I. wheat market today was a duplication of that of yesterday, the feature of the trading being the selling by local and obtuine longs, who were anxious to close out their resember holdings. There was also considerable selling of the December figurery by clevator interests. Notwithstanding the fact that the news of the day was favorable to the buils, the market of no time anowed recaperative powers. Liverwas favorable to the buils, the market at no time anowed recoperative powers. Liverpool Jahles were steady, despite yesterday's decline on the local exchange, and receipts in the northwest were again below these of the corresponding day last year. Weather throughout the spring wheat forthory was unitavorable, show in some sections interfering with the marketing of the new crep. The market isosed at standal support and the majority of offering was taken by shorts. The close was wear, with praces near the lowest point of the day. The market opened a shade to table the figure at 25%c, and sold off to 17%c and closed at 25%c. Clearances of wheat and nour was equal to 185,000 bu. Primary reciple were 41,000 bu, against 1.115,000 bu. for the same day last year. that they were not of the right kind. Thus that they were not of the right kind. Thus the supply of corn-fed cattle was made up almost entirely of half-fat or warmed-up steers, with almost no eattle that could be called really good. In fact the best cattle here this week were only good enough to bring $6.16, whereas a strictly good to choice lot ought to sell up to $6.25 at least. The tendency of prices even on the good kinds has been lower and the market can safely be quoted logisc lower than last week.

Owing to the very large supply of warmed-up cattle, which are never in good favor with buyers and which are invariably neglected as long as there is anything eise to be had, the market on that kind has had a gready downward tendency, but prices are so uneven that it is a hard matter to say just how much lower the market really is. Shippers ought to send in fewer warmed-up cattle until strer range stock has disappeared from the market.
Quite a good many range cattle good has disappeared from the market.

Quite a good many range cattle good enough for beet have arrived this week and have sold at fully steady prices, the market as a whole being in very satisfactory condition and cattle of this kind being very much preferred over the warmed-up corn-feds.

very much preferred over the warmed-up corn-feds.

The market on cows and heifers has declined fully 10g15c this week. Very little fed stuff is coming, the supply consisting principally of grassers, while good sinds have sold quite freely on most days. Common inferior grades have been rather duli. Good neasy feeders have sold at practically steady prices all the week, the demand being good right up to the supply. On the other hand light and inferior grades of stock cattle were slow sellers every day and receivers found it difficult work to keep the supply cleaned up. The result of the light demand for this latter kind caused prices to steadily decline and they are at the cause of the week light lower than one week ago.

HOGS—Hogs opened 5c lower this morning with the trade very slow at first. Sellers worked hard to maintain pices, out puckers were very bearish, and it being a Saturday, sellers were forced to uit loose at the decline noted. When the trade was Baturday, sellers were forced to unit loss at the decline noted. When the trade was once under way it was fairly active at the decline and a considerable proportion of the receipts had changed hands at 10 o clock in the morning. The most of the early sales ranged from $1.006.10, as against $2.006.15 yesterday. Some light loads sold up to $6.20, as against a top of $6.25 yesterday.

As the more urgent orders were filled and some of the buyers began dropping out the trade became slow again and at the same time advices of a much lower close at Chicago and other market points caused buyers who were still on the market to lower their b.ds. The result was that the market closed very slow and duil and generally like lower than yesterday.

The hog market this week has shown no groat change as compared with last week. During the first half of the week under the influence of the hard pounding on the part of packers prices were forced steadily downward, so that on Wednesday hogs sold about 10c lower than at the close of the previous week. On Thursday and Friday values bounded upward, making up all the loss and more too. On Friday the average market was the highest that it had been any day since October 13. Today's decline wipes out some of the savance, leaving the general market a shade easier than it was at the ciose of last week.

Foreign Financial.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—In the market today money was in better supply and obtainable at easier rates. Discounts were firm. On the Stock exchange good business was transacted for Saturday at hardening rates. Consols and other first-class security is benefited by the easier money outlook and the further influx of gold into the Bank of England, while home rails received attention from investors. Foreigners were well supported on Paris advices. Americans opened firm and advanced to considerably over parity on good buying for local as well as American account. Union Pacific was the feature, but the whole list was supported in anticipation of a satisfactory New Tork bank statement, the market closing firm. Japanese imperial & of 100 closed at 160%.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Prices on the Bourse to day were firm, with the exception of Turas which weakened on the rumors of the death of the sultan. The tone, however, generally was better than yearerday. The private rate of discount was $74. per cent. Foreign Financial.

in the annals of African lion shooting. A. the leader, a short man, brave as a gamecock, was armed with a double-barrelled cordite .650 rifle which kicked like a mule and developed a muszle energy which would bowl over an elephant. Around his middle was suspended a Webley revolver loaded with hollow pointed bullets, and from his belt hung a buge knife, watches, compasses, notebook and other impedimenta "recommended to sportsmen." Behind him stalked a doughty heathen carrying a second rifle, a Lee-Metford carbine, loaded, at full cock, and with the cutoff open. B, a larger edition of A. was, with the exception of the knife, similarily armed and had also an attendant carrying a second rifle.

Next in order came X, wearing a white helmet and armed with a Lee-Metford rifle and a revolver, a flery man, keen as mustard and eager for the fray. Y followed him, a man of elephantine build, wh se rubicund countenance glowed with excitement. Z, armed similarly to the others, took up the rear. Behind followed a mixed crowd carrying shotguns, spears, axes, knobkeries, cameras on stands, luncheon baskets and other impedimenta eagerly scanning the bush and ready to drop their loads and clear at the first sign of danger The bow and arrow man in his capacity as forest. Near its center was a clump of UNION STATION-TENTH AND MARCY tall grass and on one side and to their rear was a pool of water. Into the grass the blood spoor led. "Alipo!" and to deploy to the left in front of it, while the beaters from the other side drove the brute out into a semicircle of rifles. The maneuver began. With all rifles at fuil cock, A led the column toward the clump a bayonet attack. Though it raked her from stem to stern the bullet missed her heart. Simultaneously A's and B's rifles cracked, or rather boomed. The beast died in midair as she made her spring. She fell on X. laying him out on the ground. She never even twitched a musele, but X's troubles were by no means over. A tremendous fusiliade from all rifles except those carried by A and B was opened on the corpse as it lay on top of X. One boy completely emptied his magazine hefore the firing was stopped. X was extreated shaken but not burt, and unscathed by bullets.—London Field.
