Interested in Dreadnay by Trial. WASHINGTON, Oct. 10,-Considerable interest has been manifested among naval officers concerning the recent trial of the British battleship Dreadnaught and official notice has been taken of the trial to the extent that the reported results have been communicated to each of the bureaus of the department by Captain Rogers, chief intelligence officer. These reports are very favorable and may have an influence upon the plans which are being made for a big battleship of equal size to be constructed by the United States.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted treely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

0 Dr. Pierce believes that our American for-ests abbend in most valuable medicinal roots for the cur- of most obstinate and fatal discases if we would properly investigate them; and is bestfreation of this conviction, he notice with pride the almost marrelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the thost efficient atomach tonic, liver invisoration heart tonic and vegulator, and blood cleaner known to medical science. Dyspepais, of indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. OMAHA GETS MOTOR SHOPS

That Omnha is to be the manufacturing point for the McKeen motor cars finally has been decided by Harriman officials, who have concluded with Mr. McKeen and Mr. Mohler that the motor cars, as now built, are successful. Car shops are now under construction in the Union Pacific shops' yards in Omaha, which, with the other nest shops being built there, will require the expenditure of over $1,100,000, and these will be used for the construction of the new

It has been semi-officially given out that an immense amount of special machinery for the construction of motor cars has been bought by the Union Pacific, which has been decided upon as the line which is to build the cars for the Harriman lines.

"It is right these cars should be built in said a prominent Union Pacific official Wednesday morning. "Mr. McKeen, who is superintendent or motive power and machinery for the Union Pacific, has developed these cars to their present stage of perfection and he is the man to build them. Although he has pronounced his latest creation as being satisfactory and the company is ready to spend vast sums in their construction, still, all know they are only in the process of development, just as the locomotive was twenty-five years ago. It would haul the cars all right, but is not to be compared with the monsters of

When there was talk of a separate company being organized for the construction asters being used. The score cards were of motor cars, there were also rumors of red horse shoes, tied with red ribbon, and Mr. McKeen leaving the Union Pacific to go with the new company. This was, of course, denied, but the decision to have that whole question at rest.

Motor car No. 8, the latest to be turned out by Mr. McKeen, except a smaller one, No. 9, is doing good service between Lin coin and Beatrice and keeps to the schedule as well as a locomotive could. The engine is 200-horse power and can develop as high as 230 and handle a trailer as well

Scarlet salvia and palms fur- year have been attended, fortunately, with opportunities for satisfactory settlements, no one can foresee the future. That negligence and incompetence pervaded every branch of the county judge's office for four years is shown on the face of the records; the future alone can measure their depth.

As to how it came about that such a man was entrusted by the voters of Pierce county with a position where it was possible to do so much mischlef, this explanation was made by a leading member of the splendid material for the uses of the tion was made by a leading member of the dramatist and actor. acquaintances than before, and it must be said a favorable acquaintance with a large number of the voters.

But by the time he had gotten into his second term the people throughout the county who had probate matters in court found that they were not receiving proper attention. Little things came up here and there that kept convincing more and more the voters that Williams was a missit in the office, though no one, not even the members of the bar, realized the deplorable condition of his office yntil after he had left it.

His Unfitness Known.

He got the renomination for a third term, however, and then the bar, regardlers of party, proceeded to go after him right. The democrats nominated Judge Kelley of Plainview, who was known by lawyers and his own friends as a lawyer of exceptional ability and of judicial temperament, but who had suffered from ill health for several years, and who had for this reason been cut off to a considerable extent from active practice, and from active association in political affairs. So he was not then the vote getter that he would be today, now that his fitness for the position has been tried and found to be first-class in every particular.

wate getter that he would be today, now that his fitness for the position has been tried and found to be first-class in every particular.

Well, there was a bitter fight, and Williams was defeated on his own impopularity. The fact that he had represented estates as attorney before himself, with all the dangerous possibilities open to such a course; the fact that he had resented any inspection of the records of his office, though supposed to be open to the public the fact that many of his records were found to be wanting; the fact that he posed as lecturer, having one faverite. "The Real Roy and His Sister." which he ran around and delivered wherever he could make any money at it while he neglected the affairs of his office; the fact that he advertised himself in the Lyceunite of Chicago as a lecturer, solociting engagements, offering himself for any and all dates, a fact which was brought home to the voters by the distribution throughout the county of 1,000 copies of the publication containing this advertisement—these and other facts that satisfied the voters that he was not the man they wanted to serve them longer, killed him.

We all supposed when he was so thoroughly defeated for county judge last year that he was down and out in this county. We never dreamed that he would have the nerve to again project himself into the political limelight. The people of Pierce were never so astonished hefore as when word came from Lincoln that the republican state convention had nominated him for railroad commissioner. Williams came back and tried to make us believe that he was surprised, too, but when we found out how he had byoken his pledge at the convention, well, we knew Williams.

And if the people of the whole state knew him as well as we do here in Pierce county there would be no doubt but that after the November election he could go back to his old job of lecturing on "The Real Boy and His Sister"—good advice to young about being noble and true and never to lie or cheat and always attend strictly to bust-

Williams came to Pierce county about seven years ago and began the practice of law at Plainview. He tried it a few months, and could not finake a go of the law, so he went to teaching school for a year or so. Then he tried to practice again, and about six months later landed the republican momination for county judge.

The incumbent at that time was Judge McDonald, an old man who had held the position practically all of the time for twelve or fourteen years. He had made a good record, but there were a lot of people who thought there ought to be a change; that he had held the office long enough. The democratis had renominated him, but on account of this feeling Williams was elected by a majority of six votes. His ability was unknown, but he talked big and put up a big bluff about his ability and honesty.

No more had he begun his dutles as county judge than the lawyers who practiced before him found that he was egotistical, impulsive and hot tempered, three qualities that absolutely unfitted him for a judicial position. But while the bar became thoroughly convinced with the sounty had not yet been convinced of these facts, so Williams was renominated. Judge McDonald insisted upon renominated Judge McDonald insisted upon renominated lions as before confronted the democrats lacked the nervet to turn him down. So the same conditions, coupied with his inattention to the dutles of his office, the people throughout the county had not yet been convinced of these facts, so Williams was renominated. Judge McDonald insisted upon renominated lions as before confronted the democrats, while Williams had the advantage of wider acquaintances than before, and it must be said a favorable acquaintance with a large number of the voters.

St. Louis.

The Omaha Theological seminary is the recipient of a bequest of $2,000 by the will of the late Dr. Meade C. Williams of St. Louis, who died recently there. Dr. Willfams was the editor of the Mid-Continent, a Presbyterian church paper. He is reputed to be quite wealthy. Fifteen years ago when the seminary was started he was elected a member of the first faculty. He declined the call, however, and went to St. Louis, where he became connected with the chuch paper. He was a director of the McCormick Theological seminary at Chicago. He was the father of Jesse Lynch Williams, well known as a magazine writer.
