One of These is the Close Connection of Shaffer & Co. with the Rock Island Railroad.

"It seems probable a number of railroad elevators will be crected in Omaha in a very short time," said Secretary E. J. Mcvann of the Grain exchange Saturday on | Rock Island. J. J. Stream of Shaffer & Co. his return from Chicago, where he has en as a witness in the Peavey contract case before the Interstate Commerce comalssion. "High traffic officials of the Kansas City roads declared before the comsion that such elevators at such terninal points as Kansas City and Omaha sral managers of these companies were at a nominal rental. This explains the quoted as maying that elevators would have obligation of Shaffer & Co. to open an office to be built soon at Omaha.

"Some new facts having an important bearing on the grain situation at Omaha were disclosed at the hearing. Mr. Gower, freight traffic manager of the Rock Island, testified that in order to induce the Rosenbaum Grain company to surrender the 1% cent elevation allowance it was getting from the Rock Island at Kansas City, that road had to agree to let the Rosenbarre, company have the use of the elevator rent free. So as a matter of fact the Rock Island is paying an elevation allowance in ment to the public had been made of the Kansas City today. Mr. Gower practically admitted this before the commission when asked if free rent didn't amount to the as they saw fit.

the Pace. Frost was on the ground Friday night and the evening was comparatively warm, yet Monier Grieves of Benedict said it seemed to him like it was midwinter and the frost, he would swear, was several inches deep. He went into the police station early Saturday morning minus a hat and coat and without the suspicion of a shoe upon his feet. Grieves came to Omaha Friday afternoon, imbibing freely on the way, and was feeling pretty frisky when he arrived, so put the greater portion of his funds in the safe of a friendly saloon keeper. After that all the events of the night are a total blank, as far as Grieves' memory is concerned, and he hobbled into the station Saturday morning, stopping every few steps to warm the soles of one foot against his leg. The officers said he looked like a turkey gone to roost on the pavement. Kindly officers at the station provided for the immediate necessities toward keeping Grieves warm until he could hunt for the saloon where he had deposited his wealth.

This statement by the mayor was made in connection with a report rendered by Comptroller Lobeck, whose office force has been digging into Grier's accounts for several months. The comptroller's report covered a period between May, 1903, and June 20, 1906, and showed items representing a total alleged shortage of $3,448.34. Deputy Comptroller Cosgrove conducted the investigation, notwithstanding the city had engaged an expert accountant to audit the various departments on the recommendation of the mayor and concurrence of council.
