WOMEN'S CLUBS OF THE STATE

No Diminution in Interest Shown by the Meeting at Kearney.

IMPORTANT MATTERS GET ATTENTION

Meetings Will Be Held Annually as Herebefore and Some Proposed Changes in Laws Will Get United Support.

The allegation that club interest is on the decline can certainly not be made with reference to the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs. If its twelfth annual convention, held last week at Kearney, is to be accepted as indicative of the state, while not as large as the meeting last year, this was due to the location of the hostess town, which was not so accessible from all parts of the state as Lincoln, and few Nebraska club women can afford more than three or four days away from home at this time of the year, even for the federation meeting.

The final report of the credentials committee showed sixty-nine clubs represented by 134 delegates, officers and committee chairmen. Every program was replete with interest and every session largely attended. The program provided under the direction of Mrs. A. A. Scott of Lincoln was one of the strongest and best arranged that has ever been given, in that it included three speakers recognized as national authorities on subjects that are just now claiming the attention of club women and the general public.

public, besides some of the brightest women of the state, who have helped to gain for Nebraska a recognized place among the state federations.

Appropriate and Interesting.
An additional interesting feature was contributed by holding an industrial session, of which Mrs. Florence Kelley of New York, secretary of the National Consumers' League, was the principal speaker, at the State Industrial School for Boys, and the educational session at the Kearney Normal school where Miss Jane Norwood of Toledo, O., talked on "Ethical Education in the Public Schools." Enos Mills of Estes Park, Colo., was the third national speaker, and his talk on "Our Friends, the Trees" afforded one of the most profitable as well as enjoyable sessions of the convention.

One especially commendable innovation was the presentation of club reports by the district vice presidents instead of club representatives as formerly. The new plan not only saves much time, but prevents the repetition necessary where so many clubs are following the same line of study or endeavor, and that, no matter how interesting, becomes tedious. The one social function instead of an annual convention and opera house Wednesday evening, although there was no lack of opportunity for sociability before and after sessions.

Annual Convention Remains.
One of the most important matters that came before the meeting was an amendment to the constitution providing for a biennial meeting instead of an annual one, and this was defeated by a vote of 67 to 35. Just how much the annual meeting is valued by the clubs of the smaller communities was demonstrated by the large vote to retain it, in spite of the fact that the majority of the speakers during the discussion, among them some of the most prominent women of the state, argued for the biennial meeting. The large majority in the defeat of the proposed change was not only a surprise to many, but served to illustrate the independence of the smaller clubs. Much of the argument for the biennial meeting was based upon the supposition that a part of the funds now used for the annual program would be allowed the various districts for their annual meetings, although the amendment carried no such provision. The discussion plainly illustrated that the district meetings of the district organizations are still not strong enough to take the place of the annual state meeting.

State Food Control.
A number of resolutions were passed committing the federation to the support of several important matters. Among these was a pledge to petition the next state legislature for the passage of a bill that shall give the state jurisdiction over all food products. At the suggestion of the civil service committee the following resolution was passed:

"That each club appoint a visiting committee, not to exceed three members, who shall visit the various districts for their local and state charitable institutions to find wherein they may be benefited, and made in the utmost spirit of friendliness. Second, that conditions for reform come first through individual clubs.

"At the suggestion of the art committee the federation pledged itself to petition its representatives in congress to support the measure providing that works of fine art imported into this country shall be free from duty.

Changes in Children's Laws.
The industrial committee suggested two important amendments to the Nebraska educational and labor laws which are to be embodied in a bill by the committee and presented to the next legislature. The first provides that all children under 16 years of age not employed shall attend school during the full school year; also that no child under 15 shall be allowed to work who has not completed the first five grades. Another bill will provide that no boy or girl under 15 years shall work more than eight hours a day, or 48 hours a week, or after 7 o'clock p. m. in any manufacturing or commercial establishment.

The last pledge given was to the library committee to support the petition to the legislature to grant $2,000 additional to the $6,000 given two years ago for the support of the State Library Commission.

Officers Well Chosen.
In its election of new officers the federation is to be congratulated. Mrs. H. L. Keefe of West Point, the new president, is one of the best qualified women of the state to serve in the position to which she has been called. In addition to the culture, education and the experience so necessary to that position, she has rare tact and a personality that encourages the most timid woman to forget herself and give her best to the assembly. Her ability as a leader has been demonstrated during the last two years in the splendid accomplishment of the Third district, of which she has been vice president.

Mrs. A. O. Thomas of Kearney, first vice president, is another of the bright women of the state who will be a welcome addition to the executive committee.

Mrs. C. B. Letton of Lincoln was returned to the office of recording secretary and Mrs. C. C. Maryott of Pender elected corresponding secretary. Mrs. C. P. Steele of Fairbury, the new treasurer, has long had an active part in the club work of the state and Mrs. F. W. Miller of Omaha, auditor, was a valued member of the executive committee four years ago, when she served for two years as district secretary. Mrs. W. T. Page of Syracuse, for two years president of the Nebraska Federation, is the new general federation secretary and especially well fitted for the office through her former experience.
