Evangelical Churches Have Other Than Their Own Pastors Sunday Mornine.

TORRY-OLIVER MISSION IS THE OBJECT

Great Religious Revival at Auditorium Heralded from All Pulpits at These Services Yesterday.

By an exchange of pulpits yesterday among the ministers of the city the people of the evangelical churches heard preachers other than their own.

The mission is now the principal topic of interest in the religious life of Omaha. A revival campaign of a month has been planned, lasting from November 15 to December 15.

Advertisement of the mission has been widespread, by billboard, by the press and from the pulpits, and there are few in the city who do not know that an evangelistic campaign covering the entire city and South Omaha will be begun in another week.

GOSSIP BRINGS THE BEST NEWS

Glad Tidings of Pardon from Sin by the Redeemer.

Rev. R. B. A. McBride, pastor of the Central United Presbyterian church, occupied the pulpit of Calvary Baptist church, Twenty-fifth and Hamilton streets, yesterday morning, taking for his theme, "Only by Your Measur of Life Be Worthy the Gospel of Christ."

"We can but ask ourselves, what was there in the gospel of Christ that made it possible for a man like Paul to argue with men until they accepted a position worthy of the gospel?" began the preacher.

"In the first place, the gospel brings good news and glad tidings of pardon from God, which is the best news that ever came into your or my life."

"We should ask ourselves, what sort of a life should we live to be worthy of such a gospel?"

Preliminary Exercises Conducted in Magnolia Hall to Avoid Chilly Air of the Outdoors.

The ceremonies preliminary to the laying of the cornerstone of the new Pearl Memorial Methodist Episcopal church were observed at Magnolia hall, Twenty-fourth street and Ames avenue, instead of out doors, Sunday afternoon on account of the chilliness of the weather.

A program had been prepared and was carried out under the direction of President Thomas E. Sturges of the Omaha Methodist union as master of ceremonies.

Following a brief address by President Sturges a ritual service was conducted by Rev. George A. Luoa, pastor of the new church. The formal ritual service governing ceremonies of this nature in the Methodist church were jointly carried out by Pastors D. W. McDevore, J. M. Leidy, William Eplin, Peter Munson and E. E. Hosman, with the responsive reading being conducted by Rev. Clyde Clay Cissell and participated in by the congregation.

Rev. J. Randolph Smith read the ritual lesson from 1st Corinthians, 11:3-22. Address by Dr. Loveland.

The principal address was delivered by Rev. Frank L. Loveland of First Methodist church. He pledged to the new church the cordial and hearty support of the First church. His prayers and help wherever and whenever possible.

He dwelt at some length upon the struggles of new churches, but admonished the new church to bear with fortitude whatever trials may be sent it and with the help of Christ the church would surely prosper.

THREE JUDGES ON JUVENILES

Sutton, Estelle and Kennedy Tell of Court's Help to Ervne Youth.

INCREASING EVIL DEMANDS STRONG AID

Dean Beecher, Judge Sutton Says, is Fixture of Juvenile Court Which They Say Has Come to Stay.

"Because many of us feel the church of God should be brought nearer to the churchless and homeless of our city I have invited three of the district judges to come here tonight to tell of some of the things which are of public interest which they have met in their work on the bench and in their official capacity, for we are aware of the actual conditions as they exist in the city of Omaha, today," said Dean Beecher at Trinity cathedral Sunday night when he introduced Judge Sutton, Judge Estelle and Judge Kennedy of the district court to speak before the large congregation.

"Dean Beecher has come to be a fixture in the juvenile court," said Judge Sutton. "The story of the juvenile court is one of the most beautiful stories in the land. Seven years ago there was no juvenile court nor no juvenile laws, but it was discovered that we were waiting too long and letting boys and girls become criminals before we undertook to remedy the wrong. Crime is increasing in Omaha in spite of the expense of a quarter of a million dollars, and so it has been decided to try to take care of these youngsters before they become criminals."

"The first thing a judge does in the juvenile court is to try to win the heart of the boy and to find the good side of him, for there is always a good side. Between 50 and 600 boys have been before the juvenile court, and of these ten have been sent to the industrial school and 100 have been sent to the detention home, and others have been provided for by other means. The last legislature gave the district judges charge of all wayward boys until they are 16 years old. The juvenile court is constantly reaching out to care for the child. The juvenile court has come to stay, and it is the duty of all to report all cases to this court and to assist wherever possible. Between 300 and 400 children have been moved from the slums of the city."

"The panacea for all ills is told to you each Sunday from this pulpit," said Judge Estelle, "but we are able to aid to some extent through the machinery of the courts. The thing which makes a juvenile court necessary is the constant stream of people who have for the laws of the land, not only those residing in the slums, but those who reside on the hillsides as well. It is not confined to those who come to court, and it has a reflex action on the child. Law means much more to the people of other nations than to the people of this great country of ours."

"That is the great danger which confronts this country today. Would you have heard of a great railway corporation being fined $200,000 if it had conformed to the law and had in the papers of this city yesterday of the chief executive of the city advising some 300 or 400 people to disobey the law?"

"Suffer little children to come unto Me, and the sweetest words to be found in this book," added Judge Estelle, and then he cited several instances before the juvenile court where the boys had been victims of contempt of law.

"The American family is the unit of the American nation and the home is the foundation of American civilization," said Judge Kennedy. "The object of the juvenile court was to supply the work of the home and to furnish corrective influences for those who have no home worthy of that name. The girls' cases are even more serious than those of the boys, and when they can't be handled here they are sent to Geneva."

"The court warns them against bad company and bad places, but it cannot provide a substitute. The court needs volunteers who would be friends to some of the boys or to the children's parents, who oftines need counsel."

WAITING FOR A RAILROAD

Thermopolis Expects Northwestern and Burlington to Compete for First Entrance.

Jerry Ryan, a ranchman of Thermopolis, Wyo., was at the Merchants Sunday singing the praises of that famous watering place. "We are all anxiously awaiting the time when a railroad will be run into our town and we think in the spring it will develop into a race between the Northwestern and the Burlington as to which road will get in first," said Mr. Ryan. "Both roads have surveys to the springs, the Burlington from Worland and the Northwestern from Shoshoni. I understand the Northwestern is doing some actual work this fall north from Shoshoni."

BLANK CARTRIDGES IN GUN

Both Shots Fired in Vain and Shooter is Knocked Down by Prowler's Fist.

George L. Rudd, 2465 Fort street, fired two shots at close range at a man whom he had found prowling around the house and who had knocked him down, when discovered, Saturday night, and then learned the reason neither shot did any harm was that both cartridges were blank. A little daughter of his brother, with whom he lives, first saw the prowler through the window, and when her uncle came in he took the family revolver and went out to investigate.

Rudd did not know the first two cartridges in the cylinder were blank, placed there purposely to avoid accident, and carried the gun ready for instant use. After walking around the premises he suddenly came upon a large man crouched in the shadows. Without warning the fellow straightened up and at the same time struck out a fist which caught Rudd on the jaw and knocked him over. It was then Rudd pulled the trigger while pointing at the law and he thought in the spring it will develop into a race between the Northwestern and the Burlington as to which road will get in first," said Mr. Ryan. "Both roads have surveys to the springs, the Burlington from Worland and the Northwestern from Shoshoni. I understand the Northwestern is doing some actual work this fall north from Shoshoni."

History of the Church.

The distance from other churches, the rapidly growing community and the large number of Methodist Episcopal people in the vicinity of Twenty-fourth street and Ames avenue made this a necessary enterprise and a splendid opportunity.

At present the membership reaches seventy-five, the Sunday school enrollment 100 and an Epworth league of twenty-four members. Those who know the field and hear all that the people say have reason to believe that each of these numbers will be easily doubled very soon after the new edifice is completed.

The new structure, when completed, will cost about $40,000, and will seat about 250 in the auditorium and 100 additional by opening the lecture room. There will be a full basement, to be used for Sunday school purposes, dining room, social, and in connection therewith a thoroughly equipped kitchen.

FIREMAN SERIOUSLY HURT

M. G. Herthly, Demented from Fall, Taken to Hospital with Broken Bones.

The condition of M. G. Herthly, the Union Pacific fireman who went to the police station last Wednesday night laboring under the hallucination that a gang of men was laying in wait ready to kill him and who was locked up for safekeeping, became such Saturday night as to necessitate his removal to the Omaha General hospital. Herthly fell from his engine near Grand Island and sustained injuries which evidently affected his mind. He was attended at the city jail by the city physician, and upon his removal to the hospital it was found that his left hip was badly bruised and it is believed he also suffered fractures of two ribs.
