is 6 years of age. He is the only one who witnessed the plunge of the train from a close point of vantage. The scenes which followed caused him to lose his reason and when he was found three hours afterward he could not tell a rational story.

Coaches All Full.

From the officials of the railroad company only a meager and disconnected story of the occurrence could be made. The train, which is made up of three heavy vestibule coaches of the newest type, all electrically equipped, left Camden at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Walter Scott was the motorman on the forward car, John L. Currie of Camden was the conductor in charge and Ralph Wood was the brakeman. When the train pulled out of Camden the coaches were comfortably filled, women and children being in the majority. They occupied the two forward coaches. Fifteen members of Osco's Artillery band were in the rear coach.

At Newfield Junction, a few miles from here, about twenty passengers were taken aboard, making the total number on the train a few less than 100. The conductor does not appear to be certain as to the exact number. He had eighty-eight tickets in his possession when he was brought to this city, but he thinks several tickets were lost, and it is his opinion there were from 110 to 115 passengers on the train. This, however, seems to be high an estimate.

Track is Clear.

On leaving Westville, the third rail electric car was applied and the train from there on bowed along at its customary speed. Not the slightest incident occurred to cause the motorman to slow down. When the draw bridge, which crossed the stream popularly known as the "Thoroughfare," was approached the motorman saw a clear track before him.

All at once the forward coach lurched, the ponderous wheels leaped the rails and came down upon the ties. Swerving to the left, the first coach dragged the others along and plunged over the edge into the water. The third coach, however, struck a heavy abutment and was left momentarily suspended in midair. Not a single passenger in this car was killed, neither did one of them get away unscathed. It is doubtful if more than half a dozen persons escaped from these two coaches.

Man Rescues Little Girl.

One instance of a heroic and almost miraculous escape from the first coach is the case of David S. Enley of Camden. Enley reached Atlantic City suffering from bruise about the face and body, carrying in his arms a small child, the little girl, Gilbert, also of Camden. At the first indication of danger Enley leaped to the platform, taking the child with him. As the coach plunged downward he sprang into the water and succeeded in swimming ashore with the little one.

The cries of the imprisoned passengers as the coaches plunged into the water did not last long and when the tops of the two cars disappeared not a sound was heard from those who were being smothered by the billows.

The living defied their time to the rescue of those who were imperiled in the last coach. Most of the passengers in this coach were able to help themselves and with the arrival of assistance from the city they were removed to hospitals.

Recovery of the Dead.

After the injured had been removed and cared for the rescuers turned their attention to the dead and before midnight fourteen bodies had been taken out of the water. The first five bodies were placed on a special car and conveyed to the passenger station in this city. Here a crowd of several thousand persons collected, and as soon as it became known that some of the dead had been brought there, there was a frantic rush to view them. With difficulty the police held the crowd back and the bodies were taken to a nearby house and as soon as identified were turned over to the undertakers. The unidentified were turned over to the morgue.

When it became evident the bodies could not be reached by the use of grappling irons divers were taken to the water and the work of removing the dead was renewed. A derrick and an elevating engine were also brought into service and late tonight efforts are being made to raise the submerged cars' bodies.

comes on November 6, to express their choice for members of the national house of representatives. Three states have already chosen their representatives for the sixtieth congress—Oregon, Vermont and Maine—and in these states the republican candidates have been elected. With these states out of the running, there are still 278 congressional districts in which the voters have a right to express their preference for the congressional nominees.

GRANDPA'S BOY

11 Year Old Boy Writes Letter for Him.

"I am a boy 11 years old in the Fifth Grade in Grand Rapids, Mich. and my grandfather wants me to write you what Grandpa-Nut has done for him," says a Calif. boy.

"For more than fifty years he was troubled with a kind of nervous chill which would attack him in the night, especially when he was very tired, and no cure could be found for it."

"Also, for about ten years he was troubled with indigestion which caused heartburn and he could only eat a little bread and milk for supper, and even that careful diet did not always prevent it."

"After eating Grape-Nuts for a little while, the attacks of heartburn and indigestion disappeared altogether."

"Today at the age of 78 he is hale and hearty, and is entirely cured of all his old troubles. I can never thank you enough for what Grandpa-Nut has done for my grandfather."

"There's a reason."

eratic congressional committee, the republicans having elected to put their headquarters in New York, with a branch headquarters in Chicago. From a democratic viewpoint, as outlined by Judge Griggs of Georgia, chairman of the congressional committee, the fight is almost won for the democrats and he sees a democratic majority in the lower house of the sixtieth congress. Chairman Sherman, Vice Chairman Tawney and the wheel horse of the republican party, Charles H. Grosvenor, do not concede the claims of Mr. Griggs, but on the contrary are conservatively looking to litigious republicans in the sixtieth congress. The republicans have in the present Fifty-ninth congress 114 majority. They are prepared to lose approximately twenty districts, which would mean a change of forty. The democrats, to carry the house, must gain fifty-eight districts, and this gain they expect to make in Missouri, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Local Issues Involved.

There is no denying the fact that in New York and Pennsylvania local conditions are such a character that it is impossible to see the national party lines completely broken in those two states and the leaders of both parties have found it impossible to make a fair and honest canvass of the situation. The farmers of Pennsylvania are learning why they are not the best of friends to the republican party. They have learned that the building cost $4,000,000 in round numbers, and that the interior furnishings cost $5,000,000 and in consequence the yeomanry of the Keystone state are up in arms against the candidates for anyone who has the brand of "regular republican" on his back. In New York state William Randolph Hearst, the Independence league candidate and endorsed by the democrats, is creating a new party, the Progressive Party, by voting strength which heretofore has been aligned with one or the other of the political parties. To such an extent is Hearst breaking into the old parties that the number of his votes cannot be approximately ascertained. One thing is certain, Hearst has got the republicans scared in New York state and between now and election day you may expect to see a campaign rivaling the days when Tilden and Hayes were the candidates of their respective parties for president in the Empire state.

Issues Well Defined.

The issues are well defined and the republicans and thousands of democrats will make every effort to eliminate the young man who believed he was presidential timber before he has had the public voice of any kind. The Hearst influence in New York will necessarily dominate the congressional situation in Greater New York and in that particular there may be several seats lost in New York City to the republicans. Planning the list of nominations made by the two parties for congress it is seen that there is likely to be chosen an unusually large proportion of new representatives in the sixtieth congress. Even if all the incumbents who have been nominated are re-elected there will be sixty new members, all of whom have been nominated in the place of present members or of those who have died since the last congress.

Terminial Taxation.

There is no use to discuss the reports put in circulation by the fiscalists that the republicans intend to take from the people of the western part of the state any part of the tax now derived from railroads and terminals, it is a well established fact that the discussion as to whether or not terminals are distributed over the lines of roads is also immaterial. The plank in the republican state platform contemplates no change in the present method of taxing terminals for state, county and school district purposes. The platform endorses that method, but merely asks for an additional tax on terminals for city and village purposes. The attempt of the fiscalists to deceive the people surely cannot be successful when the plank in the platform is so explicit.

The Following is the platform plank referred to:

"While we believe that the present method of assessing railroad property in cities and villages, and distributing taxes therefrom through the various counties is just and so far as it pertains to county, state and school tax, we demand that the railroad property within cities and villages shall also be assessed and taxed the same as other property for village and city purposes."

Why He is Supporting Sheldon.

In a letter to a friend, D. J. Foynter, a well known populist, writes:

By reason of the many changes in the personnel of the sixtieth congress, assuming that the republicans will control, there will be an exceedingly large number of important committee places to be filled. Grosvenor, as one of the mighty committee men, will be out, leaving a vacancy in that body, which is really in charge of legislation. He will also leave a vacancy on the committee of ways and means and the chairmanship of the committee of merchant marine and fisheries, from which will come legislation looking to the rehabilitation of our merchant marine. Bankhead is the senior democrat on both river and harbors and public buildings and grounds. Bettler of Ohio, who has been defeated for renomination, will leave a vacancy in the committee on the District of Columbia; Towner, once a republican from Minnesota, now a democrat from New York, who has not been renominated by Tammany, and who, if nominated, would have been fought by Hearst, leaves for sign affairs; Hearst quits the committee on rivers, lakes and harbors, and the man who made the glory for the army, leaves appropriations; Joseph C. Sibley, one of the picturesque characters of the house, who has been in all parties, serving in the house as both democrat and republican, quits his seat from Pennsylvania for the quietude of a millionaire's life, spending his summers on his yacht in the northern lakes and his winters along the Florida coast. He leaves a vacancy in the chairmanship of the committee on manufactures, while Dovern of West Virginia, who failed of renomination, will make a vacancy on rivers and harbors.

These are some of the changes which the sixtieth congress will bring about. Some there who retire from public life voluntarily, but the majority of the changes in the personnel of the sixtieth congress have been brought about by an elective which cannot be gauged and whose will is law.

Verona Brown to Speak at Utica.

UTICA, Neb., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—Verona Brown, republican candidate for United States senator, will address the voters of Utica next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. C. H. Aldrich, candidate for state senator, will also be present to deliver an address. A small crowd greeted W. H. Thompson, fusion candidate for United States senator, here last night. His talk was mostly against the republican party for not supporting the Newberry rate bill. He also charged that the republican party has not kept the promises made in its platform.

NEW CITY HALL FOR LINCOLN

Council Buys Old Postoffice from the Federal Government.

TRANSFER TO BE MADE TONIGHT

City to Pay $250,000 for Building and Lot, Which Are to Be Used Exclusively for Municipal Purposes.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—The city of Lincoln will come into possession of a city hall during the week, the property to be transferred to the city by the federal government at 6 o'clock. For many years the city has managed to get along with a two-story brick structure, which contains small offices for the city officials, one fire station, and a small and poorly kept city jail. The present city hall is also in the little building. The old postoffice, which will become the property of Lincoln, is a well built four-story stone structure. For this building and a small plot of ground surrounding it, on the south side of Government square, $250,000 is to be paid. When Senator Burkett secured an appropriation for a $200,000 postoffice congress was asked to pass an act giving the city of Lincoln the right to buy the old postoffice for $200,000, the property to be used exclusively for city purposes and to revert to the government whenever it shall cease to be used for such purposes. The new building was completed and is now occupied. The city has the cash to pay for the old building and the transfer will probably be made Monday night at the council meeting. The deed will be executed by Custodian L. L. Lindsey without delay and the money will be sent to St. Louis to be deposited to the credit of the government. As the building is to be used exclusively for city purposes, the council hesitates to comply with the request of the Grand Army and other organizations for rooms in the hall. Several organizations, including the school board, have asked for quarters.

Traction Ordinance to Come Up.

At the meeting of the council Monday night a lively time was looked for over the proposed agreement to be entered into between the city and the Lincoln Traction company, which has been pigeonholed for several months. The council passed an ordinance requiring the company to sell six tickets for 25 cents, but it was not enforced pending a proposition of the company to pay to the city 5 per cent of its gross income for a certain number of years and thereafter an increased percentage of the receipts.

Kansas Farmer Paid Money.

Mr. Richard Richards, recently arrested for keeping a disorderly house at the corner of Tenth and P streets, is charged with having induced Simon Bauman, a farmer of Bern, Kan., to send her $1,000 to be used by her as agent for the purchase of the building in which she lives. Bauman reached Lincoln before the draft was received in the postoffice and when he asked Mrs. Richards to go with him and see the money and give it back to him, she is said to have sent her maid to tell him that she had no money. Mr. Bryan will make a whirlwind campaign through Nebraska, visiting a large part of it, and making speeches at forty or fifty points. His first one will be at Plattsmouth on the night of November 5. Preparations are being made for a great reception to Mr. Bryan at Lincoln, where he speaks next Saturday evening.

EXCELLENT RECORD AS A DIPLOMAT

Members of Race Are in Senate and House, and President's Appointment Evokes Favorable Comment.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(Special.)—The official announcement of the coming changes in the cabinet has created a greater sensation in political circles than any similar publication has made in many years. It is not only a surprise to the public, but also to the members of the cabinet, and it is a former democrat that the comment is widespread, but he is the first man of the Jewish faith to have been chosen a member of the president's official family since the foundation of the government. During the days of the confederacy Jefferson Davis' chief adviser was Judah P. Benjamin, a Jew.

And yet the American Jew has been an important factor in American politics since the inception of the movement which led to the adoption of the Constitution. It was the influence of the Jew in the early days of the nation which caused the framing of that document in such phraseology as to assure absolute religious liberty in the new republic; and it was the Jew who was instrumental in preventing a declaration of the effect that this is a "Christian nation" in the American "tree of rights."

During the second war with Great Britain it was a Jew, Mordecai Noah, who held South Carolina in line and thereby made the war possible, and it was the same Jew, Noah, who turned his private fortune over to the government to aid in the conduct of that war. And it is the same Jew of the republic that Noah was vilified and ostracized by his fellow-countrymen, abandoned by his government and that neither he nor his descendants were paid back the money which he advanced.

Other Jews in Public Life.

The bigotry in religious matters which existed 150 years ago has gradually evaporated. Today the presence of a Jew in the halls of congress excites no comment. There have been members of the faith in both houses for many years. In the senate today is Isador Raynor of Maryland, while in the house are Adolph Meyer of Louisiana, Lucian L. L'Amour of New York, Benjamin G. Goldfogle of New York, and several others.

In England, Disraeli was the first Jew to be admitted to a seat in Parliament, and he, as is well known, reached the highest pinnacle, politically, to which a commoner has ever attained. In this country the Jews have held important diplomatic positions, and in the unofficial councils of state they have been potent factors. But, as Mark Twain has pointed out, it is principally in the line of commerce and finance that the Hebrews have been prominent. It must not be forgotten, however, that professors of the faith have done great work in both the army and navy branches of our military service.

Marine Corps to the Front.

Strenuous efforts are to be made from this time forth to increase the marine corps. This branch of the service has been the Spanish war, received the recognition which was never before accorded to it. It is not forgotten that it was the corps which first landed at Guantanamo, on the south coast of the island of Cuba, and that it was the men with the fed uniforms who first saw the light of day in the Spanish war. The American fighting men are made of twenty years ago there was serious talk of abolishing the corps entirely. The marines were regarded as the police force of the navy, and their duties were supposed to consist principally in maintaining order and discipline among drunken sailors. But along in the '90s, when there was threatened trouble on the isthmus of Panama, it was Colonel Heywood and his marines who landed and maintained order. It was the marines who, after the surrender of the island of Guam, after the surrender of that far-off oasis in the desert of the Pacific by the Spaniards. It was the marine corps which was first to land in China during the boxer outbreak, and in every year since that time the marines have been engaged since the close of hostilities in 1898 the marines have been in the forefront.

Belmont Defeat Imperials.

The Belmont Pleasure club again defeated the Imperials of Council Bluffs Saturday night. The Imperials showed several new moves and their defense seemed to be greatly improved, but on the offensive they were powerless to gain either through the line or around it. The Imperials had the advantage of a heavy wind, and although they kicked back to the center of the field, in the second half the Belmonts started with the wind in their favor and worked the ball to middle field, then Hamilton drove a magnificent punt clear over the backs, which Jenkins captured and punned into touchdown. GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Oct. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—The Hastings Presbyterian team was defeated here Saturday by the Grand Island Business college team by the score of 14 to 6. The game was evenly matched in weight, but Grand Island proved a trifle too speedy for their opponents in the line. The Hastings handled their ball with a deft touch, but the Grand Island team was far superior to that of the much heralded Hastings team. The Hastings ended the contest on getting down the field and under punts often tacking the Hastings punner for a loss and three times recovering the ball for Grand Island. Grand Island Defeats Hastings.

Business College Foot Ball Team Wins Fast Contest from Presbyterians.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Oct. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—The Hastings Presbyterian team was defeated here Saturday by the Grand Island Business college team by the score of 14 to 6. The game was evenly matched in weight, but Grand Island proved a trifle too speedy for their opponents in the line. The Hastings handled their ball with a deft touch, but the Grand Island team was far superior to that of the much heralded Hastings team. The Hastings ended the contest on getting down the field and under punts often tacking the Hastings punner for a loss and three times recovering the ball for Grand Island. Priest and Weatherman were the mainstays of the Hastings team, then Hastings back field men.

Increase in Second Class Rates.

It is expected that the commission, for some time past has been investigating the subject of second class postal rates, will make recommendations for drastic changes. It is a common belief that the annual deficit in the revenues of the department are due in great measure to the fact that hundreds of tons of illegitimate mailer is carried at the rate of 1 cent per pound to all sections of the country. Legitimate publications have suffered in consequence of the enormous growth of "fakes." Tons of publications are turned out every week and carried by the million by Uncle Sam in his mail cars at great cost to the revenue and for the sole benefit of some manufacturer of stilted newspapers or some equally patriotic sealer after the almighty dollar. Within the last year hundreds of publishers have, on the other hand, been refused the right to register their publications as "Entered in the post-office" and hence entitled to postage at the reduced rate. It is a common belief that the commission will recommend an increase in the postage rate for second class matter, and that the commission will also recommend a more liberal policy in the matter of admitting to the mails publications which it has reason to regard either as legitimate or as purely advertising publications.

Various publishing houses throughout the country are greatly agitated over the prospect, and there will doubtless be a formidable lobby in Washington next winter to fight against any change inimical to the interest of the semi-private publications.

Belmont Defeat Imperials.

The Belmont Pleasure club again defeated the Imperials of Council Bluffs Saturday night. The Imperials showed several new moves and their defense seemed to be greatly improved, but on the offensive they were powerless to gain either through the line or around it. The Imperials had the advantage of a heavy wind, and although they kicked back to the center of the field, in the second half the Belmonts started with the wind in their favor and worked the ball to middle field, then Hamilton drove a magnificent punt clear over the backs, which Jenkins captured and punned into touchdown. Lone, Beck charges by Jenkins and Dougherty furnished the features. Line-up:
