THAT WAR ON COAL TRUST

World-Herald's Former Crusade Hushed by Adoption of Present By-Laws.
ENGLISH ALSO AGREED TO TERMS

So-called Combine Operating Since 1903 Under Constitution Approved by Hitecock Organ and Democratic County Attorney.

The alleged coal trust has been operating for three years under a constitution that bears the "O. K." of G. M. Hitecock's political organ and James P. English, at that time county attorney and brought out in the hearing before Notary Potter Tuesday morning. The information is contained in minutes of the meetings of the coal exchange, which were introduced in evidence.

Early in January, 1903, according to the minutes, there was some agitation on the part of the World-Herald and County Attorney English over the question of whether or not the exchange was operating as a trust in violation of law. To square the exchange this subcommittee to meet the county attorney and a representative of the World-Herald was appointed.

Another Change Agreed On.
Article 11 was amended under this agreement and as changed reads as follows: "No trial shall be held, nor fine nor other penalty imposed on account of cutting of prices, patronage of proscribed mines, or selling to any parties whatsoever, whether members or non-members of the exchange, but the provision shall not be construed to allow the selling to a non-member at less than retail prices."

It is to be noticed that the general provisions of article 11 are all affected by the last clause, "but this provision shall not be construed to allow the selling to a non-member at less than retail prices." As every consumer is a voter, it can easily be seen how well the public interest was protected by the World-Herald-English amendments.

How well these amendments worked is shown by the evidence of Walter Willis, who was secretary at that time. Mr. Willis was asked by County Attorney English if any fines were collected after the amendments were adopted.

Assessments, Not Fines, Now.
After the adoption of the World-Herald-English amendments they were called "assessments," not "fines," according to Mr. Willis' testimony.

Mr. Willis said on complaints of members of the exchange he investigated violations of the constitution and gave the result of his investigations to the board of directors, who fixed the penalties. The board, he said, imposed fines for soliciting, for cutting prices and for violating the rule requiring the use of only one chute to a wagon.

Another entry on the cash book showed, December 3, 1903, the Cash Hill Coal company was fined $10. Mr. Willis said this was for cutting prices below the exchange list.

Other Fines Levied.
August 12, 1904, three of the members, Howell & Co., the Omaha Coal, Hay and Building Supply company and the Coal Hill Coal company were fined $15 each.

HOW TO ARRANGE TICKET

Have to Ask Sibley and Brown to Pass on Placing of Amendment.
The fact the constitutional amendment providing for an elective railway commission has been endorsed by three political parties has brought about a complication that is having gray hairs on County Clerk Haverly's forehead every day. He has found considerable difficulty in figuring out a way to put the amendment on the voting machine so it will show the party endorsements and so a straight party vote will be counted for it.

The Burlington crop, soil and weather report for the Nebraska division for the week ending October 13 shows no rainfall, with the soil still in good condition, but in most places rain would be acceptable. Plowing is completed in all parts of the district where winter grain is sown. Wheat is getting up and looking well. Indications seem to be that acreage is slightly increased over last year.

NO RAIN BUT SOIL IS GOOD

JAIL BREAK JUST AVERTED

Prisoners Caught by Stryker as They Are Attempting to Flee.
DRIVEN BACK AT POINT OF PISTOL
Man Sentenced to Six Years Says He Will Kill Himself Before He Serves the Time.

"I will never go to prison; I will kill myself first," was the remarkable expression of Harry Monroe, a condemned prisoner, who failed to escape from the county jail the night before being sentenced for six years in the penitentiary.

That a jail delivery was just averted at the county jail Sunday night came out Tuesday morning when Harry Monroe was sentenced to the penitentiary by Judge Sutton. Monroe was the ringleader of a gang of four men who succeeded in forcing their way out of the solitary cage into the corridor. From there it would have been easy to knock a hole in the brick wall, just as the gang that escaped last winter did. It happened, however, that Deputy Sheriff Stryker was on special duty and had his eye on them. They were driven back into the cage at the point of a revolver.

The men who came so near escaping were Harry Monroe, who broke into 12; Millard Langfeldt's residence last summer; John Smith, who robbed the farm house of John Wipf in the country and shot Mr. Wipf twice before he was captured; Adolph Peterson, who had just been sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for burglary, and Charles McGrath, who is charged with holding up a South Omaha street car last spring. The jury before which he was tried disagreed and he has been in jail since awaiting a new trial.

Same as Buckley Tried From.
Owing to the crowded condition of the boundary cage four men had on which the door to the solitary cage was placed. This is the same part of the jail from which James J. Buckley and three companions escaped last February. About midnight Sunday night they wrenched a long piece of pipe from the closet in the cell and using it as a lever sprung the door to the cage back, slipping a cribbage board into the crack. The cribbage board was then forced upward until the lower part of the door was sprung back far enough to permit them to crawl through. They all got out into the corridor.

Deputy Sheriff Stryker had been placed on special duty to find out who has been smuggling "dope" into the jail and he discovered the attempt. With his revolver he forced the men to re-enter the cage. The fact the attempt was made was not given out until it was referred to when Monroe was before the court.

RUSH FOR HORSE SHOW SEATS

Requests for Tickets Are Pouring from Towns of the State.
SALE WILL BEGIN WEDNESDAY MORNING

Famous Entries Insure Best Show Yet Given—Auditorium Is Now Ready for Great Festival.

Requests from the towns of the state are pouring into the office of Secretary Moorhead of the Horse Show association for seats for the horse show, which opens next Monday night. The sale of seats begins at the Auditorium Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and requests by mail will receive attention. These and other indications point to an unprecedented attendance at the horse show, which will merit any patronage it might receive, judging from the splendid list of entries now in.

The city is alive with horse show talk and the merchant who has been slow in the decoration of his windows is noticeable for his neglect. The Omaha show will attract more people than ever from the country this year because of the better entries and also of the nice rates which have been extended by the railroads. With these people all coming to the city it is almost a necessity that the merchants prepare the city in gala dress for the occasion.

Lawrence Jones' Stables.
The presence of the excellent stables of horses belonging to Lawrence Jones at the Omaha show is a source of gratification to the directors, for Mr. Jones has one of the finest stables in the country. Mr. Jones showed part of his horses at St. Louis last week, but did not go to Kansas City for the show this week, writing that he preferred to have his horses fresh for the Omaha show, where the competition would be keener. The strife which will be on between the horses of the McCord stable and those of Mr. Jones will be worth the price alone.

Many of the local entries are taking advantage of the finished condition of the arena to work out their horses and accustom them to the circular ring, where quick turns are required. Superintendent Austin has the stalls in the basement of the Auditorium about completed and in readiness for the coming of Lawrence Jones' horses. Finding there would not be enough room in the basement for half the horses which are coming from abroad, the horse show management has been compelled to rent nearly all the available stalls in the heart of the city besides a barn complete which has recently been vacated.

Special Kansas City Train.
The special train which will leave Kansas City next Sunday morning for Omaha will carry about as fine a bunch of horse flesh as was ever got together in one train. It will consist of about fourteen cars, carrying eighty-five horses, besides all the rigs and paraphernalia of the Crow & Murray, Pepper & Co., Hall Bros., Koon Bros. and other large stables. This train will run through by express and the expense of transferring all these valuable horses from Kansas City to Omaha by express will be enormous.

The decorations at the Auditorium are about all in place and the big building will look more resplendent than ever with the extra decorations and the newly installed lighting effects.

Births and Deaths.
The following births and deaths were reported to the Board of Health during the twenty-four hours ending Tuesday noon:

SEASONABLE FASHIONS.

NO. 676-A DRESSY SHIRRED WAIST.
A little more labor expended upon a waist for nice occasions is never wasted, for the pleasure in wearing a really beautiful garment is recompense enough. A strikingly pretty waist, seen recently at a fashionable gathering, is sketched for the benefit of the lover of beautiful clothes. The fabric of which it was made was silk voile, beautifully finished with threads of silk in another color. The shoulder edges and sleeves were gathered and shirred in such a manner as to not only bring out the charms of the material, but those of the wearer also. A pointed tucker of lace gave the daintiest of finishes next the face, while a note of contrast was touched by the trimming bands of darker velvet. The waist is one which might be fashioned by the amateur sewer at home and for that purpose is reproduced here. The sleeves of the pattern may be long if preferred. For the medium size 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material are needed, the waist being adaptable to silk, cashmere, veiling or chiffon.
Size—32 to 42 inches, bust measure.

For the accommodation of The Omaha Bee readers those patterns, which usually retail at from $5 to $9 cents, will be furnished at a nominal price (10 cents), which covers all expenses. In order to get a pattern enclose 10 cents, giving number and name of pattern wanted and bust measure. As the patterns are mailed direct from the publishers in New York, it will require about a week's time to fill the order. Address: Pattern Department, The Omaha Bee, Omaha, Neb.
