MAKING A JESUIT GENERAL

Rules in Force in Society of Jesus for Choosing Its Head.

MAN SELECTED MAY NOT DECLINE

Recent Election of Father Werner Still Subject of Talk in Europe—Was Chosen in Silence.

ROME, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—Though the selection of Rev. Father Werner, the German rector of the Gregorian assembly as the general of the Jesuits, occurred several weeks ago, interest has not yet died away in the man and his plans for the future of the order. The election of the general of the Jesuits is safeguarded from arbitrary or unconstitutional action by which is carefully regulated, every detail of a time, no doubt, when to all save the initiated, these things were wrapped in mystery, but since the days of the suppression of the order and the consequent confiscation of numerous Jesuit libraries, the "Institutum Societatis Jesu" has become a far from rare book. There are a dozen copies of the work in its various editions, ancient and modern, it is found in the British museum, and it is often to be met with in bookellers' catalogues. Now this "Institutum" contains the whole official legislation of the Society of Jesus, and in it there is included a special section headed "Formulae Constitutionum Generalium" in other words, a code of procedure for the general assembly, which elects the superior of the order.

Depending as it does upon the number of separate "provinces," the total number of electors has varied considerably at different periods. At the death of Ignatius there were twelve provinces, but some of these, on account of their remoteness, could not send their electors of representatives.

As in the election of the pope, the voting is secret, and the voting papers are deposited when a choice has been arrived at. On the other hand, while the election of the pope requires the consent of the cardinal electors, who are not bound to accept of a choice, in the case of the Jesuits the dignity conferred upon him, the father elects is not free to decline either the charge itself or the homage which is immediately paid to him by all present, who kneel before him and kiss his hand.

President at Target Practice. BARNSTABLE, Mass., Sept. 29.—The government yacht Mayflower, with President Roosevelt on board, joined the battleships of the North Atlantic squadron this morning and preparations were at once begun for the target practice, to witness which the president made the trip from Oyster Bay today.

Vice President at Dinner. DENVER, Sept. 29.—Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks delivered an address today at the laying of the cornerstone of the Young Men's Christian association building to be erected in this city.

DERNBERG AMERICAN TRAINED

New German Colonial Minister Has Many Interests in the United States.

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—Herr Dernberg, the new German colonial minister, has many American connections and many interests in America. While still in his teens Herr Dernberg became a junior clerk in the Berlin Handels-gesellschaft (trading company). Three years later he went to the United States to learn American banking methods, entering the well known New York house of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. Mr. Thalmann happened to be visiting Berlin this week and was one of the first to congratulate his former "apprentice."

When he returned from America, Herr Dernberg became correspondent with the Deutsche bank, Berlin, and subsequently managing editor of the Deutsche Treuhander-Zeitung, the first German "trust company," which the Deutsche bank formed upon American lines. It was while managing the trust company that he earned the title of "sanitistat" (councillor of health), because the company devoted itself to reorganizing and resuscitating tottering financial concerns.

One of his most brilliant achievements was perfecting the reorganization of the Northern Pacific railway, in co-operation with the late George von Siemens. German capital was heavily interested in the venture and he succeeded in doing a great deal to save losses of investors.

SULTAN LOOKS FOR SUCCESSOR

Special Mission Sent to Powers of Europe to Plead for Co-operation.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—The sultan has sent Selim Mehmed, one of his secretaries, on a secret mission to the diplomatic chancelleries of several European powers. The object of the mission is to give information in connection with the question of succession to the throne. The envoy is to point out the great danger of supporting the candidature of either Rehad, the present sultan's eldest nephew, or Jusuf Ibrahim, eldest son of Sultan Abdul Aziz, who are liberals. He is also to point out that the candidature of Sultan Rehad, his majesty's third son, is alone desirable in order to prevent revolutionary complications.

DEAL IN ORIENTAL TRAFFIC

American and Japanese Shipping Lines Agree on New Basis of Trade.

TOKIO, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—An important agreement has been concluded between the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and the Northern Pacific Railway company for the joint transportation of passengers and freight. The passengers by this route will proceed from Seattle to Montreal, and at the latter place will join an Atlantic line. The Nippon Yusen Kaisha's contract with the Great Northern Steamship company and its railway remains intact.

DISSENSION IN PETER'S HOME

King of Servia Has Trouble Maintaining Peace in His Family.

SON HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH SISTER

In Quarrels Ruler Sustains Younger Children Against Heir to Throne and Matter Has Become Public.

BELGRADE, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—The tales of dissension in King Peter's family, published in the German newspapers, have, unfortunately, a foundation in fact.

The young crown prince has taken such a dislike to his sister that they do not speak, and she does not appear at any function at which she is present. This is the main cause of the prince's antagonism to his father, who is closely attached to his daughter, and makes her his constant companion. The question of precedence between the prince and his sister has caused open quarrels, and is invariably decided by the king in favor of Princess Helen.

Prince Alexander, the second son, is of a mild disposition, and is not hostile to his father, but he also is on bad terms with the crown prince.

The relations with the royal family of Italy are no longer so cordial as they were last year. Queen Elena has not extended the invitation to King Peter's family to visit her at Rakonitz, which Princess Helen had hoped, and which, it is reported, had been promised to her by her aunt.

GERMAN POLES ARE AROUSED

Object to Introduction of German Language as Means of Teaching Religion.

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—The Poles in the eastern provinces of Germany have been holding numerous meetings to protest against the rule making the use of German obligatory in the schools where the attendance is exclusively Polish.

They would accept obligatory German for secular subjects, but they will not submit to have German used as a means of instruction in religion. On this subject their patriotism takes fire, as they believe that the Prussian government, in compelling the use of the German language, is incidentally undermining their national feeling and their Catholic faith. In several districts the Polish children, urged thereby by their parents, are refusing to answer questions on religious subjects in any other language than their mother tongue, and persist in this course even when threatened with serious punishment. The school authorities in east Prussia are considerably perplexed as to what course they should adopt.

WILD WOMAN IS AT LARGE

French Official Refuses to Confine Modern "Eve" in Asylum or Workhouse.

GENEVA, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—The mayor of the French commune of Solentier, a few miles from Geneva, across the frontier, accompanied by many gendarmes, entered the forest near the village in search of a "wild" woman who has been living for the last few months in a savage state.

She is a mystery to the French villagers. She does not remember her name, but calls herself Eve, and lives in the same way as her original ancestor. She is about 35 years of age, is well built and of more than average height, carries herself like a soldier, and has beautiful white flowing hair.

She lives on fruits, berries and roots that she finds in the forest, and has a sleeping place made of branches and twigs in a tree. She has on many occasions refused bread and meat, and also shelter and clothes, of which she is innocent. "Eve" runs like a deer, and the gendarmes had a long chase before they were able to surround her and bring her before the mayor, who—rather embarrassed—questioned her for half an hour without being able to obtain any information as to her identity.

"I have always been called Eve, and have always lived in a forest," she repeated many times. The mayor considered the woman a harmless creature and allowed her to return to the forest, refusing to send her to the workhouse or lunatic asylum.

CHINESE OFFICIAL ON GUARD

Tests Honesty of Subordinates by Offering Bribes to Watchmen at Gates.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—A correspondent of the North China Herald, describes how the Kuangchi mandarin tested the virtue of his watchmen.

Dressing himself poorly to represent a thief, the mandarin left his room at night. At one gate the watchman refused to let him pass, so he gave him a bribe, and was allowed to go through. At the next gate the watchman refused the bribe, and took the mandarin to the yamen, where his identity was disclosed.

Next day the mandarin sent for the two men, gave the faithful one a reward, and sent the other to be caned.

GERMAN AMERICAN COMBINE

Ties and Wamamaker Come Together to Eliminate Great Britain from Trade.

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—To reduce expenses and incidentally to exclude English competition, a "combine" has been formed between the large German firms of Hermann Tiez, Berlin and Hamburg, and John Wamamaker's "departmental store," New York and Philadelphia.

What hitherto they have bought independently from Great Britain or Germany, the Americans will now take up from the latter country. The German firm will act on the same principle.

JOURNALISTS MAKE APPEAL

British Writers Willing to Have News Suppressed During War.

WANT TO BE CERTAIN OF THEIR PRIVILEGES

Government Asked to Make Lay Specific, but Not to Enforce It Without Considering Writer's Intention.

DUBLIN, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—At the recent meeting of the journalists' conference in this city, Mr. Alfred Robbins, of London, moved the adoption of the following resolution: "That in view of the statement by the prime minister on June 27 in the house of commons of the government's intention to introduce, early next year, a bill for restricting the dissemination of news in war time, and of the explanation by the first lord of Admiralty on July 13 in the house of lords, which may be passed by Parliament, provision should be made (a), that the offences proposed to be punished are clearly defined; (b), that the act shall not be put into operation without ample notice to every newspaper; (c), that no penalty shall be inflicted upon any contributor to or publisher of a newspaper unless it be proved that he willfully and knowingly contributed or published information which the court may hold to come within the provisions of the statute; and (d), that any defendant convicted under the act by a court of first instance shall have a right to appeal to the high court of justice."

It was carried almost unanimously.

VIENNA, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—The Budapest newspapers give accounts of an amusing adventure, which has befallen the famous Hungarian prima donna, Fraulein Fedak, who is an ardent motorist and always drives herself.

She is well known in all the villages in the neighborhood of Pesth, as she frequently succeeds in killing a few dogs and poultry on her fast runs. Her latest exploit was to run into a great flock of geese in the village of Szepesvelphely.

She did not stop to inquire as to the extent of the damage done, but the villagers, knowing that she would return the same way, barricaded the roadway. When she came back she was unable to pass and the villagers produced 100 dead geese, the owners of which presented bills at 4 shillings each. They said she had killed them all.

Fraulein Fedak smilingly paid up, and the geese were then loaded in the car. The famous singer departed with her novel "bag," amid the loud cheers of the villagers, who had never previously sold geese on such advantageous terms.

NEW DANISH EXECUTIONER

Several Horrible Crimes Makes the Creation of Lapsed Office a Necessity.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—A giant by the name of Christensen, who used to be a policeman of the city of Slagelse, has been selected from 188 applicants for the post of public executioner to the government of Denmark.

It is more than twenty years since the last execution took place in Denmark, owing to the refusal of the late King Christian IX. to sign a death warrant. The reason for the change is that there have recently been a number of murders of a particularly atrocious character.

Christensen will combine with his duties as executioner that of fogging. The Danish parliament last year passed a law providing for the fogging of hooligans. It has been seen whether the judges intend to make use of this law, which was strongly opposed.

CHINESE AGENTS REPORT

Find Much of Advantage in United States, but Little in Russia.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—A report sent by the traveling commissioners to the emperor refers to the commissioners' interview with the czar and says: "The czar warned the memorialists against rashly embarking on a constitutional form of government, pointing to Russia as an instance of its dangers. The commissioners say that there are few points in the Russian political and administrative system to be recommended. They report that they found many things in the American system to admire."

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING TALK

British Press Continues to Find Fault with Action of President.

BRANDNER MATTHEWS WRITES ON SUBJECT

London Times and Other Newspapers Still Take Matter Seriously and Andrew Carnegie Advances an Opinion.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(Special Cablegram to The Bee.)—The English still continue to discuss with the greatest interest President Roosevelt's position in the matter of spelling reform. Says the London Times in an editorial leader: "We appear to be threatened with a revolution in the matter of spelling at the hands of the sturdy iconoclast, Mr. Roosevelt, whom perhaps we must henceforth accustom ourselves to recognize under some such form as 'Rusevelt.' Mr. Andrew Carnegie, whose Christian name must surely hereafter be spelt 'Andru,' and Prof. Brandner Matthews, who will apparently have to part with a superfluous 'r' in his surname. The last named, who is a well-known professor at Columbia university, is also the head of a simplified spelling board, which has issued a preliminary list of 300 simplified spellings. This board Saturday expressed their opinion of Mr. Carnegie, who, having founded innumerable free libraries, now seeks to do all he can to render their contents obscure by making their spelling uniformly obsolete. Yet the weight of usage might still have retained for some time longer the reforms of Prof. Matthews, the gold of Mr. Carnegie, but for the action of the third and most important personage in this revolutionary triumvirate, the president of the United States."

The London Times also expressed a regret that the president had thrown the weight of his powerful personality in favor of this movement without consulting anyone on this side of the water. Replying to this plaint, Brandner Matthews, in a communication written in New York, said:

"You have expressed a regret that no one on your side of the Atlantic has been consulted in regard to our proposals. This approach was really for some time longer recommended. Desiring, as I express their sympathy with our aims, Dr. Murray and Mr. Henry Bradley, the editors of the Oxford dictionary; Prof. Skeat, the editor of the Etymological dictionary, and Dr. Wright, the editor of the English dialect dictionary, have accepted election to the board, and shall share hereafter with me the responsibility of the simplified spelling. Perhaps it may be well to note that the board numbers among its original members the editors of the three most important American dictionaries. It may be doubted whether any board could be selected which should be animated by a more reverent regard for the language, or which was possessed of a more vigorous loyalty to the principles which have governed the growth of English."

Mr. Carnegie himself replies to the London Times as follows:

"Our aim is not to destroy the language of Shakespeare and Milton, but to continue what is possible to keep its future development, that it may become a more and more efficient instrument. It has actually become such since the great master's time, he being himself, as I understand, the greatest creator of new words, new meanings and new spellings."
