Redfern Corsets.

REDFERN STYLE.

Bespeak of figure style that suits prevailing fashions. No matter what kind of style—whether the Louis XV costume, the dressy or severe tailor made—a Redfern style builds the necessary contour.

The little things in corset construction are important; chief of all is the exact matching of the seams, in order that there may be no variation from the size intended. In every detail Redfern styles, under the closet scrutiny, reveal only careful work.

THOMPSON BELDEN & CO.

Howard Street, Corner Sixteenth.

so all could see it. A large banner proclaimed the title of the electrical pageant, and a profusion of flowers gathered from the four corners of the earth and from the highways and byways completed the float.

The Nation's Rulers.

An immense creation holding all the rulers of all the nations of the earth formed in one band. Your own Uncle Samuel was holding the baton and directing the music. When Uncle Sam said play, the nations of the earth played. The front of the float was a combination of a railroad engine and an automobile, with old Father Time wearing an automobile cap doing the steering. The hot pace was clearly expressed. The rear was a large cage, over which the American flags waved and in which nestled quietly the dove of peace, a bird now in the keeping of Uncle Samuel, who stood directly in front. The wheels of the float, resplendent with electric bulbs, were of automobile pattern, while the body was covered with emblems of the nations. The occupants of the float were D. H. Beck, captain; Dr. Gsantner.

Great Britain.

The front was the portion of a ship filled with sailors, indicative of the great sea powers of the mother country. In the prow stood the mythical Mercury, messenger of the gods. In the center was the monster British lion, indicating strength and endurance, while the white and red roses over the coat of arms of the nation, covered with brilliant white and red lights and mingled with flowers, completed the pleasing picture. On float No. 3 were William Kennedy, captain; E. Paul Shaw, M. Bjornson, H. H. Campbell, H. C. Marsh, Frank Schope, W. L. Mardis.

Germany.

The land of poets showed the modern Germania in front, with the allegorical figure with the palm in hand resting upon the busts of Goethe and Schiller. Piles of books, the harp with decorations of flowers, brilliantly illuminated, carried out the suggestion of the home of the poets. Those accompanying Germania were G. C. Kuenne, captain; Oscar Kuenne, C. H. Boyles, William Raapke.

France.

Art and science were depicted in every feature of the representation. The French arch, expressive of the triumph of Paris, constituted the greater portion of the beautiful creation, while French guards stood on either side with the figures representing art and science in the front. The French guards were George Gillespie, captain; J. P. Kepler, Hal Fink, Will Hosier, H. Dearmont, Verne Miller.

Japan.

A scene of peace and beauty, with nothing indicating any war-like spirit, represented this progressive little nation. In the center of the brilliantly lighted float was the Japanese tea house, with its geisha girls, while in the front was the tori, the religious gateway. The abundance of chrysanthemums and green leaves carried out the idea of a flowery kingdom. In this flowery bower rode Dr. Foster, captain; A. W. Johnson, L. W. Soukup, J. Kruger, R. M. Jones.

Scandinavia.

A float designed no doubt when Denmark, Norway and Sweden were pulling together, as each had an oar in pulling the ship of state, the huge Viking. The red fire issuing from the nostrils of the fierce looking business gave Scandinavia a very war-like aspect. The tawny-maned Vikings, were A. Stera, captain; Henry Stein, Max Wagoner, C. R. Hutton, Fred Reaners, Fred Martin, G. F. Shepard.

Austria.

The Hungarian and Bohemian soldiers, the bust of Emperor Francis Joseph in front of his throne room, upon which was the coat of arms of this nation. The old-fashioned lamps, not unlike the hour-glass, told of the flight of time, while allegorical figures told of the progress of the nation as time is passing. C. Foster, captain; Dan Butler, L. Henderson, J. W. Novak, Henry E. Thomsen, R. W. Hodder, W. Stryker and Dr. E. H. Bruening were the men on the float.

Italy.

A representation of Venice was portrayed, true to life, while in the rear was constructed the cottage amid the palms and sunshine, and magic, with people of the sunny clime to give life to the picture. Representing the olive-skinned people of the south were: E. Lehman, captain; Charles W. Goodall, Charles Shumway, P. G. Moeller, N. H. Nelson, Herman Metz, Misses Jennie Stone and Bertha Kansbide.

Russia.

The old Russian bear with one foot tied up in a rag showing the effects of his recent and present troubles was a good representation of a country in the condition in which Russia finds itself. Guarding the bear were Russian soldiers, while in the rear was the home of the Duma. At intervals, only too frequent for the peace of mind of the soldiers and the bear, explosions were heard and flames leaped up around the bear—an index of the shape of Russian governmental affairs at this time. The guards of the sore-foot bear were: E. L. Potter, captain; W. A. Case, S. J. Potter, Frank Colvin, Henry Rowley, C. DeWaal.

Egypt.

The sphynx, the palms, the pyramid, did service for this ancient country, while upon the sides of the pyramids a diamond star and crescent blazed. These sons of Pharaoh reclined in the midst of this tropical scene: T. L. Combs, captain; — Newcomb, Carl Kase, C. C. Phelps.

Switzerland.

Without a name it would have been recognized. Standing out in a blaze of glory was the typical Swiss cottage, in the rear of which were formed the mountains upon the sides of which were seen the chamois. The Swiss guide and the milkmaid were prominent features. Riding on the float were: Ed Thompson, captain; E. E. Crane, R. W. Koenig, J. W. Bradehopt, J. T. Cunningham.

Spain.

A float that appealed to the romantic and the dare-devils. The nation was represented by the Spanish bull fight, the national sport of the Spaniard. While the bull fighter and the beast came together in their death struggle, the high moguls, in a beautiful grandstand in the rear of the float, applauded. Impersonating picadors, toreadors and spectators were: Robert Manley, captain; O. A. Heiquist, Frank Janda, J. R. Wells, C. W. Ortman.

The Netherlands.

The industries of the Netherlands were aptly portrayed on this float. The girl making the famous Holland chinaware, the girl mending the net, and the old-fashioned wind mill, swinging in the breeze, spelled the Netherlands all over. The jolly Dutch men and women in this scene were: Frank Simpson, captain; P. Peterson, A. B. Cook, H. E. Bell, Fred Kuhn, J. R. Stephens and Ed Wilcox.

Greenland.

Any one who ever heard of Greenland, recognized this float a mile away. A stiff breeze preceded it and a turning up of overcoats indicated its approach. On it was the reindeer hitched to the sled, the polar bear that had just caught a seal and birds which inhabit no other country—all in a solid mass of ice. William Stoetzel on this float suggested to spectators that Greenland is inhabited.

China.

The longest float in the parade and the most ferocious looking. The time-honored dragon was brought into service while in its center was the temple with its guards looking to the safety of the Chinese god. The peacock feathers and the pagoda in the rear were emblematic of the celestials. These pig-tailed celestials rode beside the dragon: Harry Steel, captain; A. W. Miller, F. A. Beaton, Frank Holbrook.

Turkey.

The land of the Turk was represented by the harem and the dancing girls. The workmanship was of Moorish design, and the star and crescent flashed forth from the sides. Peter Thind, captain; Leo Penfold, Henry Hix and J. Jackson rode on this float.

India.

The land of mystery was recognized in the big elephant which formed the forepart of the float. Upon his back rode the rajahs and the big guns of the country, who would rather ride than walk, while the rear was covered with all kinds of tropical plants. The Hindus in this jungle scene were: George Duncan, captain; Robert Wilcox, Louis Blickenderfer, J. J. Conlisk, F. R. Bishop, W. J. Shallcross and J. F. Kerr.

America.

Every heart thrilled when this float came into sight. It carried a story from the days of the Declaration of Independence to the time of the big stick and the big policeman of the world. In the foreground were two immense torches blazing the way of civilization, then came the Indians, immediately behind which was Columbus, standing upon the great American bird. Then the signed Declaration of Independence, the colonial soldiers and the old liberty bell with the modern soldier beneath the folds of the flag in the rear, and the national emblem on the sides. The king's subjects honored by a part of this float were: C. Karbach, captain; F. D. Parmer, Henry Wood, C. W. Peters, William Dorrance, C. A. Yost, William Welch, F. H. Turney and A. T. Pefrie.

The King.

His Majesty, King Ak-Sar-Ben XIII—Long live the king. A herald standing in a profusion of flowers announced his coming. Two guards stood before his throne to protect him from the strenuous attempts of his loyal subjects to get near him. The king was seated on his magnificent gold throne while flowers were everywhere. He bowed gracefully and smiled often at those who love him. These royal favorites rode in company with the king: William Elbourn, captain; F. J. Ellison, H. Fitch and William Karbach.

AND THE MOON SHONE O'ER CITY

Nature's Light Combines with the Brilliant Man-Made Glory.

Out of the hills across the river the moon rose at the foot of Farnam street last night, dim through the intervening haze, but round and rich red, looking wonderfully like a glowing ball suspended across the street by the hand of man in honor of the king. It hastened to climb upward, for through the lower atmosphere it could not begin to outshine the electrical splendor which illuminated the highways of the chief of the Seven Cities of Cibola.

The whole city was ablaze along the sides of the street and the poles of the street lamps, festooned over windows and on signs, and hung in every conceivable place where strings of lights could be hung, made the whole range of vision one sea of glory.

By far the most beautiful place was the hill in the middle of the city, where the people gather each year to view the noble pageant of their king on his triumphal entry into the city. Resplendent above all the buildings of his capital were the city hall and court house, between which King Ak-Sar-Ben passed in glory.

A big forty horseshoe crowned the high dome of the court house, while down the sides of the dome and tower and along the eaves of the upper story hung the lights in myriads. On each of three sides of the tower was a huge star, while on the side where passed the king and his retinue was a bright shield in red, white and blue. From each of the four corners of the court house brilliant Chinese lanterns hung on wires stretched across the street.

The city hall was beautiful with lights on every parapet and tower and on every arch from top to bottom of the big building. Surmounting all the statue of Liberty with a torch of electric bulbs in her hand, bowed to Justice on the court house across the way.

Looking east from Eighteenth street one saw Farnam street flanked on both sides with rivers of light, the red, blue and green of the street signs relieving with pretty effect here and there the white blaze of the incandescents.

The New York Life building was decorated on its first two stories and at its very top. Out of respect to the memory of Edward Rosewater the Bee building, one of the most beautifully lighted in past years, was undecorated.

Sixteenth street was almost as brilliant as Farnam. Lights hung over the curbing in thousands, and elaborate electrical effects were seen on the fronts of the big retail buildings in the four blocks between Howard and Dodge streets. Harney, Douglas, Fifteenth and all the streets in the central part of the city were similarly lighted.

Notes of Ak-Sar-Ben.

The knights of Ak-Sar-Ben have caused to be brought to Omaha 25,000 serpentine coils, which boys will sell on the streets. These are little rolls of paper, which, when thrown, make a long serpentine effect and spring out for about forty feet. The idea is to have them thrown at the occupants of the flower parades as they pass, thus adding to the life of the parade.

There is no necessity for Ak-Sar-Ben visitors to sleep in the hallways of hotels and public buildings, as some are reported to have done Tuesday night. The information bureau of the Commercial club has a list of several hundred rooms, and will direct any person applying to a suitable place to stay. The bureau also has a list of boarding places. The information bureau is located in the office of the Commercial club, on the fifth floor of the Board of Trade building at Sixteenth and Farnam streets.

Ohio Prisoners Break Jail.

NEWARK, O., Oct. 3.—Eight prisoners broke out of the Licking county jail today, after making a vicious assault upon the turnkey, Christopher Galvin, and locking him in a cell. The jailer had unlocked the front door leading to the corridor for the purpose of locking two men in their cells after the prisoners had scrubbed the jail. As soon as he entered the door he was assaulted and locked in a cell, after his keys and revolver had been taken away.

BEVERIDGE IN DES MOINES

Indiana Senator Opens Campaign at the Hawkeye Capital.

CHANGES NEEDED IN TARIFF SCHEDULE

Speaker Says They Should Be Made at High Tide of Prosperity, When Business Can Easily Adjust Itself.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 3.—United States Senator Beveridge opened the republican campaign in Des Moines today with a speech that was heard by a large audience. Senator Beveridge entered into a general defense of the republican administration and republican congress, but he also discussed the present Cuban situation. Upon the question of tariff revision, Mr. Beveridge declared that there must be some changes in schedules, not a general revision, but for the adjustment of certain schedules. "Some of these should be revised," he said, "and they should be changed in the high tide of our prosperity when business can easily adjust itself to the change."

Text of the Speech.

Mr. Beveridge said in part:

Events are determining the destiny of Cuba. We have already intervened. But we did not intervene until every effort had been exhausted to help the Cubans themselves to restore the order they had shattered and the government they had imperilled. And now that we have intervened we will try again to make the Cuban government once more a success.

From Santiago to Havana the Cuban flag still flies, visible proof to the world of our intention not to raise the American flag and establish American government there until the Cuban people themselves compelled us to do so; until events which are the commands of God order us to do so; until the cause of civilization and the cry of despairing liberty force us to do so. For when the American flag is raised over Cuba again it never must be lowered.

Our record must be as clear as our intentions are pure. But speaking for myself alone, and for no one else, I believe that in re-establishing the Cuban government all the world knows that we are doing the work of Sisyphus—rolling the stone to the top of the hill only to see it roll back again. When another Cuban president is elected by Cuban votes, how long will it be before another Cuban insurrection overthrows him? When we again set another Cuban government on its feet, how long will it be before foolish factions will again lay it prostrate? When we have steadied the falling Cuban flag by the arms of American soldiers and sailors, and then have again withdrawn the American power that saved it, how long will it be until once more anarchy will make it the vain emblem of the powerless government.

Destiny Will Have Its Way.

In the end destiny will have its way. We may lay down the task civilization bids us do, but tomorrow that task will reappear and the inevitable will command us to do our deferred duty. But we must not act in haste. Let us exhaust every resource so that the world, history, and our own conscience will say that we have not trifled with our word on the one hand; and then having exhausted every resource and failed, let us act so that history, the world and our conscience will say that we have not trifled with liberty and civilization on the other hand. Let us keep the Cuban flag floating while we may, so that when we raise the American flag only when we must, that flag will be unfurled never to be furled again.

Hereafter when the American flag is raised it must never be hauled down. That flag was never raised but in honor—was never hauled down but in mistake and disgrace. It was a mistake when we hauled it down in Cuba; it was a disgrace when we hauled it down in Hawaii; and now let the circumstances be such that whenever it is raised hereafter, it will be an infamy it is raised hereafter, it will be again.

Cuba needs us more than we need Cuba. What Cuba wants is important; what we want is important; but what liberty requires is more important. What civilization demands is the supreme consideration.

The Cuban situation will need devoted statesmanship before we are through with it. Legislations will be required, appropriations necessary. Dare we risk all this to an opposition house which would bind, by its obstruction, the administration hands? Let patriotism and not partisanship deposit your ballot for congressman.

MAGOON GOES TO CUBA

men carry fighting cocks tied to their saddles.

It is reported that some of General Castillo's forces were reluctant to disarm, but all the brigade commanders have informed Major Ladd that their men will disarm and disband when ordered to do so by General Del Castillo.

This afternoon General Del Castillo gave Major Ladd an order directed to all his subordinate commanders and telling them to comply with every request made by the American officer. Major Ladd will work tonight to carry out the disbanding arrangements.

The disarming commission which was sent to Santa Clara province entered the Cienfuegos district this afternoon. A dispatch received from the Associated Press correspondent who is with the commission, filed at Cruces, reports that the commission received an ovation on the way from Santa Clara.

The revolutionists encamped at various points along the line were all willing to disarm and disband, believing thoroughly in the honorable intention of President Roosevelt and Governor Taft.

The speech delivered by Governor Taft before the University of Havana has been received with great satisfaction by both the revolutionists and the government party in Santa Clara province.

Since the cessation of hostilities marauding bands have stolen or destroyed more or less property in Santa Clara province. This week a band attacked the San Nicholas plantation, owned by a captain of the rural guards, and butchered 200 head of cattle. The motive for this destruction is said to have been personal spite.

Distribution of Marines.

In addition to the American marines stationed at Cienfuegos, there are detachments in other Santa Clara towns as follows: Cruces, 50; Esperanza, 25; Santo Domingo, 35; Sagua la Grande, 50; Palmira, 35, and the Normiguero plantation, 12. Other detachments are guarding American properties in the Manicaragua district. The disarming commission proceeded for Cienfuegos this afternoon, accompanied by the former rebel leader, General Guzman.

Officials of the Cuban Central railroad estimate that the insurgents damaged the road to the extent of $100,000.

Governor Taft has received a dispatch that the threatened disturbances in Cienfuegos have been obviated by the withdrawal of the insurgents from that city.

Governor Taft now occupies the office in which the affairs of Cuba have been administered successively by the Spanish governors of the island, General Leonard Wood and President Palma. He established himself in these quarters this afternoon. He will take up his residence in the palace in a few days.

Colonel E. H. Crowder, judge advocate, said today that the continuance of the status of the Cuban republic without change obviates practically every difficulty which might otherwise have been caused by the establishment of a provisional government.

Health Officials at Work.

Dr. Bardot, chief executive officer of the Cuban health department, said today:

Governor Taft has told us to use any amount of money needed for putting Cuba into a first-class sanitary condition and for stamping out yellow fever. Consequently, we are today installing sanitary brigades at Pinar del Rio, Guanajay, Matanzas, Cardenas, Colon, Union de Reyes, Sanza la Grande, Santa Clara, Cienfuegos, Sancti Spiritus, Camaguay, Guantanamo, Santiago, Manzanillo, Remedios and Gibara. All these towns will have ample oiling and disinfecting brigades. We have not submitted to Mr. Taft any estimate of the expense. He considers that the work must be done and it will be done. In Havana now there are three cases of yellow fever, one of which came from Guanabacoa. There are no cases elsewhere in the island and there is no special epidemic threatened, but precautions are necessary. The disinfecting force in Havana already has been increased from seventy to 195 men and the oiling brigade in Havana is being increased to 200 men. There are 200 men now at work at Camp Columbia engaged in a quick but thorough job of drainage and mosquito extermination in preparation for its occupancy by American troops.

Cardwell Called for Cuba.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okl., Oct. 3.—M. W. Cardwell, chief clerk at the army headquarters here, has been summoned to Washington for duty in the office of the commanding general of the forces in Cuba.

Dr. Ferrer Holds Place.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Dr. Ferrer, the Cuban representative here, has withdrawn his resignation at the request of Governor Taft.

Brooklyn Enroute.

DELAWARE BREAKWATER, Del., Oct. 3.—The United cruiser Brooklyn, which sailed from the League Island Navy yard for Cuba yesterday with 400 marines and a large quantity of ammunition and supplies, passed out to sea at 2:10 p. m., today.

Coal for Ships.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—The British steamship John Bright, from Cape Verdi islands, in ballast, arrived here today to load coal for Cienfuegos, Cuba. The fuel is to be used by the United States naval vessels in Cuban waters.

Artillery Goes to Cuba.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The Fourteenth artillery, in command of Captain G. G. Gailey, left Fort Sheridan via Tampa for Cuba today on two special trains. At Chicago the troops were transferred from the Northwestern railway to the Illinois Central. The Fourteenth artillery carries a full complement of 133 men and four officers, guns, weapons and horses.

KELLEY PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Harvard Student Says He Didn't Knock Down Policeman on Boston Common.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 3.—Shaun Kelley of Fitchburg, the roommate of Theodore Roosevelt, jr., at Harvard, appeared in the municipal court today and pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault upon a police officer. At the request of his counsel the case was continued until October 16.

The charge against Kelley is based upon an incident, which occurred on Boston common last Thursday night, when Patrolman Freyer was knocked down by young men said to be Harvard students. Roosevelt and another student, Meredith Blagden, have been summoned to appear as witnesses in connection with the same case, which will be investigated tomorrow by the Suffolk county grand jury.

POSTMASTERS AT ST. LOUIS

About One Hundred Heads of First Class Offices Confer in Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 3.—About 100 postmasters of the first-class met in annual convention here today and will consider subjects of interest to the mail service during the three days' of sessions.

United States District Attorney D. P. Dyer made an address of welcome and Mayor Wells extended the hospitality of St. Louis.

A. W. Wills, postmaster of Nashville, Tenn., presided over the convention.

Congressman Bartholdt of St. Louis made a short speech in which he asked the cooperation of the Treasury and Postoffice departments in working out plans for government buildings. "Ample grounds, plenty of light and good ventilation," he said were the three essentials.

Topics discussed were "Dead Letters," "Postoffice Inspection," "Improvements to Free Delivery Service" and "Supplies and Purchases."

Tonight the postmasters, in a body, attended the performance of "Ben Hur" at the Olympic theater.

Gold from San Francisco.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The United States subtreasury today received $1,848 by telegraph from San Francisco.

DR. T. Felix Gouraud's Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier.

Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Moth Patches, Rash, and Skin Diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and defies detection. It has stood the test of 57 years, and is so harmless we taste it to be sure it is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name. Dr. L. A. Sayre said to a lady of the haut ton (a patient): "As you ladies will use them, I recommend 'Gouraud's Cream' as the least harmful of all the skin preparations." For sale by all druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers in the United States, Canada and Europe.
