What Terminal Taxation Means--What it Does Not Mean.

Lincoln Evening News. Chairman Allen of the democratic state committee has found one convert to his anti-terminal taxation propaganda. It is the Beatrice Sun. Dan Cook's friendly newspaper. It says: "About the most foolish fight that the Omaha Bee has ever made is the one that it is now making to convince the state that the present condition of affairs should be changed by the terminal taxation, including the railroad depots, which are worth millions of dollars, should be assessed as a part of Omaha, instead of being rated along the line as at present. Whatever one may think of this as a matter of equity, it would certainly be beneficial for the rural counties to let go any part of the taxes that they get from the railroads in order to enrich the cities of Omaha and Lincoln. The Bee will probably make votes for its legal legislative ticket, but it will gain nothing in the rural counties. The Sun editor certainly cannot be ignorant of what terminal taxation means, yet the above is strong proof, or else he is deliberately misrepresenting the question. It is quite likely, however, that he himself does not understand it. The terminal taxation movement does not comprehend the assessment of the Omaha terminals as a part of Omaha instead of being rated along the line as at present. Neither are the rural counties under a tax of 10c per mile of the taxes that they get from the railroads in order to enrich the cities of Omaha and Lincoln. Here is exactly what terminal taxation is: That the present law shall be amended so that when the authorities of every village, town and city in Nebraska make up their municipal tax rolls they shall assess whatever property a railroad has within its borders at its actual value. This is all. No change in the present method of assessing property for state, county and district purposes is contemplated. The railroads are assessed now for municipal taxes in every city, town and village, but they are enabled, by reason of the law as it is now, to evade a large part of their just share. The present law provides that the state board shall jump all tangible property, add to this the tangible value, and divide the total by the number of miles of road in the state. The quotient represents the value per mile of the roads, and all that is necessary then to find out the taxable valuation for each taxing district is to multiply that quotient by the number of miles of road there. When the city, town or village wants to tax the railroad property inside its borders it is not permitted to appraise its value, but must accept the figure of the state board. To make this clearer, suppose the value of the Burlington railroad property in Lincoln is $2,000,000. It has 2,000 miles of road in the state. Each one of these 2,000 miles gets $1,000 of taxable value from the terminals. Each school district in the state has that sum added for each mile in its tax roll. If the terminal taxation idea prevails that system will not be changed. The Burlington has about sixty miles of main and sidetracks in the city limits of Lincoln. It actually pays city taxes upon 60 miles of track. It pays state, county and school taxes on all of the track.

no firmer supporter than Mr. Metcalf, then editor of the World-Herald. W. L. Green, then congressman from the Sixth Nebraska district in Omaha on the 11th of March, 1890. The records of the sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives show that the Green held a seat in the house from March 4, 1889, to March 3, 1891. Later congress when in session, following the usual custom, voted to the Green family the remainder of the $5,000 for the balance of the term. The same records show that in December Mr. Neville drew from the disbursing officer of the house the sum of $2,500.00, covering the salary from March 1, to December 1, 1890, although Mr. Neville was not elected until November, 1890. In accepting that money Mr. Neville followed the custom and the law, even though he was known as a reformer. His case is not exactly on all fours with that of Mr. Williams because he took the money at the same time that congress paid a similar salary to the widow of the dead member, the government thus paying a second time. Otherwise it is the same. Little is known as to Mr. Williams. Nothing of importance was brought out in the alleged Lumber trust hearing today, the entire time being taken up with the reading of letters found in the correspondence of Secretary Critchfield and the members of the Lumber Dealers' association. These were introduced by Judge Sinclair for the state, who sorted them out from 1,500 or more which have been brought into court. The letters introduced showed a number of complaints were made by members of the association, because some wholesale houses had sold direct to a consumer instead of through the retail dealer. Other letters referred to the rating of firms and others regarding the grade of lumber sent out by the wholesale dealers. In one instance letters showed the secretary had sent out an agent to see about the grade of lumber. None of the letters referred to the fixing of prices to be paid or charged for lumber. Judge Sinclair is now merely laying the foundation of his case and expects later to have witnesses here from out in the state to testify. On the other hand the lawyers for the lumber dealers say the only evidence the state will be able to produce is that the state association has tried to prevent the wholesale houses from selling direct to the consumer, but to sell to the retail dealer. This they claim is not contrary to law. Lumber Dealers' Library Commission. At the regular quarterly meeting of the Nebraska State Library commission Chancellor Andrews resigned as president and F. L. Haller of Omaha was elected to fill the vacancy. The commission accepted the resignation of the chancellor with reluctance, but he declared he wanted to devote most of his time during the session of the legislature to the interests of the State university. Mr. Haller was president of the commission prior to the term of Chancellor Andrews. The commission will ask for an appropriation of $10,000 for the work during the next biennium. That for the present biennium was $6,000. The report of the secretary of the commission, Miss Charles Teagarden, shows the work in the state to be in excellent condition. At present the commission has ninety-four traveling libraries and twelve special school libraries in Nebraska. Two Fires During Evening. Fire tonight destroyed eight cars of coal in the cars at the Burlington round house. The fire is supposed to have originated from sparks from a switch engine. An hour later at 7 o'clock slight damage was done to the residence of Dr. Finney on N street near Thirtieth. Cookran to Address Students. The University of Nebraska authorities today received the acceptance of Representative W. Bourke Cookran of New York to be the class day orator at the next university commencement. Engler Goes to Illinois. A requisition from Governor Densen of Illinois for Adolph Engler was honored by Governor Miley today. Engler is the man taken from a Rock Island train at Fairbury, Neb., a week ago on the theory that he was Leonard Leopold, the murder suspect. He was able to prove his identity, but is wanted in Chicago for another alleged crime. BRYAN PLACARDS ARE REFUSED Fusion Candidate Refuses to Pay Express on Them. NORFOLK, Neb., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—One of the amusing incidents in connection with Bryan's three days' whirlwind campaign through northern Nebraska was that at Norfolk, the most important battleground on his route, advertising matter sent to a local fusion candidate for the state legislature, intended to have been distributed for the purpose of swelling the Bryan crowd, was refused by the local politician because there was an express charge on the bundle of 50 cents. The package contained a thousand or so small placards announcing the Bryan meeting in Norfolk. They were delivered to the address, Herman E. Zitkowski, fusion candidate for representative from Madison county, but he refused to pay the charges and the package was returned to the express office, where it still lies dead. Mr. Zitkowski was on the stage while Bryan spoke. Laborer Fatally Hurt. LABORERS DECLINE TO MOVE

Demand Their Home and Transportation from House of Railroad Officials. HUMBOLDT, Neb., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—The railroad yards in this city were the scene of unusual excitement last evening and for a time it was feared that bloodshed would result from a strained situation over the proposed move of the yards to Dakota City to continue work on the tracks of the road. The laborers have been engaged in raising the tracks here for several weeks and have had some trouble about overtime, a number of them having been discharged last week for refusing to work after certain overtime allowance had been withheld. Since Sunday the yard has been in a sullen mood and yesterday when orders came to move them north they openly rebelled, positively refusing to go any farther north on account of the cold weather, and asking for their time checks. These the company made no haste to issue and went along with preparations to move the cars which were occupied by the laborers for living purposes. The climax came last evening when the crew and special engine sent down from Wyoming found the switch split and a sullen gang of thirty Italians standing guard with revolvers and knives in profusion. The maddest workmen gave it out in broken English that they would shoot the first person who attempted to draw the spikes or remove their cars until a satisfactory settlement was made, and they were furnished transportation back to Chicago, as they alleged was agreed upon when they began their work last spring. Superintendent Rogers of Wyoming, who evidently did not understand the danger of the situation, gave orders that the cars be taken, leaving the gang here, but this they refused to permit, and when it was urged that the local authorities be called upon to aid the section gang and agent in the task few were found who cared to assume the responsibility of meeting a crowd of that kind in the dark. Finally, upon advice of the foreman, J. L. Harris, who speaks the Italian language and has been with crews of this kind for years, the men were permitted to remain in their cars over night and the crew sent back empty-handed. This morning the trouble was renewed and various plans were proposed, but all to no purpose, the gang standing in its position. Finally orders were issued to bring the men and cars to Wyoming, where time checks would be issued and the matter settled. This proposition met with favor at the hands of the Italians and passenger train No. 10 picked them up at noon today and transferred the scene of arbitration to division headquarters in Wyoming.

and work will commence on the power plant in a short time. It is contemplated to have the plant in running order by the first of the year. WEST POINT—Corn husking is now actively in progress throughout this section and the yield is considerably over the average, both in quality and quantity. Great difficulty is being experienced by the farmers in getting help enough to move the crop. All the available men are being taken out of the towns and yet the supply is far short of the demand. Should the weather improve between now and Christmas much corn will be left in the fields still rotting. SUTHERLAND—The local Lutheran organization will endeavor to build a church here at a cost of approximately $2,000. For some time the project has been under consideration, and recently a large necessary amount by the subscription of stock among the members of the church. If the Lutherans are successful in their efforts it will give Sutherland the third church, as there are now two buildings here.
