SOLDIER AND BRIDE IN WAR

Courageous and Unique Experience of Ohio Woman in the Rebellion.

RECEIVED AN HONORABLE DISCHARGE

Entered Service as a Man and Fought Side by Side with Her Husband in Many Fierce Contests.

Mrs. Martha Lindley of Northfield, O., a little town near Akron, served through the civil war as a member of an Ohio cavalry troop with her husband, and the hundreds of comrades with whom she was daily thrown into contact never knew that the blue-eyed, fair-haired chap, whom everybody liked so well, was not a handsome boy, but a brave and determined woman who loved her husband so well that she refused to be separated from him.

When the war broke out Mrs. Lindley was a bride of a few months, and lived with her husband in their newly-furnished home in the northern end of Summit county. Lincoln's first call for troops caused her husband to enlist, and she watched him march away with a sad heart. A few weeks later she disappeared from home and friends, and was seen by them no more until the end of the war. Putting on a suit of her husband's clothes, she went to an adjoining county where a recruiting officer was at work and enlisted, stipulating that she should be assigned to the cavalry troop to which her husband belonged. This was agreed to, and young Trooper Smith, fitted out with uniform and arms, was sent to Virginia, where the troop was located.

Secrecy and Chums.

She swore her husband to secrecy, and throughout the long struggle they appeared to their comrades as chums, the husband shielding his youthful-looking comrade whenever possible. A born horsewoman, Miss Lindley soon became one of the most dashing members of the troop, and engaged in many a dare-devil escapade with her comrades. She was a good soldier, too, and never shirked any of the unpleasant duties of the men at the front. She took part in a number of the heaviest engagements during the three years' service, and escaped without a scratch or a moment's sickness.

"I was frightened half to death," said Mrs. Lindley in recounting her experiences, "but I was so anxious to be with my husband that I resolved to see the thing through if it killed me. I had little hope that I would be able to carry out my masquerading during the war, although at that time we imagined we would whip the "rebs" in a few days. However, I determined to go, and if I was discovered, I knew I could get a place as nurse, and I would have been willing to have been a camp cook in order to be near my husband. I was sent to Cincinnati in company with a number of enlisted men, and from there we crossed to the Kentucky side of the river and went on into Virginia, where my husband's cavalry troop was stationed. You see, I had stipulated when I enlisted that I should be assigned to my troop, and I was promised that I would be.

Fun with Raw Recruit.

"When we reached camp I began to look out for my husband, but it was not until the second day after my arrival that I had an opportunity of communicating with him, as he was away from camp foraging when I arrived. When he came into camp he was speedily apprised of my presence, although he had no idea who I was. The soldiers, most of them strapping big fellows, were disposed to make fun of me because I was small and slender and looked like a boy who would have been better off attached to his mother's apron string. It was considered a great joke among them that I had been taken as a soldier, and one who would be compelled to ride a horse and take care of it, too. So it wasn't long after my husband and his comrades returned to camp until they looked me up to have a little fun with the green soldier, although they were almost as green as I, having been in the service but a few weeks.

Wouldn't Go Home.

"When they found me, I was half sick, the hard work of the past few days having been a little more than I was accustomed to, and I felt more like falling into my husband's arms and having a good cry than acting like a real soldier. But I plucked up my courage and met them with as much of a soldierly bearing as I could. My husband recognized me instantly, and as soon as he could get an opportunity to have a few words with me in private, scolded me for coming, and tried to make me leave the service. But I wouldn't, and during the long struggle between the north and south I did the best I could in the service of my country. Although I am only a woman, I think I can say without egotism that there were worse soldiers than I in the service.

"I took part with my troop in a great many battles, and narrowly escaped capture several times. My horse was shot from under me once, and that was the only time I was really afraid during the entire war.

After the War Was Over.

"I received an honorable discharge after the war was over, and came home with my husband and settled down to the cares of a domestic life. I guess I am the only woman in this part of the country that ever served through the entire war as a soldier, but in spite of that fact, few people except my immediate relatives knew of my experiences."

Although discharged honorably, Mrs. Lindley never was able to receive a pension for her service, as she had enlisted under a fictitious name. Her husband died a few years ago, and since that time she has been drawing a widow's pension of $5 a month.

Mrs. Lindley is sixty-eight years of age, and despite the fact that she has lived a most simple life since she returned from the war, the hardships endured during that struggle have begun to tell on her, and she appears to be older. Even at this late day the fact that she served throughout the war is known to but few of her friends and acquaintances. She is always willing to tell of her experiences when questioned about them, but never volunteers any information.

Mrs. Lindley is perhaps the only woman in this state who has ever had the satisfaction of voting for a presidential candidate, as she cast her first and last vote for Lincoln while in the service.—Cleveland Leader.

TREATING THE WHITE PLAGUE

New Method to Destroy Germs Announced by a Distinguished Surgeon.

Sir Almeroth E. Wright, the famous pathologist in charge of St. Mary's hospital, London, and the discoverer of the "opsonic index," was a visitor in Philadelphia recently, and in the evening lectured at the College of Physicians before more than 100 of the most prominent physicians and surgeons of the city.

The English physician was the guest of Dr. Lawrence Flick, and the two have much in common, for Dr. Flick has devoted his life to treating tuberculosis, and Sir Almeroth claims to have discovered a method by which not only tuberculosis, but all germ diseases, can be cured by a kind of vaccination.

Dr. George W. Ross, who has been associated with Sir Almeroth in his work of experiment, accompanied the party in the visits they made during the day to several hospitals and the careful inspection they made of Phipps institute.

The lecture delivered by the Englishman was upon the subject of his discovery, "The Opsonic Index," and, while exceedingly technical, it aroused great enthusiasm among the auditors. In the language of a layman, the "opsonic index" means the power of the blood to destroy obnoxious germs, and Sir Almeroth's discovery consists in his method of giving the blood the necessary vitality to do the work of destruction.

But it is his method which has excited physicians the world over. The physician believes that inoculation with dead germs of a disease gives the blood power to destroy the living germs. Thus in a case of typhoid fever the patient is vaccinated with a dead typhoid germ.

The physician's discovery goes further, however. By the aid of a great series of charts founded upon experiments, he showed how it is possible for a physician immediately after such inoculation of a patient to see if the opsonic power of the blood has been increased and so regulate the treatment with great accuracy.

Sir Almeroth spoke in an exceedingly low tone, and had any of the ordinary speakers at the college attempted to give an address in like manner they would have found their audience vanishing. But the physicians were so excited that they fairly hung upon every word of the almost whispered address, and at the close scores of physicians were standing in the corridors and stretching their necks to see the charts and try to follow the whispered lecture.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Y. W. C. A. Notes.

Mr. George G. Wallace will speak at the gospel service Sunday afternoon at 4:30. Mrs. Birdell Donovan will sing. The attendance last Sunday was over 150. Let us keep it up during November. Refreshments will be served at 5:30. All women are invited.

Monday, November 12, will be observed as membership day. It is hoped that many new members and renewals will be brought in that day, thus making a big rally day by adding many new names to the roll. The names may be brought in any time during the day or evening.

The first of the entertainments provided by the educational committee for the members of the association will be given Monday evening, November 12. It will be a stereopticon lecture by Rev. E. H. Jenks on "The Land of the Pharaohs," and will be given in the First Presbyterian church. Members may secure tickets by calling at the office. A small admission will be charged to nonmembers.

The annual convention of the Nebraska Young Women's Christian associations will be held at Cotner university, Bethany, November 9 to 11. The Omaha association will be largely represented. Among the convention speakers are the following: Bertha Condi, national secretary; Mrs. Margaret Kyle Barbar of Lincoln, Mrs. Emma F. Byers of Omaha and Ethel Simonds, state secretary. Those desiring to attend should make arrangements at the office at once.

Land of the Sky Pilot.

"The Land of the Sky Pilot" was the subject of a lecture by Dr. W. Robert Coventry at the Immanuel Baptist church Friday evening. Dr. Coventry spent a number of years in that part of Canada where Ralph Connor has laid the scene of his story, "The Sky Pilot," and also enjoyed the personal friendship of the author. He edified his hearers with first-hand information regarding the land, people and their customs and dwelt at some length upon the characters and scenes in Mr. Connor's book, his portrayal of them being delightful. The lecture was delivered under the auspices of the W. W. society, the members of which deserve a great deal of credit for making possible the enjoyable evening.

FORTUNES FOR ALL WHO INVEST NOW

SAVES $9,711,655 A YEAR

Unusual Opportunity Now Offered the Man of Small Means to Become Independently Rich.

Every great electrical invention has made fortunes for its original stockholders. The American Bell Telephone Company has paid $200,000,000 for each $100,00 invested in its stock at its organization. Solicitors went from door to door in several cities begging people to buy the stock, but many laughed at the idea of there ever being a need for the telephone. It was hard to make investors see the possibilities of the business. Those who did are among the world's richest people.

Such chances are not often offered the small investor. The first such opportunity in a great many years, that gives every promise of duplicating the telephone in profits and universal demand is the electric Signagraph and Semaphore.

Some of the best-known railroad experts in America declare these instruments will prevent railroad collisions, of which there is an average of 500 a month in the United States. With these instrument [illegible] dispatcher has constant control over every train on his division. The Signagraph also gives privacy to party telephones and permits the sending of private telegrams to any one of 100 or more telegraph offices without the knowledge of other operators and without in any way interfering with the regular telegraph circuit.

RAILROAD APPROVES SYSTEM.

No extra wires are required. The cost is so small and the advantages are so great that it is predicted by some of the best experts in America that all railroads will adopt the system. One Signagraph is required for each telephone. There are over 12,000,000 telephones in use and at a monthly rental of 25 cents each—the amount offered—$36,000 instruments will earn $108,000 a year.

There are 250,000 miles of railroad in the United States, and less than 10 per cent is equipped with a signal service because of the inefficient systems here-before used and their great cost. If only one-twentieth of this mileage were equipped with the Signagraph and Semaphore the stockholders would earn $600,000 a year—85 per cent on the present selling price of the stock in addition to the revenue from the telephone company.

50,000 LIVES LOST.

More than $9,000,000 were lost last year in property destroyed in railroad collisions and 50,000 persons were killed or injured. The amount would cover the entire cost of the Signagraph and Semaphore system in every mile of railroad in the United States for two years and make the horrors of railroad collisions unknown.

Experts admit the necessity for these instruments. President Roosevelt has referred to the necessity for safety devices in his messages and $75,000 has been appropriated by Congress to be used in enforcing the safety-appliance law. Forty railroads have been indicted by the United States Attorney-General for violations of the law, and far-sighted investors are putting their money into the company.

Every statement made herein will be verified to the letter. A limited amount of the capital stock is now for sale. No one will be asked to invest a cent until he has thoroughly satisfied himself of the merits of the proposition. All who can are urged to come and see these instruments in operation. Those who cannot and want to know the full details of the company, its organization, its patents and what experts say of it should write at once for full particulars.

Stock is now rapidly selling at 45 cents a share, par value $1.00, fully paid and nonassessable. The price will be advanced to 50 cents a share as soon as the present block of 50,000 shares is disposed of. The right is reserved to advance the price without notice. Those who care to take this stock before the price advances may send their remittance with the distinct understanding that the entire remittance will be returned at any time within ten days of date of the order if they are not thoroughly satisfied with the proposition. In order to insure securing stock at the present price remittance should be sent at once. Payments are accepted in cash or installments of one-fourth down and one-fourth monthly until paid for. No subscription of less than 100 shares will be accepted. A discount of 5 per cent will be allowed on all subscriptions accompanied by remittance in full.

TOPICS FOR A DAY OF REST.

Apent the action of the Ministerial association of Sioux City pronouncing against choir music in the churches Rev. J. A. Hummon of the Kountze Memorial church of Omaha said Tuesday afternoon:

"I do think that there is somewhat of a tendency to run wild on church music, but then there are two sides to the question. I do think that a good choir has much to do with bringing people to church and especially where there is a tendency to singing the great oratorios, which supplant in a measure the craving for the opera of the theaters. Good music has a good influence when its purpose is to influence the mind toward Christ, and I think it has its effect in this way. Take our own church, for instance. We have had an addition of nearly 250 members during the last year, and I do think that our choir has had much to do with bringing these people to the church. Good choirs cannot hurt the cause of Christ."

Rev. J. W. Conley of the First Baptist church, Omaha: "I think that the statement accredited to one of the Sioux City members of the Ministerial association is rather too radical. There is a tendency among many of the churches to go to the extreme of the artistic feature in church music. The best of music should be produced in the churches, especially when it is applied to the spirit of devotion."

Rev. S. D. Dutcher of the First Christian church: "I am inclined to think that church choir music is being much overdone, there being too much of a tendency to the artistic in music. However, I am in favor of good choirs and good church music, in which the devotional spirit is made the first consideration. Good music will do much to attract people to the churches and is a very important and essential part of the church service. The chief aim is to induce people to come to church and if they can be attracted to the church by good, devotional choir music it is certainly a good thing to offer that attraction."

The attention of the members of most of the churches of Omaha is now principally directed toward the coming inauguration of the meetings at the Torrey-Oliver mission, which will be held at the Auditorium, commencing November 18. Mr. Oliver has kindly consented to supervise the organization of the campaign for the big series of evangelistic meetings to be held before the commencement of the mission by the two famed evangelists.

Mr. Oliver will have charge of the music, prayer meeting and publicity committees, and will remain in Omaha until the mission work is concluded.

Omaha and South Omaha have been divided into districts, for convenience, each with a leader who, with his lieutenants, is making a careful religious canvass of the cities. Cottage prayer meetings are also a feature of the advance work, and union services are being held in many of the churches and a union rally is to be held in each district on the evening of November 16, the Friday evening before the first mission meeting at the Auditorium.

A program of sacred music will be rendered at the Lyric theater Sunday at 4 p. m. by the Roney Boys' Concert company under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association, who will hold a mass meeting for men at that time. The concert company is directed by Henry B. Roney of Chicago and is composed of a number of boys of unusual musical talent, who have acquired considerable reputation since their debut at Chicago. All men are cordially invited to attend and no admission fee will be charged.

The program which will be rendered by the concert company is as follows:

Chorus—My Heart Ever Faithful.....Bach
Song—My Redeemer and My Lord..D. Bach
Master Glen Sherwood.
Solo and Quartet—O, for the Wings of a Dove ..... Mendelssohn
Master Marvin Power.

Offertory—Melody ..... Coleridge-Taylor
Anthem—O, Taste and See ..... Goss
Quartet and Chorus.
Postlude—Alleluia ..... Loret

The musical setting of the theme of the evening is an excerpt from the anthem by Briant, "Though Your Sins Be as Scarlet, They Shall Be as White as Snow." This theme is reiterated by choir and organ throughout the service. Martin W. Bush will preside at the organ and Ira B. Penniman direct.

There will be no services at the Seward Street Methodist church Sunday evening, as the Ministerial association has invited the members of the church to participate in a great missionary rally which will be held at the First Methodist church at that time. Regular services will, however, be held in the morning.

Music at First Baptist church under direction of Miss Margaret Boulter, organist:

The members of Calvary Baptist church, Twenty-fifth and Hamilton streets, will celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the church during the month. At the Sunday morning service the pastor will make a short address on the event, upon the conclusion of which communion services will be held, with the reception of new members. All members are requested to be present. A social entertainment will be given November 13.

Sunday being the fifty-ninth anniversary of the death of the great composer, Mendelssohn, the music at St. Mary's Avenue Congregation church will be chosen from the sacred works of that illustrious musician, who gave so much to sacred music in the form of oratorio, cantata, motet and anthem. Mr. Kelly has prepared a very elaborate program of music for each service, 10:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m., when all the service music, organ solos, anthems and solos, will be music written by Mendelssohn. Among the numbers will be the great motet for soprano solo and chorus, "Hear My Prayer," which will be given at both services by Mrs. Kelly and the choir. Mrs. Verne Miller, contralto, will sing "O Rest in the Lord" and Mr. Jessen, tenor, will sing "Then Shall the Righteous Shine," from the oratorio "Elijah," in the afternoon. In the morning Miss Julia Coburn will sing "But the Lord is Mindful of His Own," the famous contralto aria from the oratorio "St. Paul." The organ numbers will be: "Auf Fluegeln des Gesanges" ("On Wings of Song"), a beautiful transcription by the late George Whiting; a leading Boston organist, of the wonderful song by Mendelssohn; "The Andante," from the violin concerto, and "The Venetian Barcarolle." Mendelssohn was born Friday, February 3, 1809, and died November 4, 1847, at the early age of 38, having accomplished great things and having given to the world, among other wondrous works, the immortal oratorio of "Elijah."

The new pastor of the First Methodist church, Rev. F. L. Loveland, has succeeded in finding a member of his congregation who has generously offered to donate $2,500 for the purpose of rehabilitating the interior of the edifice. The woodwork of the church has been badly in need of attention for some time and the donation was very acceptable at this time.
