STURGIS, S. D., Oct. 39 .- (Special Telegram) .- Two Indians, supposed to be Ute chiefs or Sloux, were here last night at 6:15. They stopped a citizen and asked, "How far is Fort Meade?" "How big a town is Sturgis" "Have troops left Fort Meade?"

After being answered they left in a westerly direction afoot. They are thought to have had horses hid in the brush. Both Indians had numerous budges.

The authorities of the city were notified of their appearance and word was immediately sent to Fort Meade. Considerable excitement prevails. The Indians are supposed to belong to the Utes in Wyom-រពណៈ

Their appearance aroused people so that extra police and mounted men were mustering in town during the night, fearing a raid on the flour mills or stores for provisions. All guns in the city were ready for action, including those of the militia Everything seems quiet this morning. Arrangements were made to turn in a general fire alarm last night should anything happen. All necessary precauti are being taken by the authorities at Fort Meade.
