WHEAT OUT OF TOWN.
Subscribers leaving the city temporarily should have The Bee mailed to them. Address will be changed as often as requested.

The political tremors at San Francisco promise to be as exciting, if not as damaging, as the earthquake.

Now that those Ute Indians are in humor to talk, they will probably find United States army officers in humor to act.

Ohio ice trust managers who are making a hard fight for liberty probably want to see another crop harvested before becoming wards of the state.

The attack of Raisoul on insurgent tribesmen of Morocco tends to show that the captor of Perdicaris wants no rivals, and for once at least he has the approval of civilization.

Boss Croker's defense of Tammany hall came only after he had settled his suit for damages in Dublin. The settlement might have been more difficult had he spoken sooner.

Candidates for the legislature so eager to be elected that they will "die up" with railroad tax shirkers should expect no votes from those who are paying the taxes the railroads evade.

New York clearing house banks again show less cash on hand than the law requires, proving that unless the law be changed, leading financiers will be technical lawbreakers much of the time.

Germany's friendship for America will have a cloud on it as long as it prefers to compel its subjects to eat horse and dogs rather than permit them to buy wholesome meat from the United States.

The public will at least feel kindly toward the duke and duchess of Marlborough, who have set the Castellanes an example in the matter of arranging family affairs without taking the world into their confidence.

Russian's expectation of a celebration of the anniversary of the constitution will appear strange in foreign eyes, as a day of mourning for bereaved homes would seem more in keeping with the facts.

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Lane evidently desires honest replies to questions, preferring refusal to evasion, but as long as a grand jury stands ready to read the testimony he may find difficulty in securing facts.

Japan is trying to make a treaty with Russia in accordance with the terms of the agreement at Portsmouth. In time it may learn that the way to get that promise fulfilled was when the Muscovite was still in the trap.

The objection to adult coaches for boy foot ball players is the severest commentary which could be made upon the character of the men in that position; but perhaps those who condemn want to be heard at any price.

In every campaign speech he is making the treacherous Williams is said to be trying to explain his perjury, but relates a different story every time he tells it. It takes a man with a trained memory to be a successful liar.

Experts who have studied trade conditions during the last week have failed to find evidence of cessation of business pending the election, showing that the idea of "let well enough alone" has impressed itself pretty thoroughly upon the average citizen.

draft of an extreme character in either direction.
If the railroad cappers and paid lobbyists who forced the nomination of Shallenberger for governor over Berge in the last democratic state convention could explain their action by saying that it was not that they loved Shallenberger more, but that they hated Berge more, the democrats might insist they were not to blame.

THE DIVORCE CONGRESS BILL.
The bill drafted by the so-called divorce congress, whose members were appointed by President Roosevelt nearly a year ago, will be disappointing to many who are zealous for divorce law reform because of some of the causes recognized as grounds either for divorce or for legal separation, but it may prove more rather than less valuable on that account.

But when the chairman of the democratic state committee begins already to pull railroad chestnuts out of the fire by enlisting all the democratic legislative nominees with the railroads to fight against equitable taxation of railroad property, the cloven hoof is clearly shown and conclusive proof is furnished that the arrangement between the democrats and the railroads are reciprocal.

The railroads are, by agreement, to help the democratic candidates and the democrats are to help the railroads. The railroads can afford to put all that is necessary into the democratic campaign if the democrats grant them immunity from municipal taxation, which means a tax burden of from $250,000 to $300,000 a year shifted from the railroads, where it belongs, to property owners in all our Nebraska cities and towns.

THE SAN FRANCISCO CRISIS.
A lawless situation in San Francisco has reached a climax, rivaling in disgrace and peril to the city that which produced the extra legal but effective vigilance committee half a century ago. There was a natural explanation, both for the riot of crime and the high handed and irregular proceedings by which it was ended, because San Francisco, then isolated from civilized connections and only a straggling camp recruited largely from the world's adventurers, had not yet become a normal and stable community.

of the continued progress of the independent telephone movement. The opening of Omaha by the voting of a second telephone franchise would furnish a needed link of the transcontinental trunk lines which are slowly but surely pushing themselves from ocean to ocean and which will eventually enable people to talk to one another from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

INTERNATIONAL OBLIGATIONS.
The peril of disturbance of good relations between the United States and Japan because of discriminations against Japanese under the California school and labor laws emphasizes once more the anomalous situation of our government in its foreign relations.

TELEPHONE FRUS AND CONS.
The people of Omaha will vote at the coming election on a franchise proposition that will determine whether this city shall have a second telephone system or continue with a single telephone system as at present. That there are advantages and disadvantages of dual telephones goes without saying, so it remains for those who are to pass on this question to judge whether the advantages or the disadvantages weigh most.

Shadowy Precedent Shattered.
The notion that it is unconstitutional for the president to leave the country rests on a tradition that has no solid foundation, and Mr. Roosevelt's comit trip to Panama was so apt to crack it just mending. He will remain under the American flag and technically within the jurisdiction during his trip and during most of his stay on the isthmus.

PROHIBITING REMARRIAGE.
Good Points of a Rule Adopted by a New York Court.
One of the New York courts has established a new rule in divorce proceedings. It requires that a divorced person shall not marry the co-respondent named in the case during the lifetime of the former husband or wife.

Carelessness in Buying.
Philadelphia Press.
When American girls buy dukes and other things it might be a good idea to pay the cash down with the understanding that all payments end there. With the money part of the transaction left open there is generally trouble, and the installment plan is not a success.

"Write for Circulars."
Washington Post.
James J. Hill warns Americans that in a few years there will not be farms enough to supply the demand. By sending your address to Mr. Hill's office you can get a neat folder describing the attractiveness of the farm lands that are for sale along the lines of his railroads.

Admission for Footballers.
Chicago Chronicle.
"We should be reverently thankful for what we have received," says the president in his Thanksgiving proclamation, "and earnestly bent upon not turning it into a means of destruction." This seems to have an admonitory flavor addressed to the Thanksgiving day footballers, who certainly go forth bent upon destruction.
