronounced. After having waived his extradition rights he was taken to a Broadway hotel for luncheon with his son, Theodore Stensland, and later for a walk down Broadway and Fifth avenue.

Prisoner's Condition Improves.

Stensland's condition, both mental and physical, seemed vastly improved over the morning, when he was in a state of partial collapse. He appeared pleased at the prospect of getting back to Chicago.

With Stensland on the train, which is due at Chicago tomorrow morning, are Assistant State Attorney Olsen, Detective Sergeant Kinder, who is personally responsible for Stensland, and Theodore Stensland, his son. The final word of the returning official as he left New York was that he was glad to go back to help in closing the bank's affairs. He wanted to protect innocent people, he declared, to incriminate those who should be incriminated and to show the Chicago public that he was not the black sheep that he had been painted.

Investments Went Wrong.

Stensland made a voluntary statement to Police Inspector McLaughlin today. Trembling with emotion, and with tears falling down his cheeks, the ex-bank president said:

"I made some bad investments and they did not act as quickly as I thought they would. They were not paying. The man under me—the cashier, I mean—took advantage of the situation and he got more than I. All I got was $500,000, but I don't know what the other man got. The money I went away with was a few thousand dollars that I made in a real estate speculation last summer. I had always been in hope of paying the money back, but I suppose all is lost. I am suffering from asthma. I want to get back to Chicago just as quickly as possible."

Papers Are Ready.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The papers asked for in the Stensland case, it is officially announced, will meet Stensland's captors at Buffalo, with the idea of getting all possible information from the alleged wrecker of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank, before the latter consults with counsel in Chicago.

Will Open This Week.

In an interview with Mr. O'Donahoe of the O'Donahoe, Redmond & Normile company as to the probable opening of their new store he stated that a temporary opening would be made during the latter part of the week, but that the grand formal opening would occur as soon as the store was in condition to display to the public the choice merchandise so dear to the feminine eye. The top floors of the new building are crowded to the limit, ready to burst with their contents of dainty adornments such, as stated by the firm, has never before been in Omaha. Their main idea now is to be open to greet their friends and patrons during Ak-Sar-Ben week, and, although somewhat in the rough, they will be capable of satisfying the wants and tastes of anyone desirous of making a satisfactory purchase.

THE WAY OUT

Change of Food Brought Success and Happiness.

An ambitious, but delicate girl, after failing to go through school on account of nervousness and hysteria, found in Grape-Nuts the only thing that seemed to build her up and furnish her the peace of health.

"From infancy," she says, "I have not been strong. Being ambitious to learn at any cost, I finally got to the high school, but soon had to abandon my studies on account of nervous prostration and hysteria.

"My food did not agree with me; I grew thin and despondent. I could not enjoy the simplest social affair, for I suffered constantly from nervousness in spite of all sorts of medicines.

"This wrecked condition continued until I was twenty-five, when I became interested in the letters of those who had cases like mine and who were being cured by eating Grape-Nuts.

"I had little faith, but procured a box, and after the first dish I experienced a peculiar satisfied feeling that I had never gained from any ordinary food. I slept and rested better that night, and in a few days began to grow stronger.

"I had a new feeling of peace and restfulness. In a few weeks, to my great joy, the headaches and nervousness left me and life became bright and hopeful. I resumed my studies and later taught ten months with ease—of course, using Grape-Nuts every day. It is now four years since I began to use Grape-Nuts. I am the mistress of a happy home and the old weakness has never returned." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

PIONEERS AT PIKE'S PEAK

Second Day's Program of Colorado Mountain Centennial is in Progress.

VICE PRESIDENT DELIVERS ADDRESS

Hall Not Large Enough to Accommodate Crowd, So Vice President Speaks in the Open Air.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Sept. 25.—Pioneer day, the second in the Pike centennial celebration week, opened as auspiciously as did the week itself. The day had been set aside by the committee on arrangements for the glorification of the efforts and achievements of the man who blazed the trails and belonged to the vanguard of civilization. The influx of pioneers from Colorado and neighboring states made a gathering of those interesting persons that never before has been equaled in this section of the country. The formal exercises were conducted in the open air this morning, their meeting being held at Stratton park, at the entrance to the famous Cheyenne canyon. The speakers at this meeting were General Frank Wall, one time secretary at Jefferson territory, and Judge Wilbur F. Stone of Denver.

Fairbanks in Open Air.

Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks was to have delivered an address in the Grand opera house, but the Auditorium could accommodate only a small part of the crowd that desired to hear him and the meeting was held in the open, in Acacia park. There the vice president spoke to 10,000 persons and was given an ovation.

When Representative Brooks and Thomas F. Walsh attempted to escort Vice President Fairbanks into the Walsh automobile at the Antlers hotel the vice president said: "No, I am going to walk."

The Midland band, which had given a concert in front of the hotel, marched up the middle of the street, playing a military air, while the vice president and his escort walked along the sidewalk for four blocks to the park, the head of the vice president towering high above those surrounding him in the immense crowd that followed.

Vice President Talks.

Vice President Fairbanks spoke in part as follows:

The century which has elapsed since the expedition which we celebrate, has given a tremendous impulse to the cause of republican government, and our institutions, which were feeble and viewed with much distrust a century ago, have grown wonderfully in strength and in the confidence of the world. They have successfully withstood assaults made upon them and have increased in strength with each attempt to overthrow them. The perils through which we have passed have intensified the people's love for them and their willingness and purpose to guard and defend them to the utmost. We may say, without any spirit of vainglory, that our institutions can stand against the world without, and no disintegrating influence within can affect their essential soundness.

We hear much said of vice and corruption, much of the subtle enemies of the state and social order, but the great heart of the people is as sound and incorruptible today as at any hour in all of our matchless history. The conscience of the people has not been seared. Pure materialism has not achieved the mastery. All of the forces which make for the intellectual, the moral and the social advancement of the people were never more powerful and never in fuller play than they are today. Honor among men was never more regarded, and dishonorable practices, either in public or private life, were never more abhorred than they are today. There has been upon every hand a demand that those who hold place and power shall be clean men, and that they shall consecrate themselves completely to the utmost advancement of the public welfare.

The American people are going forward and upward with tremendous momentum. They are advancing in all the ways which make for a strong, upright, patriotic people. They respect right and condemn wrong in every relation of life. Those who would contaminate the state, or who would carry into the business world low ideals of business morality, can lay no claim to the general respect. The American people are not to be judged by the standards of the exceptional wrongdoer, but by the generous purpose of the great body of our countrymen. The currents which course the veins of the American people are essentially as pure now as those which filled the veins of our ancestors.

The past 100 years have been notable in one history. The story we have written, both in war and peace, challenges the admiration of mankind.

While by no means shirking any responsibility which a high sense of justice and national honor may put upon us, we nevertheless stand ready to co-operate with other powers in the establishment of some agency for the settlement of grave international differences whereby they may be appropriately confided to an arbitral tribunal. The nation which hesitates to do all in its power to advance the cause of international arbitration fails in its supreme duty to modern civilization; fails in its duty to itself and the rest of mankind. In the laconic utterance of one of our greatest generals, "War is hell." Yes, as a rule, it is the expression of the brutish in man. The settlement of private differences vi et armis is no longer tolerated. It is repugnant to the educated conscience of the civilized world. Courts of justice are established everywhere to determine them. Most of the disputes between nations could be composed by some method equally honorable and efficacious. An appeal to force in adjusting them should fall into disuse. The majority of the differences which may arise may be readily adjusted in tribunals which the nations may create. There are but few controversies which might not, with honor and with confidence, be submitted to their deliberate consideration. Arbitration does not suggest any lack of national virility. It is rather an evidence of improvement in the moral and intellectual fiber of the people. I believe that the hour is fast coming when the statesmanship of the world will be able to devise some instrumentality which will put in the way of just solution most of these grave questions which frequently menace international amity and rudely disturb international peace. Towards this consummation, so devoutly to be wished, America may be trusted to make its rich and ample contribution.

BRADY BANK IS WRECKED

Robbers Visit Nebraska Town, Ruin Bank Building and Escape with Funds.

BRADY, Neb., Sept. 25.—The Bank of Brady was wrecked by robbers this morning. Four charges of dynamite were used and the ruin is complete. The amount of money taken is not known. A big force of men and dogs is in pursuit of the robbers.

Revival at Blair.

BLAIR, Neb., Sept. 25.—(Special.)—The city of Blair is now in the high tide of one of the greatest religious revivals known in the history of Washington county. Five churches have united in a union series of meetings and they have secured the services of Rev. Milford H. Lyon of Chicago and his singer, Mr. J. Dale Stentz of Ottumwa, Ia. The speaker came to Blair highly recommended by other cities of the state, among others being Columbus and Schuyler. The local churches have erected a large tabernacle on the lots opposite the postoffice that will seat 1,400 people. Last Sunday morning there was a debt of $500 on the building that was completely wiped out at the morning service. Altogether there are well on to 300 conversions. This is the last week of the meetings, and every effort is being put forward to make them a success that will be beyond the highest hopes. The evangelists go from here to Hartford, Wis., for the month of October, and will return to Fremont for the month of November.

Woman Beats Off Assailant.

FREMONT, Neb., Sept. 25.—(Special.)—Rufus McMartin is under arrest at the county jail on the charge of statutory assault upon Mrs. Charles Green of Saunders county. McMartin was walking south towards the bridge designing lameness, when he was overtaken by Mrs. Green, who invited him to ride. At a point on the road near the house of John Nau he assaulted her and threatened to kill her. Mrs. Green fought vigorously and finally a well directed blow over the head with the butt end of the buggy whip knocked him out of the carriage and she drove on. She stopped at the home of J. Nelson, who notified the Fremont officers and they with several men started in pursuit. McMartin was arrested last evening at the Stock & Land company's yards southeast of the city, where he is employed. This is the third affair of this nature in which he has been implicated. He is not considered quite right mentally and was for a time confined in the Lincoln asylum. The Saunders county authorities will have charge of the case, the affair having occurred in that county.

HEARST IN CONTROL

at New York, an "additional member" of the state committee.

Mr. Anderson asked unanimous consent to the reception of the resolution. By this time the delegates had come to realize that the resolution applied not only to lynching and mob violence affecting the negro race, represented by Mr. Anderson, but also to the anti-Jewish rioting in Russia, and there was a clamor for its reception.

Chairman Odell put the question and the resolution was carried amid cheers.

Neither of the two United States senators, Platt and Depew, who have attended every republican state convention for a generation, was present today.

Several hours after the session the republican leaders were in close conference canvassing the situation and endeavoring to reach an agreement or adjust differences before the convention meets tomorrow for the purpose of completing its business by the nomination of a state ticket, but it was announced no conclusion had been reached.

The important matter discussed was the governorship, but the position different members took cannot be accurately stated, save for the fact that a large proportion of them favored Lieutenant Governor Bruce and that Herbert Parsons was almost alone in his advocacy of Charles E. Hughes.

An indication of the doubt in which the situation remains is the fact that no speaker has yet been selected to place candidates in nomination, but as matters stood this evening it would seem the nomination for governor is still between Bruce and Hughes.

There were repeated revivals during the day of the talk about Frank S. Black and several attempts were made to arrange a program to secure his nomination. Black from the first discouraged the use of his name and made his declination so positive that few of the up-state leaders believe that he is really a possibility.

DEATH RECORD.

John H. Leavitt.

WATERLOO, Ia., Sept. 25.—(Special Telegram.)—John H. Leavitt died this morning, aged 75 years, after a long struggle with cancer. He came to Waterloo in 1854 and was a prominent banker and politician. He was one of the original promoters of the Illinois Central railroad from Dubuque to Sioux City. Twenty years later he was active in securing the Chicago Great Western. He originated the coupon bond system for making loans on farms. He was president of the same bank which had stood on the same site fifty years—the Leavitt & Johnson National bank of Waterloo. He was a large stockholder in the Cedar Falls National and Grundy Center National banks. In 1894 he was chairman of the state republican convention at Des Moines and was a popular candidate for governor until a compromise was made on Frank D. Jackson. He was elected as state senator in 1871 and was for many years a close friend of Senator Allison. He left a large estate. He is survived by a wife and five children, Roger Leavitt of Cedar Falls, Mrs. Davison, Lucy Leavitt, Mrs. Thomas Cascaden and Joseph Leavitt, all of Waterloo.

Rev. J. J. Callahan.

Rev. J. J. Callahan, a prominent Catholic priest, is dead at Butte, Mont. He was born in Chicago.

Father Callahan will be remembered by many Omahans as the rising young pastor of St. Cecilia's church, which he left about eight years ago. He came to this city from Chicago and studied for entry into this diocese. He was ordained at Cincinnati. For a time the young priest was assistant at St. Patrick's church, and then for a number of years was given the St. Cecilia pastorate. Shortly before removing to Butte he went to Chicago for a year. Believing his health would be benefited by the change of climate he applied for transfer to Butte and was given charge of Sacred Heart parish in that city. Father Callahan was in Omaha in July, stopping off here while en route both to and from Saratoga, N. Y., where he went to attend the convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. He visited many Omaha clergymen of the church, who were his personal and warm friends, and they say he appeared to be well and hearty at that time. Word was received, however, of his illness, and it was known Tuesday he could not live long. Father Callahan was about 33 years of age and was considered a priest of exceptional abilities, with a promising future.
