Noman's Home Missionary Society of the M. E. Church Appropriates Third of a Million for Next Year's Work.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Get. M - (Special.)-The juicious manner in which Treasurer Morten sen has handled the state's trust funds has resulted in adding several thousand dollars to the temporary school fund during the three and one-half years that he has been in office. In the olden times it was customary for treasurers to keep on hand large amounts of these trust funds, using them for their own benefit instead of for the benefit of the temporary school fund, for which they were intended. Mr. Mortensen has made it a rule to keep these funds invested as closely as possible and the tem-porary fund has benefited accordingly. Below will be found a statement of the average monthly balance on hand in the state trust funds during the last four years of demo-pop rule and for the three and onehalf years of Mr. Mortensen's incumbency; also the amounts realized from interest on the same funds for the same periods: FUSION. speak the people realized that they were listening to something new in campaign oratory. He takes the audience into his confidence and tells how things are and what he proposes to do to remedy them. The pointing with pride business is all left out. He explained to the farmers that the rate on wheat from Newman Grove to Omaha, 125 miles, was 14 cents while for the same distance in lowa it was less than 9 cents, and the rate on the same wheat from Omaha to Chicago was 9% cents. It was figured out that the excess of the Nebraska rate over the Iowa rate cost the farmer six acres out of every 100. He quoted a large number of other rates to show excessive charges, including fruit and coal. While coal was cheaper in Iowa, grades were lower in Nebraska. and business was good enough to make the annual profits on the main line of the Union Pacific $15,000 a mile, but left it too poor to pay its taxes.

It was shown that the democratic plan of lowering freight rates, if they had any, was very indefinite and that a law requiring 2-cent passenger fare on all roads would be contested in the courts. The republican plan of dealing with the question through a railway commission would give the quickest relief.
